71 Air Guard Reserve Units Are Alerted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force Tuesday alerted 71 Air National Guard and Air Reserve units for "possible" call-up, designating them as priority outfits for federal service if a summons is issued.

Although only preparatory, this was the first definite step by the Defense Department under the administration's new defense build-up program.

They fly tactical fighters, reconnaissance planes and transports.

About 750 planes are involved, of which approximately 100 are transports and the rest fighters or reconnaissance aircraft.

The units are authorized to bring themselves up to full strength. This means they will have to recruit about 5,000 men, to add to an approximate present strength of about 28,000.

Swift Trial Faces Plane Hijacker

Shot Two Men In Attempt To Take Over Ship

CHICO, Calif. (AP)—A husky construction worker faced swift prosecution Tuesday for shooting two men in an attempt to hijack a passenger plane to fly him to Smackover, Ark. He said he was in a hurry to become reconciled with his second wife.

The victims, shot in Britt's abortive attempt to hijack the plane Monday night, were Capt. Oscar Cleal, 42, of Menlo Park, Calif., a pilot for Pacific Airways, and Bill Hicks, 35, Chico, a company ticket agent.

Cleal lost the sight of his left eye, and was in critical condition.

Hicks was shot in the back. He was expected to recover, although his condition was serious.

Lyde said Britt told him he wanted to reach Smackover in a hurry and make upwith his second wife, Melba. They have a 7-month-old son, George.

Britt said he planned the hijacking for two weeks after reading how a Cuban forced the pilot of an American plane to fly him to Cuba.

Three passengers helped overpower Britt.

James Rowley Named Head Of Secret Service

WASHINGTON (UPI) — James J. Rowley, who for 22 years has guarded the lives of four American presidents, Tuesday was named chief of the U. S. Secret Service.

A 52-year-old son of Irish parents, Rowley has been head of the White House Secret Service detail since 1946. He joined the detail in 1939.

A branch of the Treasury Department, the Secret Service has the double job of protecting the President and also enforcing federal laws against counterfeiting. Rowley will take over Aug. 31 from U. E. Baughman, who has retired.

Handsome, dedicated, and reticent, Rowley has won the respect of reporters who follow the President. They spontaneously applauded when his appointment was announced by White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger.

Rowley has made every trip with the President he guards, both in and out of the United States. His wife, Rita, and three children, Claudia, 19; Linda, 15, and Donna, 14, are used to his being away.

They refer to the White House as the "house" and see a lot of him on television standing next to the President.

He described his $18,500-a-year job as "a new challenge."

Top in the running for Rowley's White House job is Gerald Behn, now assistant in charge of the detail and the man seen most of the time standing closest to Kennedy in public. Behn, 45, a native of Forest Park, Ill., has been with the Secret Service since 1939 and at the White House since 1941.

U.S.-Soviet May Expand Cultural Exchange Plans

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department announced Tuesday a tentative U.S.-Soviet agreement to hold talks in November on broadening the cultural exchange program between the two countries for 1962-63.

At the same time it was disclosed that the Americans have complained to Moscow about Soviet foot-dragging on certain exchange programs in which the Reds don't show much interest.

The Americans hope to make progress in ironing out the difficulties by the time they get around to signing a new agreement.

The officially sponsored exchanges of scientists, athletes, artists and others between the two countries are carried on under an agreement first signed in January, 1958, and renewed in November, 1959.

The Soviet reluctance on some exchanges was attributed by some U.S. officials to a difference between Washington and Moscow on what each wants to get out of the program. The current cold war tension was not seen as the main cause.

McNamara Asks Fallout Fund

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara Tuesday asked Congress for authority and funds to build fallout shelters to protect 45-50 million Americans from nuclear attack at a cost of $4 per person.

He told congressional committees that President Kennedy's new Civil Defense plan would save millions of lives in case of an atomic strike against the United States. The shelters would be provided in existing buildings.

McNamara made his case in an appearance before a House government operations subcommittee and in closed-door testimony made public by the House Armed Services Committee. The defense chief took over Tuesday as boss of most Civil Defense work.

The defense secretary told the government operations subcommittee he wants to spend $93 million to locate and mark available shelter space in cities throughout the country. This would provide fallout protection for about one-fourth of the population.

The shelters would be supplied with emergency rations for a five-day period and a two-week's supply of water for each person at the rate of a quart a day.

East Germany Steps Up Tempo To Isolate West

More Refugees Defy Red Warnings

BERLIN (AP) — Communist East Germany Tuesday increased the tempo of threats to isolate West Berlin and cut off the flow of Germans fleeing from Red rule. But more East German refugees poured into West Berlin in the darkening political climate.

At Marienfeld Camp, officials said 1,322 more East Germans had arrived in the past 24 hours through the Berlin escape hatch. That was almost one-third more than a week ago.

Officials announced that July set a record since the troubled days of 1953, with over 32,000 officially registered. Informed sources said the actual number may be nearer 40,000 since many did not register.

Accuse West

The East German Central Democratic Bloc, a fellow-traveling political body, warned "all citizens of the German Democratic Republic to avoid trips and visits to West Berlin in the interests of their own security, their family and the cause of peace."

The Communists say the West is luring its citizens to West Germany by employing "trades in human beings." A Communist prosecutor in East Berlin Tuesday asked sentences of up to 15 years in prison for five people charged with being such "traders." The trial was being televised.

East Germans who have to go to Berlin every day — because they have jobs there—were being put under greater pressure by the Communists. According to some estimates, these border crossers number as many as 80,000. Some have been called to police headquarters and told bluntly to find jobs in East Berlin.

Letter From Mayor

Friedrich Ebert, mayor of East Berlin, wrote Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin that the border crossers constitute a problem which is "growing more urgent all the time." Brandt said there would be no comment.

New regulations of the East German Communist regime went into effect requiring all planes

Admiral Rickover Has Heart Attack

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, the controversial "father of the atomic submarine," has suffered a mild heart attack.

Rickover, 61, was admitted to the U.S. Naval Hospital in nearby Bethesda, Md., July 25 but his ailment was not disclosed until Tuesday.

The Navy said Rickover "is now sitting up and his condition is considered excellent."

A brief statement said no surgery was performed.

Rickover, a blunt and outspoken Annapolis graduate who is credited with the development of the Navy's atomic powered submarine fleet despite old guard Navy objections, passed retirement age last Jan. 27.

But former Defense Secretary Thomas S. Gates in the Eisenhower administration asked him to stay on duty another two years. This request later was repeated by President Kennedy. Admirals normally retire at 60.

Goals Set In Cancer Research

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A Stanford University surgeon named five goals Tuesday which he said cancer researchers are hopeful of obtaining in the 1970's.

Dr. John W. Cline associate professor of surgery at Stanford, told a meeting of the International Association of Laryngectomees that because of the vast amount of work to be done "the dream of complete cancer control within a decade must be called a hope."

The association is comprised of persons who have lost their voice boxes to cancer.

Goals mentioned were:

—Evidence of what relationship viruses have to cancer in man and, assuming such a relationship exists, subsequently a vaccine.

—Knowledge of how to prevent certain cancers which are not now preventable.

—Drugs that will control at least one or two types of cancer.

—Improvements in diagnosis and treatment.

Two Die In Crash Of Air Force Jet

The Air Froce said the TF104, a training version of the Delta Dagger jet interceptor, sank within ten minutes, carrying Capts. Thomas Mellen and Donald Underkolfer to their deaths. Mellen's parents live in Mountain Home, Idaho, while Underkolfer's wife and three children live here.

The pilot of a helicopter which reached the scene within minutes reported he could see only two helmets and an ejected seat floating on the water.

MacMillan Sees Meeting This Year

White House Says Such A Session Is Certainly Possible

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House said Tuesday it is "certainly possible" that a summit meeting of Western heads of government will be held before the year is out.

Press secretary Pierre Salinger made the statement when asked about a comment by British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan in the House of Commons that leaders of the West might get together this year.

Talk of such a conference has intensified in recent weeks in view of the growing Soviet threat to the West's position in Berlin and other cold war conflicts between the East and West.

Salinger said no meeting is planned at present. But he added: "It is certainly possible that there will be a meeting of Western leaders before the end of the year."

He made plain that he was speaking of a gathering of government heads when he referred to Western leaders, noting that Western foreign ministers already have a definite meeting planned for the end of this week. The foreign ministers will meet in Paris.

Salinger said he did not know whether Macmillan had discussed the prospect with President Kennedy before remarking in London that a conference was possible.

Administration Rallies Forces On Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) —Administration leaders took a no-compromise stand Tuesday on President Kennedy's five-year foreign aid program.

"We will accept no compromise at this time," said Rep. Thomas E. Morgan, D-Pa., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Some legislators, including Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., have said the administration may have to settle in the end for a three-year program.

The House committee gave its formal approval to the five-year plan in a 27-4 vote endorsing a preliminary action of last week. The committee cut $407 million from Kennedy's current-year request for $4,762,500,000 in foreign aid funds but approved his five-year $8.8-billion development loan plan.

Morgan and Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, accompanied Democratic congressional leaders to their weekly White House breakfast session with President Kennedy.

They said afterward that foreign aid was the main topic of discussion.

House Speaker Sam Rayburn, D-Tex., told a news conference the administration program is this country's answer to Communist advances in underdeveloped nations around the world.

Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, the Senate Democratic leader, said Kennedy told the congressional leaders he regards the five-year loan program, which would be financed by Treasury borrowings, as "vital."

Change Of Command

Anderson Succeeds Burke At Navy Helm

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (UPI) — Adm. Arleigh A. Burke retired Tuesday as chief of U. S. naval operations and turned over the helm to Adm. George W. Anderson Jr. with assurance that "the fleets are manned and ready — our Navy is strong and alert."

Anderson, 54, immediately dispatched a message to naval units throughout the world expressing determination to keep the Navy "on course and steaming strong."

Burke, known as "31-knots" for the way he drove his destroyers at high speed in World War II, ended his unprecedented six-year term in a full honors ceremony at the naval academy where he began his career 42 years ago.

In a farewell to the Navy, Burke warned that "there will be heavy seas ahead" for the nation and "we will need steadfast, determined courageous people to ride them out."

Retiring just short of 60, Burke said that the one constant influence on the affairs of men and nations is seapower—naval power.

The free world, he said, is united physically by the seas and is a maritime confederation able to send its strength "wherever and whenever our hard-won liberty is threatened."

To Anderson, the third aviator ever to reach the Navy's top military office Burke said:

"It is with great pride that I can say to Adm. Anderson, the fleets are manned and ready, courageous captains and crews are ready for battle, our Navy is strong and alert and all hands stand ready for the challenges that lie ahead."

Anderson left command of the U.S. 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean to go to Washington and head the Navy.

Previous aviators who served as chief of naval operations were the late Adms. Ernest J. King in World War II and Forrest P. Sherman in the Korean War.

JFK-Chen Cheng Air Strategy On Red China

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Nationalist China reportedly were agreed Tuesday on general principles to be adopted at the United Nations next month in opposing Communist China's bid for representation in the world body.

But differences in tactics were still under discussion following two meetings between President Kennedy and Chen Cheng, Nationalist China's vice president and prime minister.

Both Chinese Ambassador George K. C. Yeh and U.S. Ambassador to Formosa Everett F. Drumright agreed that the two days of consultations had brought better understanding of the general position of the two sides.

Chen told newsmen later that his country will use every power it has under the United Nations charter to block the entry of Communist Outer Mongolia into the United Nations.

As a permanent member of the Security Council, Nationalist China has a veto.

Firestone, grandson of industrialist Harvey S. Firestone, has oil interests and is a well-known racehorse owner. He and his bride will honeymoon for six months in Hawaii, Bermuda and Europe.

Huge Defense Build-Up To Result From Nation's Biggest Peacetime Military Budget

By JERRY T. BAULCH

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Appropriations Committee Tuesday voted unanimously to give President Kennedy every penny of the $3.5 billion he asked for the new defense alert and then boosted the increase to $4.5 billion.

The extra $1 billion—earmarked for bombers, missiles and other things—raised the defense budget for the fiscal year that started July 1 to $47 billion. It's the biggest peacetime military bill in U.S. history.

The total is over $4 billion more than the House voted June 28 and tops the military budget Congress approved last year by $6.5 billion.

Apart from the purely military build-up, it includes Kennedy's request for $207.6 million to accelerate sharply the civil defense effort—a role recently assigned to the Pentagon.

Meanwhile, the Air Force took the first step toward getting ready in case Kennedy decides to bolster the regular forces with reserves. The Air Force told 64 Air National Guard and 7 Air Reserve units they "may be ordered to active duty" and advised them to be prepared.

Involved were units in 28 states and the District of Columbia.

The committee, in giving the President more financial freedom to counter the Soviet threat at Berlin and elsewhere, added an economy footnote. It urged "more evidence of cost consciousness on the part of both civilians and uniformed personnel in the defense establishment."

It is suggested, the committee said, that civilian officials, admirals and generals "give particular attention to the practice of austerity in connection with their privileges in order to set an example and to popularize the idea of getting the most fight out of each tax dollar."

The senators, responding to the sense of urgency which Kennedy expressed last week in asking for more defense funds, called upon America's free world Allies to gird themselves also.

The North Atlantic Treaty Organization nations should provide the military forces they promised for the joint effort, the committee said, adding: "It is only reasonable to expect that all nations of the free world living under the threat of Soviet aggression do their part by providing the military strength to which they have agreed."

Sen. A. Willis Robertson, D-Va., manager of the defense money bill, described it as "a balanced program between capacity for nuclear war and capacity for more limited conflicts." He added that "it provides a prudent reinforcement of the conventional strength for our armed forces."

Robertson said he hopes to get Senate action on the bill Thursday but may not be able to do so before Saturday. This would follow quickly on the heels of Monday's final approval by Congress of Kennedy's request for authority to call up to 250,000 reservists into military service and to extend active duty tours and enlistments one year.

The President signed that measure Tuesday.

The biggest item in the $1-billion extra was $525 million to continue production of heavy long-range jet bombers. It also backed up House action by voting $448 million to push development of the high-flying B70 supersonic jet as a usable weapon.

The committee's report predicted that manned strategic bombers will continue to be an important part of the nation's military might in the future.

And while providing more funds than asked for missiles, the committee questioned "whether this nation can afford to place full dependence on an operationally untried and untested missile force."

"In case of a nuclear (weapons) ban, ballistic missiles would be useless," the report said.

The committee did not specify which kind of bomber should be bought with the extra $525 million. But Robertson noted that Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, Air Force chief of staff, has said he prefers the latest model of the B52 to the faster but shorter-range B58.

The committee directed the Defense Department to supply Congress before next year with "a firm program for the B70." Its goal would be to place "the required number of wings in operational configuration at the earliest possible date."

The administration had asked only $220 million for the B70, limited to developing it as an experimental craft. The House voted $448 million with a directive to spend part on full development of the plane, which is being designed to fly three times the speed of sound. The Senate went along with this.

In the total budget, the committee kept all items the House had added before passing the bill June 28 but knocked out some House restrictions. Among the latter were limitations on military travel pay.

Under the bill, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara would have authority to shift up to three per cent of the funds from one category to another if this did not raise the total for any single item more than six per cent.

As approved by the committee, the money is divided: Army—$11,868,152,000; Navy — $14,529,680,000; Air Force — $18,932,415,000; Office of the Secretary of Defense — $1,310,445,000; Civil Defense — $207,600,000.

The funds will permit 2,743,227 active-duty military personnel by next July 1—an increase of 261,560 over the July 1 total. These can include 1,008,000 in the Army, 657,000 in the Navy, 190,000 in the Marine Corps and 888,227 in the Air Force.

Plumbers Union Strikes Plant In Hagerstown

Mack Truck Co. Work Is Slowed

James Donlin, business agent for Local 769 of the union, said the workers were seeking a new hourly pay scale of $3.75 — a 25-cent boost over wage provisions of the old contract.

There was no disagreement over fringe benefits involved in the dispute, Donlin said.

William Seeds, supervisor for Darin and Armstrong of Detroit, general contractor on the project, said all other craft union workers continued on the job.

The plant is scheduled for completion in the fall. A spokesman for Mack Trucks, from the company's headquarters at Plainfield, N.J., said the company was not directly concerned in the dispute.

However, the spokesman said the company was concerned about "what its effect may be on our ability to get the plant opened on schedule."

He indicated a delay in construction could affect the company hiring program.

East Germany

crossing its territory to report to an East German air safety center. It was thought that might be used as an excuse to interfere with Western flights to Berlin. Western planes must cross East Germany to get to West Berlin and they report to a special four-power air safety center in Berlin.

But air traffic moved normally all day. A Soviet officer reported as usual in the morning to the Berlin air safety center.

Many refugees crowding into West Berlin expected the East Germans to announce a new issue of identity cards Aug. 1. New cards, with different colors for different regions of East Germany, would make it harder for refugees to reach Berlin — their main escape hatch. Any Communist policeman could see at a glance whether they had authorization to be in Berlin. But there were no new cards.

Four Marylanders Killed In Tennesse

JONESBORO, Tenn. (AP) — Four Maryland residents were killed and one injured critically Tuesday when their convertible plunged down an 80-foot embankment near this Northeast Tennessee town.

The dead were identified by funeral home attendants as Ernest Sherman, 47, Geneva Sherman, 50, Jane Elizabeth Sherman McNeil, 22 and David Eugene McNeil, 22.

Ernest and Geneva Sherman of Riverdale, Md., were husband and wife, as were Jane and David McNeil, who lived at Bladensburg. Sonny Sherman is the son of the Shermans.

Highway Patrol Sgt. Harry Montgomery said there was a chance the car may have been sideswiped and knocked from the road. He said there were no eyewitnesses.

Clerk Denies Payoff Charge

TOWSON, Md. (AP)—The chief clerk of the Baltimore County Elections Board Tuesday denied a civil suit charge that he threatened to cancel a contract for purchase of card index system unless he received 10 per cent of the sale price.

"This came as a complete shock to me and there is not one word of truth in it," said Maurice W. Baldwin, the clerk named in the action filed by the Price Co.

Baldwin labeled the charge an attempt "to get even with the present board which cancelled the contract."

The company in its suit asked full recovery on the contract cost plus all court costs.

YCC And GI Bills Get Green Light

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Labor Committee voted Tuesday for a 150,000-man Youth Conservation Corps and for a "cold war GI education bill." Neither vote is likely to please President Kennedy.

The youth corps bill approved by the committee would set up a corps 25 times larger than the one recommended by the President. The GI bill was actively opposed by administration leaders.

The President's opposition to the bills was based on economy, not principle.

Youths between the ages of 16 and 21 could enroll for six months to work on projects sponsored by government conservation, park, forest, and wildlife agencies.

The GI bill, sponsored by Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., would give veterans discharged since Jan. 31, 1955, the same college education and other benefits received by veterans of World War II and the Korean War.

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Federal Bureau of Investigation Tuesday announced the arrest of two 19-year-old enlisted men charged with the theft of about $3,000 worth of merchandise from a Navy exchange store at the Patuxent Naval Air Station.

The FBI identified the pair as David Mitchell Cline and Royce Booth Primm, both natives of Wythe County, Va., and both stationed at the Southern Maryland base.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Sen. John Marshall Butler, R-Md., said Tuesday the administration should "go on a bureaucratic diet and eliminate from its menu expendable, non-defense programs and projects."

The Republican senator said a reduction in non-essential spending was the alternative to a tax hike in fiscal 1962 to finance a current defense buildup.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Gas Light Co. began a rate reduction Tuesday to pass on to its 400,000 customers a $3,612,024 refund from its supplier.

School Fallout Shelter To Be Open For Viewing

President Kennedy's talk to the nation has made the public know that the matter of Civil Defense is a vital one.

So, residents of this section will be able to see the fallout shelter that was constructed by high school students from Allegany and Fort Hill high schools beneath the stage of Fort Hill's auditorium.

W. D. Lonnholm, supervisor of vocational education for the Board of Education, said the shelter will be open for inspection Wednesday, Thursday and Friday from 7 to 9:30 p. m.

On one night, Lee Alexander, vocational education instructor at Fort Hill, whose students did the wiring and finishing work, will be host.

Another night, the Allegany High school class instructor, Wallace Walker, will be the guide. The AHS class did the brick and cement block work.

On the third night, a representative of the Allegany County Civil Defense organization will be on hand to explain the necessity of building a fallout shelter.

All three men will give necessary information for the construction of the home shelters together with their equipment.

Yellow Foliage Caused By Spray

Irwin said that some of the yellowing is caused by spraying along power lines, roads and railroads. He said that the spray often is carried by the wind to trees 150 yards away.

The situation is only temporary, Irwin said. He also said that there has been so much rain in recent months that the foliage of all trees is greener than usual and any yellowing is more noticeable.

Locust trees are very susceptible to any foreign matter and various diseases, but the situation is no cause for alarm, he added.

College Busy Getting Ready For Fall Term

Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of schools, announced the progress that has been made in the short time since the college plan was given the green light by the Board of Allegany County Commissioners.

Dr. Robert S. Zimmer, dean of the evening and extension division of the Montgomery Junior College, was hired as president of the new college here on July 25 and with the announcement of his acceptance of the position reaction has been spontaneous and gratifying, Webster said.

Yesterday Dr. Zimmer acted to set up a library at the school to be located in vacant Carver School.

He met with Miss Mae Graham, supervisor of school libraries, and Miss Nettie B. Taylor, director of the division of library extension, both of the State Department of Education.

The basic books needed for the establishment can be acquired in time for the opening of the college, which, if all goes right, will be in September.

Yesterday applications for prospective students were printed and they will be ready for distribution in several days.

Since the approval of the junior college by the county commissioners the Board of Education administrative office staff has been receiving from 12 to 20 calls from students daily.

A book of information concerning the college, its courses, objectives and requisites is being prepared and will be available soon for prospective students.

Webster pointed out that there will be two types of students.

One will be those who will take two years of junior college work in the fields of arts and sciences, business administration and engineering who wish to go on to another school of higher learning and get their degrees in those fields.

The other type attending will be the special student who wishes to take some specific course in the field of his line of work.

Dr. Zimmer is working on the faculty and today will interview one of the three applicants for registrar.

The initial steps being taken will be the start of the library, hiring a registrar, a dean and a librarian.

Without any advertisement, with the exception of printed stories about developments, the Board of Education has received approximately 20 applicants for teaching positions, three for registrar and one for a dean.

A rundown of these proves very interesting. One of the candidates read of the appointment of Dr. Zimmer in a Buffalo, N. Y., newspaper last week and submitted his application.

Another wanted to be considered for a position next year as he is leaving next month for a year's teaching in Pakistan.

Still another is a retired regular Army officer, a West Pointer, who went back to college after his retirement to get his advanced degrees in teaching and mathematics.

Some of the candidates for the initial faculty are from this section and have been teaching in other institutions of higher education.

The courses, requirements for admission, and fees will be announced later, Webster said.

Civil Service Unit Files Annual Report With City

The Cumberland Civil Service Commission in its annual report to the Mayor and Council says it feels the personnel system "has been strengthened and with the continued cooperation of the Mayor and Council, the various department heads and supervisors, the system can be further improved to the benefit of each employe as well as to the efficient operation of all departments."

It noted that June 30 marked the first full year in which the city has operated under a classification and pay plan for city employes. The commission said it was its opinion that ordinances establishing the system were adequate to provide a satisfactory personnel system over a period of time. After its adoption, however, a flood of requests for reclassification prompted the commission to ask that requests be held up a year or until the system had a chance to prove itself. The Mayor and Council then felt it necessary to have an on-the-job study made and the Department of Employment Security conducted the study. The study has been completed and job description forwarded to Milton Millon, director of the Municipal Technical Advisory Service, for classification.

The commission recommended that when adopted, the new plan be given an opportunity to prove itself by permitting it to operate for as long a period as possible without change.

Receipt of the complete file of job descriptions, classification and pay, is expected to require some minor changes in present ordinances, the commission said, adding "We realize that any new ideas adopted or proposed improvements made in a system will create the need to make other changes to make any program as fair and equitable for each employe as possible."

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, July 31 - Gary Crosby's run of bad luck, and bad health - is just about over I'm very happy to report. Not only is Bing's eldest son recuperating from his siege of nervous exhaustion, but today he was informed by 20th Century Fox that his old contract has been torn up and he is being given a new one with an increase in salary.

Gary's comeback movie (he hasn't appeared before the cameras in a year) will be "Beardless Warriors," Richard Mathewson's drama of teenagers drafted into the service of their country. It gives Gary a big acting chance.

It also gives him about two months more of rest because Richard Zanuck will produce it for 20th - and Zanuck has to complete "The Chapman Report" at Warners.

Wait 'til the baseball addicts hear this: The aristocracy of the American League, Mickey Mantle, Yogi Berra and Roger Maris, turn movie actors long enough to film some scenes with Doris Day and Cary Grant in "Touch of Mink" when the Yankees come to Los Angeles in three weeks to play the Angels.

There's a sequence in the U-I comedy when Cary takes Doris to a baseball game and the stars will share some close-ups with the two hottest batsmen in baseball and the great catcher. Roger Maris is running hot to overtake Babe Ruth's home run record, having piled up 40 so far this season to Ruth's all-time high of 60. And Mantle isn't far behind. Producer Robert Arthur, a baseball fan, can hardly wait for these scenes.

Out-bidding Elia Kazan and Josh Logan, actor-director Robert Gist comes up with the stage and screen rights to Edna St. Vincent Millay's only full length play, "Conversations at Midnight," having just closed the deal with the famed poetess' sister, Norma Millay.

It's Gist's plan to present the unusual property much as "Don Juan In Hell" was done with famed movie and stage "names" in the roles of the six characters, The Idealist, Man of The Cloth, Iconoclast, Communist, Socialist and Fatalist who hold the title "Conversations at Midnight." If negotiations go through with the Huntington Hartford Theater the play will open in Los Angeles before heading for Broadway and later for the screen.

While Ginny (Mrs. Reese) Milner was visiting Soraya in Germany, she traveled extensively through West Berlin, Munich and other German cities that are governed by Adenauer. I asked her what the feeling was among the people, and she said, frankly, that many of them were worried since they didn't know whether the U. S. would come to their aid because of all the walk about Cuba.

"Now that President Kennedy has made it clear that we will support them all the way, there'a a better feeling," she told me. "There is much talk that there's a shortage of food in Russia, and they cannot take care of their own people, much less their satellites. The situation for food is really desperate."

Hard for me to believe that any sets could be more elaborate and costly than Oliver Smith designed for "Camelot." But figures don't lie and I'm told that this same Mr. Smith has done even more elaborate settings for "Sail Away," Noel Coward's new play opening in Boston soon. One of the sets alone, showing the three decks of a luxury liner is said to be one of the most expensive ever constructed. To date $400,000 has been spent.

Of course, all of "Dear Noel's" friends will come up from New York for the brilliant first night, including Lynn Fontanne, Alfred Lunt, Dorothy Parker and many more, to get an eye-popping view of the show and listen to the delightful typically Coward lyrics.

On the 20th lot working in a "Follow The Sun" TV segment, Inger Stevens said she's still having nightmares over the close call she had in Lisbon, Portugal, a couple of weeks ago when the plane in which she was a passenger crashed in flames. Inger said she had been on a wholesale shopping spree in Europe and all her purchases which she valued at $15,000, to say nothing of her jewelry, were all lost.

When she was asked about her romance with Alan Livingston she said that it's still on but she's moving to New York in a month to work there.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Mario Costello, heir to the King Ranch fortune, who is playing a role in "The Comancheros," at 20th, and Singer Connie Stevens have discovered each other and had two dates last week.

A bit of black and blue has been added to Kim Novak's favorite color, purple, as the result of a violet fight scene in "The Notorious Landlady." Kim was so bruised, in addition to having a cold, that she's now in bed.

Former Irene Kahn, recently divorced from Arthur Marx, was quietly married two weeks ago in Arizona to musician Leonard Atkins.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gormley of Boston, who are the original President Kennedy boosters, are the houseguests of Mrs. Gormley'a brother, Jimmy McHugh.

Patricia Owen has been offered a movie in England and she wants to accept because her parents have not yet seen her six months old baby - Jerry Nathanson's child.

Carroll Baker flew to Paris Monday to be fitted by Balmain for the wardrobe she'll wear to the Venice film festival, where her movie "Bridge To The Sun" has been entered.

Ben Lyon writes from Antibe that he and Bebe and Val and Helen Parnell went to Monte Carlo with Jack Warner. "We heard 'Louella' played on the French radio," he said, "and we missed you."

The pretty young discover of Burt Lancaster, Pilar Seurat, who was in "The Young Savages" goes from movies to Broadway. She'll play opposite Frederic March in "Gideon," Paddy Chayefsky's Broadway play.

Three no trump was reached with dispatch. A diamond opening would have sunk the contract but, in view of West's heart holding, such a lead would have been abnormal. West led the eight of hearts which declarer won with the ten.

Cashable assets appeared to be two hearts, one diamond, three spades, and a club (seven tricks). It behooved declarer, therefore, to try to develop the club suit for three tricks.

As for handling the clubs, the accepted technique is to play on the theory that the king and jack are in different hands—in other words, to take two finesses. On this reasoning he led the queen of clubs and his goose was cooked when West showed out.

South's theory of play had been sound, but his selection of the card to lead in attacking the clubs left something to be desired. Observe that, had he led a lower card than the queen, the disaster would have been averted for he would have learned of West's void in time. He would then, of course, have gone up with the ace and played back to his hand.

The initial play of the queen will gain a trick whenever East has the singleton jack. On the other hand, the play of the low card will gain a trick when West has a singleton king. These cancel out. However, when West is void, the play of the queen loses a trick, which, as in this case, may be vital to the contract.

Good Memory

VENICE, Italy (AP)—Checking into the Gritti Palace Hotel, the Duke of Windsor showed he was not one to forget a bit of baggage. Informants said he called the hotel porter to inquire about 11 bottles of liquor he left when he was last at the hotel in 1957. The liquor was promptly returned.

The Sudan is about the size of the United States east of the Mississippi River.

DR. T. C. GREEN

West Virginia Veterinarian Ends Service

CHARLESTON, W. Va.—Dr. T. C. Green, for 22 years the symbol of "Mr. Veterinary" to West Virginians, retired from the State Department of Agriculture yesterday.

Dr. Green first came to the State Department of Agriculture in June 1939. Previously he had been in private veterinary practice then served four years as a field supervisor with the United States Bureau of Animal Industry in Charleston for four years. He was appointed West Virginia's first state veterinarian by the late J. B. McLaughlin, then commissioner of agriculture.

Dr. Green considers his most important contributions have been in checking the rise of brucellosis in West Virginia livestock (undulant fever in humans) and wiping out vesicular exanthema, a serious swine illness resembling the dreaded foot and mouth disease.

Born October 29, 1887, in Cashmere, Monroe County, where he attended public schools, Dr. Green was graduated from Indiana Veterinary College in Indianapolis in 1911. He married the former Mabel M. Smith, also of Monroe County. They have nine grown children.

Railroad May Run Again If It Can Borrow Cars

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Passenger service on the old Baltimore and Annapolis Railroad line will be resumed on a trial basis as soon as the company can borrow some cars, the head of the B & A said Tuesday.

President James M. Easter of Baltimore said he is now "looking into the possibility" of obtaining two diesel-electric stainless steel cars, of relatively light weight, from a line which is not using them. He said he has located the cars but has not yet received permission to use them.

"If we can arrange to borrow these cars, or lease them for a trial period, we will be able to get started on this project," Easter said.

The 42-year-old executive, who became president of the B & A last Jan. 1, had announced earlier that he would like to resume the rail service between Baltimore and Annapolis which was discontinued by the railroad 10 years ago. The B & A has operated buses and limited freight runs since then.

Easter said public reaction to his announcement has been "overwhelmingly favorable." "I have received hundreds of calls and letters," he said.

He said before the plans can progress, however, the railroad needs to run a test operation for several months to determine public reaction and the feasibility of resuming rail passenger service.

He indicated when cars are finally obtained, they will be run from the Harundale Mall, near Glen Burnie, into Baltimore. Later, he said, service could be extended into Annapolis.

Tawes Seeks Accounting Of New Aid Funds

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Officials of Maryland's 23 counties and of Baltimore City have been asked to report how they're spending $14.7 million in new state aid funds.

The accounting was requested in letters from Gov. Tawes, who is expected to use the information compiled from the counties to make his own report to Maryland taxpayers.

The money now going out to the local governments as a result of action by the 1961 General Assembly is being collected through increased sales and tobacco taxes.

The levies are being collected by the state, but the money is for sole use of local governments. Tawes said he hopes to learn how much of the money is going for higher teacher salaries, local real estate tax reductions or other purposes.

The aid, ranging from $106,618 for Kent County to $3,262,519 for Baltimore City, did not have to be spent for allocated purposes if counties already were meeting minimum requirements in welfare and education fields — as most were.

"It is important, therefore," the governor said, "that we attempt to assess and evaluate fully its results and ramifications."

The information, when compiled, "can serve a useful purpose in future studies by state authorities of fiscal policies of this nature," Tawes added.

Tawes' office furnished this breakdown of estimated additional aid to local governments and what it would be equivalent to in relation to local real estate tax rates:

Allegany County $554,681 (29 cents), Anne Arundel $1,509,257 (29 cents), Baltimore City $3,262,519 (11 cents), Baltimore County $1,047,640 (6 cents), Calvert $153,873 (47 cents), Caroline $180,016 (44 cents), Carroll $247,408 (15 cents), Cecil $347,982 (29 cents), Charles $282,286 (44 cents).

Dorchester $209,094 (27 cents), Frederick $299,933 (13 cents), Garrett $159,319 (37 cents), Harford $436,042 (21 cents), Howard $255,959 (19 cents), Kent $106,618 (22 cents), Montgomery $1,544,241 (11 cents), Prince Georges $2,385,221 (25 cents).

Queen Annes $122,895 (24 cents), St. Marys $317,327 (55 cents), Somerset $194,383 (64 cents), Talbot $130,706 (19 cents), Washington $540,356 (20 cents), Wicomico $338,311 (23 cents), Worcester $163,260 (18 cents).

Unemployment Insurance Cost To Rise Soon

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Department of Employment Security announced Tuesday that most Maryland employers will have to pay higher unemployment insurance taxes in the next quarterly instalment.

The tax boost of some $3 million a year had been predicted two months ago by Stephen C. Cromwell, director of the department. Cromwell made it official Tuesday.

He said employers who are not paying the legal maximum rate are being informed their rate will increase three-tenths of one percentage point.

The rate depends on employment records. It now ranges from 1.5 per cent for employers with good records to a legal ceiling of 4.2 per cent. The new minimum will be 1.8 per cent.

The higher rates are effective last July 1 and will be paid in the quarterly instalment due Oct. 30. The announcement was delayed to avoid confusion over the June 30 payments for last quarter.

Blue Cross Subscribers 'Satisfied'

BALTIMORE (AP)—Most Maryland Blue Cross subscribers are satisfied with the hospital care program, according to a survey of some 2,000 policyholders.

But only a few subscribers know how Blue Cross pays hospitals or how much of the plan's income is returned to policyholders in benefits.

These are some of the conclusions from a recent questionnaire sent to the second Blue Cross Subscriber Advisory Committee — a random selection of group and non-group subscribers.

The aim of the project is to give Blue Cross officials a better understanding of subscriber attitudes and to develop suggestions.

More than 75 per cent of the committee members replied.

More than 7 out of 10 indicated pleasure with the benefits and services of Blue Cross.

On another question, only a few realized Blue Cross pays hospitals no more than their actual cost of providing care.

And most of those surveyed underestimated the amount of income Blue Cross returns to subscribers in benefits—more than 90 cents of each dollar.

However, there are some foods the visitors especially enjoy, and these include spaghetti and pizza pie. Also the girls like pickles—they consumed a gallon jar of pickles during the first week of their stay.

Mrs. Stein said her "adopted children" do not care much for cake, pie, candy or other sweets, but prefer dishes which are on the salty or sour side. When the girls finished the large jar of pickles Monday, they drank the remaining pickle juice while all the rest of the Steins watched them with sour-looking expressions on their faces.

Mrs. Stein normally would be kept busy just taking care of their two small children. But the six girls and Melvin pitch in and help with minding the babies and taking care of the household chores.

It is not all work and no play, and the children engage in many outdoor and indoor games. The Steins live at the edge of the woods and the visitors see various forms of wildlife which often play in the yards.

The elder Mrs. Stein says she is constantly amazed how courteous and well behaved the Chinese children are. She added there is never any arguments among the children, which is remarkable for youngsters in that age group.

Mr. Stein, an accountant at Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, tries to arrange some activity for the children each evening, and one of these included a trip Saturday night to a drive-in movie to see a triple feature. He said the children saw the first show, slept through the second one and woke up to see the final feature, a ghost story.

The Steins say both their own children and the visitors learn something new and beneficial from each other each day, and they will have many regrets when they lose their "adopted" children next Tuesday for another year.

Long May Be Candidate For At-Large Seat

BALTIMORE (AP)—The name of Dr. Clarence D. Long has been added to the list of possible Democratic candidates for Maryland's new at-large seat in Congress.

Long, a Johns Hopkins University professor and new executive co-chairman of the state Democratic organization, was said to be under consideration by party leaders for a bid in the primary balloting next year.

Speculation about Long's possible candidacy arose a day after Del. Carlton R. Stickles, a 40-year-old Democratic lawyer from Prince Georges County, made formal his intention to seek the nomination.

The eighth congressional seat for Maryland comes into being next year as the result of Maryland population gains as reflected in the 1960 census.

The General Assembly this year created a new 8th District out of Prince Georges and Howard counties, but the move was blocked by a referendum petition that forces the first election to fill the new post to be held on a statewide basis.

Long declined comment on the speculation he may be a candidate on a Democratic ticket headed by Gov. Tawes. The governor so far has not announced he will be a candidate for re-election, but such a decision is regarded as likely.

Stickles is the first to announce definitely as a candidate for the new congressional seat in the May primary.

Del. Blair Lee, D-Montgomery, is another who reportedly is under consideration for the same slot on on the Tawes ticket. Lee already has announced as a candidate for the U.S. Senate in the Democratic primary, and has been noncommittal about switching.

There have been previous reports George P. Mahoney, who is expected to oppose Tawes for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, wants Lee to run on his ticket as a Senate candidate.

Local Police To Get First Aid Course

A standard first aid course will be taught next month to members of the Cumberland Police Department.

Police Chief B. Frank Gaffney said the 10-hour course will be taught on three Wednesday evenings beginning September 6.

The course, which will be taught in the Public Safety Building, will be held each evening from 7 to 10 o'clock.

This past week Chief Gaffney and Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming met with W. Elmo Channell, qualified Red Cross first aid instructor, who will teach the course.

Arrangements will be made in order that all members of the Police Department will have an opportunity to take the course. A number of officers have indicated they plan to take it.

A notice has been placed on the bulletin board at Police Headquarters notifying the department members that the first aid course will be taught.

Shell Touring Manager "Mac" MacLaggan

"THERE'S no reason to let hot weather spoil your summer driving fun," says Shell's veteran Touring Manager H. S. "Mac" MacLaggan. "Here are a dozen tips that will help you protect your car and yourself from the wear and tear of hot-weather driving."

1. Cover car seats when you park in the sun. Then they won't be scorching hot when you return. A newspaper or a towel will do the trick. On the road, a ventilated seat cushion with back—like the ones truck drivers use—lets the air circulate around you and helps keep you cool.

2. Increase idling speed occasionally when you're in hot, heavy traffic. You'll turn the fan faster, speed up the flow of engine coolant—and reduce temperatures under the hood. This can help keep your car from overheating.

3. Don't pump the accelerator if your car won't start after a short stop. The engine is probably flooded. Pumping only makes it worse.

The right thing to do is wait a few minutes, press the accelerator pedal all the way to the floor, and hold it there while you work the starter.

NOTE: You're not likely to have this problem in the first place if you keep Super Shell's Hot Weather Blend in your tank. In summer, Shell scientists revise Super Shell's 9-ingredient formula to fight flooding and other hot weather troubles—for top performance.

4. Break up your trip. Summer heat drains your energy. Stop frequently to rest, stretch your legs and have a look at the scenery. You'll feel better when you get back on the road.

NOTE: Carry a thermos of ice water to quench your thirst between stops. And to freshen up, just pour a little ice water on a washcloth and bathe your face.

5. Keep meals, clothes and suitcases light. You need less food in hot weather. Heavy meals can make you feel hot and drowsy. As for clothes, you'll be more comfortable if they're light and loose-fitting. Better air circulation.

6. Keep your radiator clean. Debris in your radiator can cut cooling efficiency drastically. A whisk broom will help you clean obstructions you can see. But for a really complete job, let your Shell dealer use compressed air from his tire hose to blast debris out.

NOTE: Inside your radiator rust can interfere with efficient cooling. To help prevent rust, have your Shell dealer put in a dose of Shell's special Cooling System Protector.

7. Plan to reach your overnight stops before 4 o'clock. You'll avoid the local rush-hour traffic and late afternoon heat. You'll have your pick of the air-conditioned motels and hotels, too.

8. Make sure your tires are in tip-top condition before you leave home. Summer heat can increase the risk of blow-outs, and high speeds on sizzling roads wear tires out fast. At 80 miles an hour you get only one-fifth of normal tread wear.

9. Kill windshield glare. Did you ever notice how much summer sunshine can bounce into the windshield off the shiny shelf above the dashboard? That glare can be plenty irritating. To kill glare, simply drape a dark cloth across the dashboard shelf.

10. Have your oil level checked every time you stop for gasoline. This check is especially important when you're driving in hot weather, because a full crankcase of oil helps cool your engine as it lubricates. Suggestion: Next time you need oil, try Shell X-100® Premium, the remarkable new oil that fights 5 unseen threats to engine life.

11. Be sure your heater is completely off. Some heaters "leak" heat all summer. Let your Shell dealer check the heater valve and close it tight.

12. Get Shell's personalized Touring Package free. A typical Touring Package includes clearly marked route maps; accommodation information; sightseeing information; guides to cities and states; even ferryboat schedules. Avoid the time-consuming problems that make a hot day seem even hotter. See your local Shell dealer for full details.

#7 is an "anti-icer." Added when cold weather sets in.
#8 is gum preventive—for clean carburetors.
#9 is Platformate for extra mileage.

Americans Need Firm Resolve

The speed with which Congress is acting leaves no doubt that, while the Berlin crisis endures, the American people will have to make sacrifices and bear up under the risk of war.

The military budget will be raised by $3.5 billion, more men will be drafted, and a tax increase may be applied next year to hold the budget deficit to $5 billion. Civil defense preparations will be strengthened.

In Washington, the mood is so overwhelming it seems unanimous that the United States will be compelled to fight if the communists try by force to abrogate American rights in Berlin.

Increases in the number, equipment and readiness of U. S. armed forces at home and abroad will leave no doubt that we are not bluffing. This military buildup should decrease the possibility of war, and that is its intention.

The American people now know what they face in 1961. Sacrifice, tension and the chance of stark horror. Steadiness, determination and a resolve not to weaken under any circumstances are called for from every American.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Flag-Pole Revival

A. R. Booker, of North Hollywood, writes me:

"In looking down the block of our industrial section we observed that only one flag was flying in the entire block. It occurred to us that something has happened to our nationalistic spirit, which perhaps in a sense is reflected by our national leaders in their dealings with other nations."

So Booker put an advertisement in the newspapers advocating a flag-pole revival. His ad only brought him two letters. He says:

"When considering the placement of this advertisement I contacted the display advertisement department of a major Los Angeles newspaper. When I first read the advertisement to him his comment was, 'What are you trying to do, sell flag poles or flags?' It appears that it is our American custom to assume that no one does anything without an 'angle.' This is unfortunate, and I assume many persons who read our ad may have been under the impression that we sold flags or flag poles. I can assure you we have no relationship with the flags or flag poles or the steel industry."

Flying the flag or singing the National Anthem is not as popular these days as it was, say, in my youth. For instance, up in these parts, where once Longfellow and Bryant, Oliver Wendell Holmes and Nathaniel Hawthorne spent their summers, the Tanglewood concerts do not begin with the playing of the National Anthem and they fly a small flag in the big shed but not in the small theater. Perhaps musicians are not as patriotic as baseball fans whose games always start with the singing of the National Anthem.

Maybe it is all a small matter but it is over matters such as this that the nations of the Earth are on the verge of war. Nationalism is not easy to define in this era; it is so different in different places. The proliferation of nations has many causes and becomes possible once the strong power that holds a people together has lost its potency. Sometimes the thread of nationalism is no more than language, the association of a people by their mode of speech. Sometimes, it is historic memory, a nostalgia for a previous condition of relationships.

In Africa, for instance, it is difficult to tie nations together either linguistically or historically. In fact, many tribes hated each other and where cannibalism prevailed, they ate each other. Nevertheless today, they manifest an intense nationalism which represents a negative response to European colonialism. But anti-colonialism is not enough to provide an intense nationalism. And an example of modern nationalism is Israel to which men and women, boys and girls give their lives freely.

The Israeli Army includes women in many ranks and there Europeans labor in the desert not for themselves but for a nation which came into existence as such as recently as 1948. Israel is a startling example of nationalistic intensity. On the other hand, Red China is an Empire and a Cantonese remains a Cantonese and thinks in terms of his people—the Cantonese.

The trend in the late Nineteenth and early Twentieth centuries was away from nationalism toward universalism. Great Britain has throughout favored some form of internationalism because there have been so many components of the British Empire and of the Commonwealth of Nations that nationalism could only mean anti-British. Since the time of Woodrow Wilson, the United States has moved in the direction of internationalism, perhaps as a means for establishing a method for shifting responsibility for the smaller and weaker countries upon some international body.

Although this country did not join the League of Nations which we had initiated, we did join the United Nations to which we have devoted ourselves so ardently that we have actually made sacrifices of sovereignty to strengthen the United Nations. The Korean War is one example of that and our financial support of every activity of the United Nations is another.

It has been part of the trend toward universalism which has lessened interest in patriotic nationalism in this country—but times are changing. More and more young people have come to reject the intellectual mores of the 1920s and 1930s. They are not bound by the shibboleth of internationalism. They may, in time, wave a flag. The pendulum does swing.

Who Needs Mr. K—We'll Bury Ourselves

Tunisian Affair A Sad Example Of UN Mediation

By David Lawrence

IN EUROPE, August 1 — The world is witnessing in the Tunisian affair a sad example of the incompetence or disarray of the United Nations machinery for mediating in international disputes.

When serious trouble breaks out, as it did a few days ago in Tunisia, it is wrong for Dag Hammerskjold, the Secretary-General of the U. N., to accept an invitation from one side and then promptly set forth, by letter to the other side, proposals that must inevitably be regarded by the latter as partisan.

In a subsequent letter of explanation to the French Foreign Minister, Mr. Hammarskjold declared that his attitude was "based solely on the interpretation of the duties of the Secretary-General and of the principles of the charter adopted by the organization in the past, and also on the intentions, I venture to believe, of all the members of the Council who voted for the interim resolution."

But is it the function of the Secretary-General of the U. N. to interpret the "intentions" of the members of the United Nations?

Mediation has been most successful in the history of diplomacy when undertaken with the consent of both sides in a dispute and when the mediators confine themselves at first to fact-finding. Then, after feeling out each of the parties, proposals can be submitted for the adjustment of the dispute.

President de Gaulle was right in refusing at this time to see Mr. Hammarskjold in Paris. For the latter had unwittingly disqualified himself as a mediator by conferring with the Tunisian government without first having obtained an agreement to talk with the other party in the controversy.

What the United Nations Secretariat should have been at work on during these past few days was an investigation of exactly what happened before and after President Bourguiba ordered a siege of the French base at Bizerte and his troops opened fire on French paratroopers reinforcing the base. The world should have been given the facts, and both sides should have been permitted to state the reasons for their respective actions before an attempt was made to launch proposals for a settlement.

Every mediator in any important controversy finds it necessary, above all, to establish his position as one of complete impartiality. An editorial in the Baltimore "Sun," reprinted in Europe, says in part:

"Mr. Harmarskjold's personal intervention in the Bizerte affair displayed less than his usual finesse. He flew to Tunisia in response to a direct plea from President Bourguiba and not on explicit instructions from the Security Council. This allowed the French to claim that he was playing the Tunisian side, though his intention is to play the honest broker."

Also, with passions raised to a high point when fighting occurs, it is especially important, after a cease-fire, to allow for a cooling-off period before an actual peace proposals are brought forward.

In the Tunisian controversy, the United Nations called for a "cease-fire," and it was obeyed by both sides, though the French refused to withdraw to the naval base troops they had moved into the city to repulse the attack. But the Tunisian government immediately sent its foreign minister to Cairo to arrange with the United Arab Republic for "volunteers" to help fight the French forces. This does not augur well for a negotiation in good faith. President Nasser has just announced that he is sending military equipment and supplies to the Tunisian armed forces. But will the United Nations take cognizance of this obvious intervention by military means in the dispute over Bizerte?

To run to Nasser, who has hitherto been hostile to the President of Tunisia, is strange indeed. For only three years ago Tunisia broke off diplomatic relations with the United Arab Republic and accused the latter of being involved in a plot to assassinate Bourguiba.

Another strange happening is recorded in a dispatch to the London "Daily Telegraph" from Rome, where it has just leaked out that the Tunisian government — before the Bizerte episode — concluded an agreement for new oil projects in Tunisia with Signor Mattei, the head of the Italian State Petroleum Company. This is the same individual who has been getting cut rates on oil from the Soviets in a maneuver that threatens to disrupt the whole price structure in oil throughout the world.

The Tunisian government makes no secret of its desire to acquire a substantial share of the oil resources of the Sahara. It is widely believed that President Bourguiba saw a chance to enrich his country by making up with the Algerians, wih whom he has hitherto been at loggerheads. His action came at the very moment when France and Algeria, in peace negotiations at Evian-Les-Bains, were struggling with the problem of Sahara oil. Shortly after the Bizerte crisis, these talks collapsed when the Algerians asked for an indefinite suspension, presumably to work out a deal with Tunisia.

So if there were a real inquiry into the whole Tunisian affair and the facts were given to the world, many high-sounding phrases in espousal of "self-determination" and "anti-colonialism" would turn out to be a cover for a materialistic quest. The Soviets have their eyes on the exploitation of the Sahara's oil resources for their own purposes, and will furnish money for development provided they can get a hold on certain African countries and start a series of moves that will adversely affect the companies of the West which have oil pipelines and refineries in the Middle East.

The mystery of why Mr. Bourguiba has suddenly turned on his Western friends and provoked a quarrel with France is gradually being explained by what is happening in the grab for the Sahara's oil resources.

France has a treaty right to keep the Bizerte naval base until such time as a satisfactory agreement with Tunisia is achieved by direct negotiation. The U. N. is neither a supranational body nor a superstate, and its usefulness as a peacemaker in the future will be enhanced only if it confines itself to the role of mediator and shuns partisanship. One way to achieve that result is to send a special U. N. Commission of at least three persons, appointed in each instance by the Security Council itself, to mediate, and not rely on one man, even if he is the Secretary-General.

REPLY—Rep. Charles E. Joelson, D-N.J., had some harsh words to say the other day about the Ku Klux Klan. He expected some reaction from his own constituency, but was somewhat surprised to get a letter from the opposite coast—California.

The Californian took him to task severely for the criticism and demanded an early reply. Joelson sent him the following letter:

"I have received your recent letter expressing your disapproval of my opposition to the Ku Klux Klan and proudly proclaiming that you have been a member of the poisonous organization since 1923.

"In order that you may have the benefit of the opposite point of view which endorses brotherly love, mercy and charity, I am taking the liberty of sending you a book under separate cover. This book has long been widely read in America. I hope you will not consider it too radical."

Joelson then mailed him a copy of the Bible.

Constipation Common In Elderly Persons

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Many elderly people are constipated because of their physical condition and diet. The intestines have lost some of their tone and the diaphram and abdominal muscles are weaker. They eat less bulk, usually because of missing teeth.

Some oldsters do not drink sufficient water and they are too preoccupied or forgetful to heed nature's call. Other's have been laxative addicts most of their life and the longer this situation has existed, the more difficult it is to correct. Time is needed for the colon to unlearn its undesirable dependence upon a stimulus or an irritant.

Older persons often have to take medicines that tend to constipate. These include modern remedies for indigestion, heart disease, high blood pressure, anemia, arthritis, and poor circulation. Some of the pills contain narcotics that put the bowel to sleep, whereas others reduce the motility and contractile force of the intestine.

Eating fruits, vegetables, salad oils, prunes, dates and figs is helpful in correcting constipation. The foods must be prepared in the way the oldster likes them and his dental status. Ample water keeps the bowel contents moist.

Physicians generally discourage the use of laxatives in this age group. The exception is the individual who has used a harmless product for years and finds it effective. The same applies to some of the newer compounds that add bulk by absorbing water or softening the stools.

Regularity should be encouraged, regardless of age. The normal movement expels the waste material that is in the rectum. A small enema consisting of water or a vegetable oil does the same without irritating the rest of the bowel. The injection may be employed after breakfast until the habit is established.

Dr. Van Dellen will send leaflet on constipation if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

TOMORROW: Character building.

CROSS-EYED ADULT

M. F. K. writes: Will exercise help cross-eye in a man of 60?
REPLY
I doubt it if the eye has been crossed from birth. On the other hand, exercise may help if the condition developed suddenly only a few days or a few weeks ago.

SINUS AND MIGRAINE

P. R. writes: Is it true that if infected sinuses are dried up, the person then develops migraine headaches?
REPLY
No. Sinus disease and migraine may co-exist. Many people blame the sinuses for migraine and insist upon treatment.

HARD CHAIR FOR BACKACHE

G. H. C. writes: What is the best type of chair for office and home for a man who has a slipped disk? He complains that our living room furniture is too soft.
REPLY
A hard chair that supports the back helps but permanent relief is more likely to follow surgery of the back.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

George Burns recalls a pair of acrobats who got a chance to play a top vaudeville house after years in dinky one-ring circuses. "If you make good in this house," their agent promised, "I'll get you a 50-week contract playing the whole circuit. But keep your eyes on an owl the manager keeps on the balcony railing. The manager takes great stock in that owl. If he keeps his eyes open during the act, you're in like Churchill. But if it blinks—good night, Charlie!"

The opening night arrived and the acrobats advanced to the footlights, their wives watching nervously from the wings. Suddenly one acrobat whispered to the other, "Do you see what I see, Joe? That ventriloquist has your wife in his arms and is kissing her madly."

"Never mind my wife," hissed the other. "Keep your eyes on that owl!"

A stalwart character who graduated with all kinds of honors including a Ph. D. from Yale last June, is now studying to be a policeman in New York. He hopes, of course, to be Phi Beta Coppa. (Incidentally, hanging is too good for punsters, Charlie Rice insists. They should be drawn and quoted).

President Gets A 'Wrong Number' Call On White House 'Crisis' Phone

By Jack Anderson

(Editor's Note: Drew Pearson is en route to report firsthand on the Berlin crisis. His column today is written by his associate, Jack Anderson.)

WASHINGTON — Working late the other night in his bedroom, President Kennedy was jarred from his paperwork by the urgent clamor of the black emergency phone at his bedside.

This phone is to be supposed to be used only in cases of crisis. He grabbed the receiver in alarm.

"Hello!" He said tersely.

"Is this the animal hospital?" asked a mysterious voice.

"No, this is the White House," said the President.

"No," Kennedy repeated, "this is the White House."

"Is Mr. Stevenson there?" the voice asked, still persisting.

"No, this is the President."

The caller hung up, probably in disbelief. But the President of the United States is still wondering how a call to the animal hospital happened to be picked up on his supposedly secure emergency phone.

Behind The Headlines

The Big Gamble—Following up Attorney General Robert Kennedy's crackdown on gambling, his former boss, Senate Rackets Investigating Chairman John McClellan of Arkansas, has served subpoenas on the nation's top gamblers. Over 100 big-time gamblers have been ordered to bring in their books and prepare to answer questions behind closed doors. They're busy rehearsing 100 ways of pleading the fifth amendment.

Behind Castro's Beard—Leaders of the Cuban underground, meeting secretly in Havana, have voted to expel Manuel Ray as their U. S. representative. They accused him of letting the CIA direct the Cuban invasion without consulting them. As a result, the underground was caught totally unprepared for last April's abortive invasion. Meanwhile the underground is still operating inside Cuba. They have cut down on sabotage because it isn't worth the risk. But they have stashed away arms and ammunition, also publish an anti-Castro magazine which is smuggled from hand to hand every two weeks.

Pres. Joe Kennedy?

Had it not been for a daring mission over Germany 17 years ago, the Kennedy in the White House today might answer to the name "Joe" instead of "Jack."

For it was Jack's older brother, Joe, who always dreamed of becoming President. He made no secret of his ambition, and Jack would have stepped aside for him.

But on Aug. 2, 1944, Joe volunteered to fly a plane rigged with high explosives into the Nazi submarine pens on the Belgian coast. He was supposed to bail out just before the plane crashed into the heavily fortified pens. But the plane mysteriously blew up too soon.

"I don't know what I would have done if my brother had lived," Jack has told friends. He has mentioned both journalism and law. But he would have given his brother a clear field in politics.

Boston legend has it that old Joe Kennedy, following Joe Jr.'s death, summoned his second son into his presence and dramatically directed Jack to carry on the family tradition of public service in his fallen brother's place.

"I got Jack into politics," wrote Papa Joe in 1957, "I told him Joe Jr. was dead and therefore it was his responsibility to run for Congress."

It is true that the Senior Kennedy helped persuade Jack to enter politics, but the dramatic scene in the legend never took place.

JFK's Great Decision

Family intimates say Jack took his time making up his mind about a career. He shrank at first from the blarney and backslapping of Boston politics. But he had a hankering to go to Washington.

When a vacancy occurred in Congress, Jack Kennedy decided to try for it. But it was a full year after his brother's death before he finally made the choice that was to lead him to the White House.

Those close to the President agree that he would never have embarked upon a political career if his brother had survived.

Would Joe Jr. have gone on to the White House? He was a husky, handsome, hail-fellow-well-met with a "hiya" for everyone and a vote-getting Irish grin. He won his first election at 25 as a delegate to the 1940 Democratic Convention.

He told family and friends that he hoped to go to the convention some day as a candidate and become the first Catholic President of the United States. But for all his political appeal, he lacked Jack's keen intellect and quiet charm.

Jack grieved over his brother's death, collected essays from Joe's friends and published a private book entitled, "As We Remember Joe."

In his own contribution, Jack wrote: "I think if the Kennedy children amount to anything, now or ever amount to anything, it will be due more to Joe's behavior and his constant example than to any other factor."

Note: By a trick of fate, Jack Kennedy's own heroic encounter with a Japanese destroyer in the South Pacific also occurred on August 2, one year earlier.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

It was an ordinary Sunday. The house was as quiet as a blazing ammunition dump. Karen, 8, and Kathleen, 6, the beautiful blondes, were in the back on the swings. Gayle was pushing them and the happy screams could be heard across the river.

Frank Gerace was wrestling with Rocky. Jim Hughes and Janet were trying to get James Dominick to take his nap on my bed. He isn't a year old, but he has muscles to spare. Ginny and Charlie came in with their four little ones, and the picture was complete.

My wife was in the kitchen trying to carve a leg of lamb. It looked to be about eight pounds and I said: "These locusts will go through that before you set the platter down." She said she had some cold roast beef and some potato salad and a tossed salad.

It was a memorable scene. The television was on in the dining room. The picture was bright and clear, but I could hear no sound in the babble of babies. There wasn't a solitary moment when someone wasn't crying. The mothers and fathers sat around the table, talking as though they couldn't hear the bedlam.

One of the children turned the air conditioner off; another one, Kevin Frechette, was crawling toward the front door when the bell rang. It was James Durkin, a publicity agent and friend. He came in looking like a beached whale in beige shorts and he tried to say hello, but he almost fell over Kevin and, when he tried to back up, he bumped into little Jimmy Hughes.

He seemed like a man who has been caught in a mad orphanage and has forgotten where the exit is. I made a drink for him and he gulped it, said thanks, and ran. He runs pretty well for a size 48 waist. I asked who would like to go swimming and most of the children who can walk said: "Me!"

All it did was start another problem. Some had bathing suits. Some didn't. The crying started all over again and one sister said: "If I can't go, she can't go." After a half hour of preparation, I led them across the street to the Ship Ahoy Motel. There is a big pool and a kiddie pool and I was betting myself mentally that none of them would go into the little one.

Carl Fleming, the manager, met me at the gate, and said: "Why don't you go for a swim?" "What," I said, "with these monsters? They'll tear the place apart."

Mr. Fleming had them for an hour. I haven't seen him since. They came home, dripping and sandy and sunburned, whining that they were hungry. Mrs. B. fixed up some food for them; their mothers fixed up jars of colored glop for the little ones, and soon the little dears were eating as though they invented it.

I picked up Pamela and kissed her behind the ear and said: "How is my Pamela?" and she nodded toward her twin sister and said: "Dat Pam." So I had Robin. Little Jimmy Frechette, who is two, a year younger than his twin sisters, kept pointing to a jar of gum drops and saying: "Canny. Canny."

Kathleen asked me to examine a pain behind her jaw. There was a slight swelling. It wasn't much. A day later it turned out to be mumps. Gayle said: "Aren't you glad I didn't bring little Elinor?" I said no, because Elinor Gerace is one of the most beautiful infants I have ever seen; I could watch her open and close her hands for hours without becoming tired.

There was a crash in the kitchen and everyone hurried out to find that one of the little boys had pulled an electric cord which was attached to a percolator. The leg of lamb was gone, so was the roast beef; my wife made the mistake of asking if anyone would like a dish of ice cream. Everybody would.

Fortunately, there were two gallons in the refrigerator. Also, there was some cold beer and part of a coconut layer cake made by the housekeeper, Carol Taylor. She made the cake and fled.

From six p.m. all the babies hit their stride. They began to tire, so they tore up the Sunday newspapers, got a finger caught in a closing door, picked the leaves off the planter, wet my bed, stopped up a bathroom with a whole package of Kleenex, and watched a ball of chocolate ice cream melt into the gray dining room rug.

It was, as I say, an ordinary Sunday. There was nothing unusual about it. Dull, in fact, if you discount the noise. By 8:30 p.m. the place was empty except for my wife, Kelly, and her two girls. She flopped in a chair with both legs over the arm.

A weary hand moved across her forehead. "Don't tell me you're tired," I said. "Children keep a woman young." . . .

INDEPENDENCE HISTORICAL PARK

WORK PROGRESSES ON RESTORING AMERICA'S MOST NOTED SHRINES

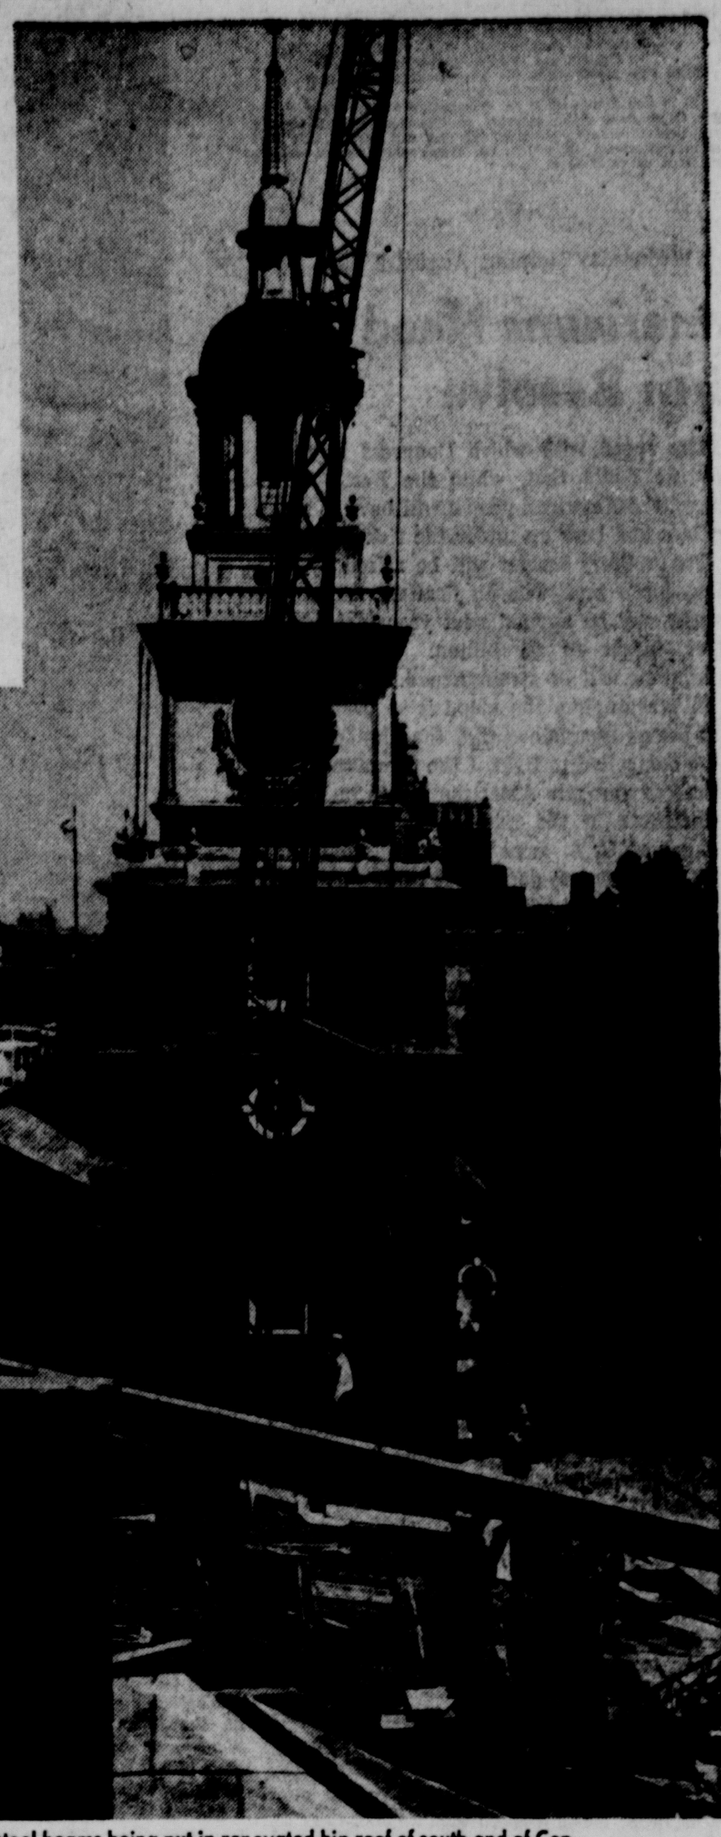
The brick sidewalks and the cobblestone streets of the type that George Washington, Thomas Jefferson and Benjamin Franklin traveled in colonial Philadelphia are returning to America's most historic square mile—Independence National Historical Park.

The park was created by an act of Congress in 1948. Restoration of buildings, including such notable shrines as Independence Hall, Carpenters' Hall, and Congress Hall, to their early grandeur, and beautification of the grounds, is going on, but will not be completed until 1965.

Bulldozers and wrecking cranes today still dominate big sections in the area. Scaffolding now clutters the red brick walls of Congress Hall, and workmen continue the slow rehabilitation of Independence Hall.

Already reconstructed are New Hall and Library Hall. New Hall commemorates the establishment of the Marine Corps in the 1790's. Library Hall is on the site of the Library Company of Philadelphia, founded by Franklin in 1731. Its original building was demolished about 1884. The landscaping, too, that is being done has a definite colonial character.

Amid the clutter and hammering, visitors still pour into the area, paying quiet and reverent homage to the great symbols of American liberty and independence, such as the Liberty Bell and the chair which Washington used while presiding over the Constitutional Convention, housed inside Independence Hall, or quietly observing other shrines and their relics, or strolling over the new pebbled walks on the Mall. Over a million and a half persons visited Independence Hall in 1960, and more are expected this year.



RENOVATING A SHRINE. Workmen swing into place one of steel beams being put in renovated hip-roof of south end of Congress Hall where nation's highest legislative body functioned until 1800. Independence Hall, in background, towers over scene.

The Lomako family stops to rest on bridge rail in reconstructed section, against a background of the old and new: Carpenters' Hall, where the First Continental Congress met in 1774, and behind it, outside park, a recently constructed office building.

Workmen prepare new foundation for Friends Meeting House, in back, to be moved 34 feet to permit widening of street. Building is oldest Friends meeting house in existence in the U.S.

Workmen build retaining wall at northern end of Independence Mall. Many small buildings have been torn down to make room for Mall at far end of which stands Independence Hall. Mall will be landscaped with gardens, walks and fountains.

Patricia and James Lomako look closely at pebbled reconstruction of Library Street that runs from Independence Square to Carpenters' Hall in park.

Patricia, James and Steven Lomako peer through window of reconstructed New Hall. Note Colonial iron cellar door. Building is not yet opened to the public.

Melford O. Anderson, superintendent of Independence National Historical Park, examines detail drawing of reconstruction work being done in area. "We can't let the world forget America was born here," says Anderson, in discussing project.

Smith Tosses Second No-Hit Rec Victory

Defeats Bowler Again, 9 To 2

Rich Smith tossed his second no-hit victory this season yesterday as the Sports Shoppe defeated The Bowler, 9-2, in an American Division contest in the Rec Softball League at Naval Reserve field.

The Bowler utilized a walk and three errors behind Smith to score twice in the first inning off the Sports Shoppe ace. Smith then set the losers down in order in the last six innings of the game. The only other base runner received a pass in the fourth inning but was erased on a double play.

Moe Barrett was the loser in the contest, bowing for the fourth time in nine decisions this year. Smith chalked up his 13th victory in 15 games as he no-hit The Bowler for the second time. Smith blanked The Bowler without a base hit on July 7, winning 7-0.

Van Parsons and Donnie Madden each had a double and single and Irky Coleman collected two singles to lead the Sports Shoppe at the plate.

In another American Division contest LaVale Laundry turned back the Alinco Club, 7-4, at East Side. The loss was the 14th in succession for the winless Alinco tossers.

The Dodgers scored five runs in the first three innings and made their lead stand up for a 6-1 triumph over the league-leading Braves yesterday at Constitution Park as Poncho Klosterman held Manager Bert Lawler's crew to one scratch hit.

The Braves' loss enabled the idle Indians to gain a half game in their battle for the pennant in the Dan Division of the Dapper Dan Little League.

Klosterman struck out seven and walked only one batter as he went the route for Manager Johnny Daum's Dodgers. The only hit obtained by the Braves was an infield chop down the third base line by Steve Friend in the fourth inning.

John Williams had two singles. Pete Keys collected a triple and single and Tom Piper belted a three-bagger and two singles to lead the Dodgers at the plate. The results:

Court Test Set Over Welfare In Newburgh

NEW YORK (UPI)—New York state set the machinery in motion Tuesday for a court test of the controversial crackdown on welfare recipients by the city of Newburgh.

The state Attorney General, Louis J. Lefkowitz, sought an order from state Supreme Court which would restrain Newburgh from enforcing all but one of 13 rules it recently laid down severely limiting welfare aid.

A hearing on an injunction was set for Friday in Newburgh by Justice John P. Donohoe.

Newburgh city manager Joseph Mitchell, who ordered the welfare crackdown in an effort to cut the welfare drain on city funds, said he would "obey any lawful order" of the court, but that his attorneys would seek to determine if there was any way to challenge Lefkowitz' action before the Friday hearing.

Mitchell and Newburgh have been under heavy fire from the state and other sources since the tightening up of welfare fund distribution was announced. The Newburgh 13-point plan has been challenged by New York state welfare authorities, and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People charged the action was aimed at the Negro population of Newburgh.

Lefkowitz said he decided to obtain "a final legal decision in the courts" after meeting with Newburgh officials without obtaining agreement on his findings in the dispute.

Celanese Defeats K. Of C. Tossers

The league-leading V.F.W. tossers and the runner-up Moose team registered victories in yesterday's action in the Rocking Chair Softball League.

The Vets, scoring their 18th triumph, blanked Ritter's A.C., 2-0, behind the three-hit twirling of Floyd "Pete" Elliott at Fort Hill field.

Vernon Penner collected two hits for the Vets off Glen Kauffman, the losing hurler. Kauffman had two of the losers' three bingles off Elliott. The win was the ninth for Elliott this season while Kauffman bowed for the ninth time in 19 decisions.

The Moose, remaining four games behind the leaders, blanked Pittsburgh Plate Glass, 6-0, as Dick Klavuhn tossed a five-hitter at Stitcher Field.

Clay Ingram had two of the hits off Klavuhn while Robinette chipped in with a double. Bob Keyser banged out a triple and single and Pete Cecil smashed a two-run homer in the sixth in a winning cause for the Moose. Bill Thompson was the losing hurler for PPG.

Celanese A.A. defeated the Knights of Columbus, 2-0, as the shutout trend continued in the Chair loop yesterday. Nile Shuck was the winner over Russ Miller in this well-played game at Campobello.

The Celanese scored both runs in the second inning when Bill Ware singled and went to second on an error. He was sacrificed to third by Glenn Burke and scored on Smokey Howe's one-base blow.

Gene Davis then singled and both Davis and Howe moved up on another sacrifice. A throwing error at third base allowed Howe to score with the second run.

Bill Ware and Gene Davis had two hits each for Celanese while Norm Sell had a double and single for the Caseys.

The fourth game at Post Field yesterday saw the Elks rally for two runs in the bottom of the eighth to defeat the C&P Phonemen, 5-4, after the visitors had taken a 4-3 lead in the top of the inning.

Pooch Orndorff singled to open the winning rally and Bob Pence singled Orndorff to second. A double by Leo Rhodes plated the tying run and Paul Hartman's sacrifice fly brought Pence home with the winner.

Paul Roeder was the victor in the extra-inning thriller with a seven-hit effort. George Evans took the loss.

Purple Heart tallied four times in the fourth inning and held on for a 6-4 triumph over the Old Exports yesterday in a National Division game in the Rec Softball League at Taylor Field.

Ken Perdew chalked up his eighth pitching victory for Purple Heart, allowing six hits as he bested Neil Toey (5-3), the Old Exports ace.

Dick Rudolph had the game's only extra base hit, a double, for the winners.

Bennett's Transfer won its ninth game of the season with an 18-3 shellacking of Post's at Rolling Mill diamond in another National Division tilt yesterday.

Bennett's scored seven times in the first inning and added six more in the sixth before the game was called because of the league rule which halts a game with one team ahead by 10 runs or more.

Gene Hess was the victor, winning his seventh game as Bennett's collected 18 hits in the game. Crabtree was the loser.

The Brunswick nine also defeated Frederick, 10-4, Smithsburg, 2-1, and Havre de Grace, 7-3, on their way to the state title which earned them a regional playoffs berth in Portsmouth, Va., August 9 when Brunswick will play the New York state champions.

Dodgers Home For 13 Games

Los Angeles Holds Better Road Mark

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The National League leading Dodgers, supermen on the suitcase circuit but only ordinary mortals at home held a special batting practice Tuesday to prepare for a vital 13-game home stand.

The Dodgers have won 8 straight, 10 of their last 11 on the road and have a 34-16 season mark away from home. But they're only 28-22 at the Coliseum.

Wednesday night they confront another hot club — the San Francisco Giants, who have won five of their last seven and now are in third place, eight games behind Los Angeles.

Left-hander Johnny Podres (13-2) will oppose the visitors' Juan Marichal (7-7), a right-hander. Thursday night it will be Dodger right-hander, Stan Williams (10-8) vs. southpaw Mike McCormick (9-9).

After the Giants, the Dodgers play three with Chicago, two with Milwaukee, three with St. Louis and wind up their Coliseum stay with three against second-place Cincinnati.

When the Dodgers ended their last home stay two weeks ago, they were a dispirited bunch. They had won only 5 of 11 at the Coliseum and had dropped 3 out of 4 to Cincinnati.

They were six games back of the blazing hot Redlegs and now they're a half game ahead.

Pony Tilt Reset

A previously postponed Bi-State Pony League game between Cresaptown and the Frostburg Little Moes has been rescheduled for 1:30 p. m. Saturday at the Cresaptown diamond.

Hyndman Vets, Ellerslie Lose County Contests

Barrelville Defeats Kennell's Mill, 6-4

Hyndman's Vets and Ellerslie both lost ground in the County Softball League race yesterday, bowing to Stringtown and Corriganville while the front-running Greenpoint Inn Old Exports were idle.

Hyndman was leading 1-0 behind Junior Brelsford when Stringtown rallied in the seventh to win 2-1 at Hyndman. Paul Stair was the winning pitcher on a three-hit effort. Brelsford lost his second straight decision and eighth of the season. He has won 17 for Hyndman.

Joe Brannon opened the winning rally for Stringtown with a walk. Herk Miller singled and Paul Stair singled to load the bases with one out. Vohn Lehman then muffed a ground ball at short and two runs scored for Stringtown.

Stair had two hits for the winners while Rich Emerick tripled and scored the only run for Hyndman in the first.

John Lowery had a two-bagger for the only extra base hit for Ellerslie. Tojo Emerick cracked a home run and Bob Burkett hit a double for Corriganville. The loss was Vern Lowery's eighth in 25 decisions this year.

Barrelville's Old Germans scored four runs in the seventh to defeat Kennell's Mill, 6-4, on the latter's field. Ray Troutman picked up his eighth game in relief of Jerry O'Baker for Barrelville.

Jim Morgan singled with one out to start the rally, then Leroy Morris walked. Joe Glass' three-bagger scored two runs and Ronnie followed with a home run to score Glass and himself to climax the winning outburst. Irv Hosselrode had a triple for Kennell's Mill. The results:

Eastern Open Loses Wall

Burke Is Injured In Practice Round

BALTIMORE (AP) — Art Wall Tuesday withdrew from the $35,000 Eastern Open golf tournament to be held Thursday through Sunday at Pine Ridge Course.

Wall notified tournament officials of his withdrawal by telegram from his home at Honesdale, Pa. He gave no reason.

Walls' withdrawal leaves two members of the newly named Ryder Cup team in the Eastern Open. They are Bill Collins and Gene Littler.

Burke was struck in the face with a driver when he walked behind Tony Lema as Lema was about to hit a drive off the first tee. Burke was taken to Union Memorial Hospital, where six stitches were needed to close the cut in his chin. He later returned to the course.

A $3,500 pro-amateur tournament Wednesday will serve many of the pros as a practice round for the Eastern.

Baseball Players Strive To Keep 2d All-Star Tilt

Ask Committee To Seek Facts

By JACK HAND

BOSTON (AP) — Baseball will have two All-Star games again in 1962 if the major league players have their way.

The player representatives Tuesday decided to ask Commissioner Ford Frick to appoint a player-owner committee to explore the pros and cons of continuing the games.

Bob Friend of Pittsburgh, the National League player representative, said the players definitely favored two games and hoped to have a committee meeting with the owners within two weeks.

A final decision probably will not be made until the major leagues meet jointly at Miami Beach in December.

The players drew up a letter to be sent to each club owner asking the clubs take all possible means to alleviate any racial dsscrimination in housing, particularly on the west coast of Florida, during spring training.

Judge Robert Cannon, the players' legal counsel, said he and Frank Scott, the players' agent, had talkec with Frick and the two major league presidents.

They said the players were satisfied that "as of this moment, baseball has done everything humanly possible to alleviate conditions, particularly on the west coast of Florida, relative to housing all players, colored and white under the same roof."

Cannon said the players realized that local laws and ordinances often made this difficult but the teams had made "tremendous strides in breaking down racial barriers."

Scott said there was no problem of segregation in Arizona or California.

Houston, which will be a member of the National League next year, also was discussed. Cannon said the players did not want to disclose their talks on the Houston situation because negotiations were under way between clubs and local officials that he hoped ultimately would be concluded with all players housed under one roof in first class conditions.

Houk Suspended Five Days, Fined $250 For Actions

BOSTON (AP) — American League President Joe Cronin Tuesday imposed a 5-day suspension and a $250 fine on New York Yankee Manager Ralph Houk for the latter's actions in the field last Sunday.

Cronin ordered Houk's suspension to begin Aug. 2 and run through Aug. 6.

The order informed Houk he is not to be in uniform once a ball game begins nor is he to participate in directing his team — directly or indirectly — while a game is in progress.

Houk was accused of brushing Umpire Ed Hurley in a dispute over a called strike as the Yankees were losing a doubleheader to the Baltimore Orioles.

Bull Market Signal Sets Pace Of Record Advance

NEW YORK (AP) — Big gains by selected key issues paced the stock market to a smashing advance Tuesday.

The bull market signal was flashed along Wall Street as the closely followed Dow Jones average of 30 industrials broke through its previous record closing high with an 8.57-point advance to 713.94. The decisive penetration of the 705.96 peak set May 19 brought on a small flood of buying orders.

Other popular averages failed to follow Dow Jones' lead, however. The Associated Press average, which encompasses industrial, rail and utility issues, climbed 1.90 to 250.70. This left it within striking distance of the 252.60 high recorded May 17. Industrials rose 4.10, rails fell 0.40 and utilities were up 0.80.

Based on the rise in The AP average, an estimated $2.7 billion was added to the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

Du Pont jumped 6¾, Union Carbide rose 2¼, Eastman Kodak climbed 2⅛, GE rose 1⅞ and American Telephone was up 1¼.

All told, 657 of the 1,270 issues traded were higher and 401 were lower. New highs jumped to 60 and new lows totaled only 17.

By the close, 3.99 million shares changed hands, up notably from 3.17 million Monday.

Avco, up 1⅜ at 26¾ on 84,300 shares, was most active stock.

American Stock Exchange prices were mostly higher on volume of 1.14 million shares compared with 1.2 million Monday.

U.S. government and corporate bonds were mixed.

Bond volume totaled $6 64 million par value compared with $5.44 million Monday.

As your charm grows, you never gossip yourself — and learn to stop others from gossiping, too.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Gossipers Beware!

Do you want to be talked about? If the talk is appreciative, of course there are times when you do. But to be gossiped about is something else again. You're asking for it if you indulge in gossip yourself.

Gossiping touches off a chain reaction. The word goes around, and your name is involved with the rest. Others have less conscience in what they say about you when they know you're careless about what you say about someone else. And a wary feeling toward you develops from fear of your gossiping tongue.

One of the finest compliments your charm can deserve is to have someone say of you, "I've never heard her say an unkind word about anybody." This goes far deeper than a mere tribute to a restrained tongue. It means that you have achieved the poise and confidence that brings them breadth of mind and generous attitude. It's the uncertain person who's petty, who gossips in the hope of raising self-esteem. Bigger people have bigger things to think about.

As your own charm grows, you learn to stop gossip. First of all, put in a kind word even if you must interrupt. One wise lady I know stops gossipers in their tracks with the remark — accompanied by a twinkle in her eye — "Why, she always speaks kindly of you!"

It's always possible to avoid listening to anything you don't want to hear without offending anyone. After the kind word, change the subject to something impersonal, and interesting enough to make the gossip seem unimportant. You're teaching the would-be gossiper a lesson, but you're so graceful about it that it's a lesson she's willing to learn.

County Plans To Renew Old Fire Escapes

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday decided to renew the fire escapes on the Cumberland Street building which houses the Welfare Board.

The board acted upon a recommendation by Jesse Jacobs, an inspector from the state fire marshal's office; John E. Trost, city fire inspector and George Scarlett of the city engineer's office. The men made an inspection of the building for the county board.

Jacobs said that the present fire escapes are in such bad condition they will have to be replaced with new ones. He cited the large number of personnel with the Welfare Board and the necessity for providing an exit in time of emergency.

Trost said that the county could also enclose the inner stairwells as a protective measure, but the new fire escapes would be the better of the two if cost is a factor.

The commissioners then inquired about installation of an elevator at Sylvan Rereat, as had been recommended by the last grand jury.

Jacobs said that an elevator would be an excellent device for transporting patients and materials at the institution, but in no case should ever be used in evacuating the building. He explained that in case of fire the electricity might go out and anyone on the elevator would be trapped between floors.

Some method could be worked out such as ramps if the county wanted to add to the safety factor with the fire escapes which are available, the fire inspector said.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our five-year-old son plays with a child in this block who is seven years old, and somewhat retarded. The little boy is gentle and pleasant but he speaks like a three-year-old and is slow in his reflexes.

My husband says we should not allow our son to play with this child because he will pick up slovenly speech habits and it may slow up his development.

I feel very sorry for this retarded youngster and I can't bring myself to keep our child away from him. He seems to understand this unfortunate lad better than the other children. My husband says we owe it to our son to do what is best for HIM. Thanks for any help you can offer. —L.L.D.

DEAR L.L.D.: If the retarded child is not violent or destructive your youngster will lose nothing from the association—he will gain from it.

Children should learn to get along with all types of people. It helps them to make a better adjustment and it gives them a truer picture of what the world is like. Playing with children who are different is healthy. In fact, the greater the variety of playmates, the better. A youngster who learns compassion and patience at the age of five is richly endowed for life.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Why are you so stubborn about letting people meet through your column? I could have made a go of it with any of the three men I wrote to you about—especially that man who signed himself Cal.

Now THERE was a man I could go for. He wanted a respectable, affectionate, churchgoing woman. Well, that's me. Especially since I have no church at the moment. I'd be willing to go to the church of his choice.

I've been married twice to men who didn't appreciate me, and once to a man I didn't appreciate, so I know the score. I've done my share of playing the field and now I'm ready to put all my eggs in one basket. How about Cal's address?

—THROUGH RUNNING

DEAR RUNNING: Please take one of those eggs, put it in your shoe and beat it.

Strangers can be dangerous and I want no part of match-making or friend-finding. This column never puts one reader in touch with another for any reason whatever.

You're a three-time loser and now you're ready to settle down. Well—now that's what I call a beautiful recommendation.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 11 years old, I think, but I am not sure, which is what I am writing to you about. My parents say I am 11 but I am bigger than most kids my age and I have the feeling that I am really older. Now I wonder if maybe I wasn't born a year or two before they were married.

I told my mother about my suspicion and asked to see my birth certificate. She acted highly insulted and refused to show it to me. Don't you think parents owe their kids proof of when they were born if they ask for it?

—IN DOUBT

DEAR DOUBT: Parents owe their children food, clothing, shelter, love and guidance. If you're short on any of these let me know.

Some kids shoot up faster than others, which is probably why you are bigger than your 11-year-old friends. Now get those silly ideas out of your head.

To learn the booby-traps of teen-age drinking, write for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Teen-age Drinking," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The matter was referred to the board attorney, Leslie J. Clark, who will return next week from military training.

Two Drown On Farm Near Berlin

Firemen Find Bodies Of Wayne R. Fogle, Mrs. Noreen Watkins

Funeral services will be held today and tomorrow for two Somerset County (Pa.) swimmers whose bodies were recovered by volunteer firemen Monday in a water-filled strip mine on a farm four miles east of Berlin.

The victims were identified as Mrs. Noreen Watkins, 32, of RD 2, Berlin, and Wayne Roger Fogle, 26, of 1412 Brubaker Street, Berlin.

The couple, whose bodies were recovered from about eight feet of water shortly before 5 p.m. Monday, apparently had gone swimming in the pit in an open field on the farm of Mrs. Bertha Vought sometime Sunday.

An auto was seen Sunday afternoon parked along a road about there-quarters of a mile from the pit. When the car was still there Monday, the office of Sheriff Norman F. Walker was notified.

Fireman Finds Bodies

When authorities arrived at the pit and found clothing nearby, some 40 volunteer firemen from Berlin were summoned.

Because of jagged rocks beneath the surface, dragging operations were not employed and the bodies were discovered by a fireman lowered into the water by a rope.

Somerset County Coroner Robert Halverson estimated the bodies had been in the water about 24 hours. A slight cut over Fogle's left eye led police to theorize that he dived from a makeshift diving board and hit his head on a rock.

Mrs. Watkins bathing cap was found on the bank near the diving board, leading police to believe she had hurriedly gone to Fogle's assistance.

A British war bride, Mrs. Watkins had been living in a trailer on the property of her in-laws ever since her husband left her about a year ago, police said.

Abandoned Strip Mine

State Police claim the strip mine was abandoned. An official of a Somerset coal company denied the mine was abandoned. He said the area was test drilled last summer and that "we had the intention of working it sometime in the future."

Joseph Svonavec of the Svonavec Coal Company said the firm moved on to another location after test drilling and "I had no idea it had since filled with water."

A funeral service will be held for Mrs. Watkins at 2 p. m. today at the Johnson and Son Funeral Home in Berlin. Rev. Harold Seese will officiate and interment will be in the Brotherton Cemetery.

A native of England, she was born November 14, 1928, and was a daughter of William and Hilda (Dolman) Cliff. She was a member of the Church of the Brethren in Brothers Valley.

Besides her parents she is survived by her husband, Harry Watkins, two brothers, William and Roy Cliff, both of England.

Fogle Funeral Tomorrow

Mr. Fogle will be buried tomorrow afternoon in the Odd Fellows Cemetery in Berlin. A service will be held at the funeral home at 2 p. m. Rev. Edwin O. Wenck and Rev. Ralph Mills will officiate.

A native of Berlin, he was born on June 1, 1935 and was a son of Donald E. and Evelyn (Lytle) Fogle. Besides his parents he is survived by three brothers, Barry, David and Neil Fogle, all at home and a sister, Virginia in Washington, D. C.

Dinner Table Is Busy Place

The dinner table of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Stein of near Oldtown is a busy place these days. The Steins have have four children of their own, and five Chinese children from New York City who are spending a two-week vacation with them. Seated from left to right around the table are Betty Lee, Linda Stein, Mrs. Eva J. Stein, Mr. Stein's mother, Melvin Lim, George Stein, Mrs. Hannah Stein, Bobby Stein, Jessie Lee, Penny Stein, Mary Lee and Suzanne Lee. Douglas Stein, three-month-old son of the Steins, is in his crib off to the right of the table. The favorite foods of the Chinese children are spaghetti and pizza pie.

By P. TERRENCE BURKE
News Staff Writer

The reason for the over-populated table is five Chinese children from the Chinatown section of New York City who are spending two weeks with the Steins.

The children arrived in Cumberland July 25 in connection with a project sponsored locally by the SS. Peter and Paul's Parent Teachers Association and the Herald-Tribune Fresh Air Fund in New York City.

In addition to the five "adopted" Chinese children, the Steins have four children of their own, ranging from 16 years to three months. Mr. Stein's mother, Mrs. Eva J. Stein, also resides with them.

Four of the "Fresh Air Kids" are sisters. Mary Lee, 13; Jessie Lee, 11, and Betty Lee, 10, spent a month last summer with the Steins, but this is the first trip away from home for Suzanne Lee, who will be six next month. The other visitor, Meivin Lim, 13, also was a visitor at the Stein home last summer.

What's it like to have the number of members in your household almost double overnight?

Mr. and Mrs. Stein said there were only some minor adjustments to be made in sleeping arrangements, but other than that it has been no problem at all.

The four Lee sisters and Linda Stein, 16, and Penny Stein, 14, all share the same room. This was accomplished by placing two double beds and a single bed in a row along a wall. Mrs. Stein said it's almost like a pajama party every night when the girls go to bed.

Melvin Lim and Bobby Stein, two, share a bedroom and Mr. and Mrs. Stein have the baby, Douglas, three months, in their room. The elder Mrs. Stein occupies the fourth bedroom.

Although the visiting children always eat Chinese food at home with chopsticks, Mrs. Stein said she has had very little trouble satisfying their appetites with American food.

There are some of our dishes the girls don't care for, Mrs. Stein said, but Melvin has a hearty appetite and will eat anything.

City Surplus Approaches $39,000 Mark

Taxable Base Will Go Up $2,000,000

The City of Cumberland completed its fiscal year on June 30 with a surplus of $238,960.49.

The surplus, City Comptroller Arthur B. Gibson pointed out, is only $39.51 less than the $239,000 which was on hand to prime the 1960-61 budget.

In spite of a $2,000,000 increase in assessments, there are no indications that the city services can be extended during the coming year.

The extra $2,000,000 of assessments will bring in an additional $25,000 for city operating expenses, and help reduce debt service costs.

Wage Costs Up

The extra money will be more than offset by the necessity of setting aside funds in the upcoming budget for city planning and to provide for automatic wage increases in the merit pay plan adopted by the Mayor and Council last year.

The Mayor and Council are committed to provide $15,000 in the budget for the first year of a two-year planning program and the regular salary increases provided in the merit plan will cost more than $10,000.

Work on the upcoming budget is already under way.

The report on the Condition of the Levy on June 30, 1961, completed by Mr. Gibson yesterday, shows that collections on the levy totaled $2,046,542.66, or 107.7 per cent of the amount levied for city operations.

Excess collections boosted the total by $152,457.07 and helped to offset $5,844.41 of uncollected funds.

Tax Levy Over

A total of $1,324,115.61 was collected on the tax levy. This is 106.2 per cent of the $1,247,000 of ad valorem taxes included in last year's levy.

Collections on service charges for sewage treatment and the upkeep of sanitary sewers totaled $248,300.72, within $1,699.28 of the estimated income.

The plant was operated at a cost of $132,219.73, leaving $21,655.27 on hand as an unexpended balance. Debt service charges totaling $96,125 were met during the year.

The various departments of the city spent $1,569,262.67 during the year, or 94.4 per cent of the $1,661,610.50 set aside to meet operating costs.

This left an unexpended balance of $93,641.92, offset by overdrafts totaling $1,294.09 among four accounts.

Wife Admits Aiding Mate In Jailbreak Try

Mrs. Donna McKenzie, 19, of Lonaconing, yesterday admitted that she passed a hacksaw blade to her husband, who is a prisoner in Allegany County Jail, according to State's Attorney James S. Getty.

Mrs. McKenzie was questioned in the state's attorney's office and was released on her own recognizance after making a statement.

Mr. Getty said she was released because she is expecting a baby shortly, but she will be charged with attempted jailbreak.

A 14-year-old local boy also admitted smuggling saw blades into the jail and was ordered committed to the Maryland Training School for Boys following a hearing Monday in Juvenile Court.

Magistrate Cracks Down On 'Habituals'

Police Arrest 15 Persons

Fifteen persons, arrested within five hours Monday for loitering, being drunk or disturbing the peace, were given hearings yesterday afternoon in Police Court before Trial Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt.

Among them was George Maiers, of Valley Road, who was committed to six months in the Maryland House of Correction after being found guilty of assaulting a 14-year-old youth.

Others were told to get out of the city, were committed to terms in the Allegany County Jail or were put on the "work gang" in default of bond.

The magistrate said there had been frequent and recurring complaints about the increasing number of loiterers, drunks, panhandlers and idlers on Baltimore Street and in the downtown business areas. In a statement from the bench Mr. Weatherholt said:

"Some two years ago, when I first became a magistrate, I requested the Mayor and Council to provide such ordinances as are necessary to provide a 'work gang' for these idlers. At that time, police records showed about 39 names listed in this category. Continued enforcement and use of the work gang by the police magistrates reduced this number to about 12. Some of these plus a few new faces are giving rise to complaints again.

Praises Merchants' Efforts

"Cumberland is a good city and is proud of all its traditions. But times are bringing about changes," the magistrate observed.

"The impact of a local defense industry and other new industrial and business developments here are being felt. New people, some of them highly trained, high calibre citizens, are coming here to make their homes. Housing is scarce and becoming more hard to find each day. Traffic is heavier. The demands on the whole community, the police, the courts, the merchants, the service industries are all steadily increasing.

"The merchants in our downtown area are awake to these needs and changes. Already they have begun planning for still newer and greater developments. But all of their time and energy and investment will be for naught if we do not recognize the social evils and the undesirable influences upon all people, citizens and transients alike, by this constant accumulation of drunks.

Issues Warning

"As police magistrate, I have requested the Police Department to bring in on charges of loitering, vagrancy, drunkenness, etc. those residents and transients who persist in cluttering the streets, doorways of public places and business establishments, and generally making nuisances of themselves by annoying the whole community.

"These transgressors who appear before me can expect maximum penalties upon conviction.

"As of now," the magistrate emphasized, "the police have had it, I have had it, and the whole community has had it.

"This latest episode of one of these habituals assaulting a 14-year-old boy and chasing him three or four blocks to beat him with a belt is enough.

'If the bums in this town know what is good for them, they will either become employable, working, productive citizens, or they will leave," he concluded.

Empty House Burns

Wiley Ford Volunteer Fire Company was called at 11 p. m. yesterday when a four-room frame house near the fire hall burst into flame.

The firemen were unable to save the house because the fire had gained a headstart before it was discovred. The house had been unoccupied for several months.

Blaze Extinguished

At 8:30 a.m. they got a call to Greene Street and Millman Place near the fire station where the emergency brakes of a van caught fire.

An extinguisher was used by the firemen to quench the fire.

Immediate Active Duty Unlikely For State Reservists

FT. MEADE, Md. (AP) — Immediate calls to active duty appear unlikely for most Maryland reserve military units, a 2nd Army spokesman says.

The spokesman said most likely reserve units may find their annual training periods extended for as long as necessary to guarantee combat readiness.

However, until actual orders are issued by the Defense Department in the wake of authority given to summon a total of 250,000 reservists to active duty, the status of the Maryland units remains uncertain.

There are 18,000 ready reserve members in the state, and 10,000 other Marylanders are members of the standby reserve.

County Building Cost In July Tops For Year

$448,725 Last Month Biggest In 1961

The builder-estimated cost of construction authorized by the 53 building permits issued during July by James G. Stevenson, clerk to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, is $448,725, the largest monthly total so far in 1961.

Both May and June had more building permits issued for construction outside the limits of the seven incorporated communities of the county but neither could match the July total cost.

The July total is $100,485 above the $348,240 total of July 1960 when 54 permits were issued, one more than last month.

After seven months there have been 287 building permits issued in the county for construction estimated by the builders to cost a total of $1,811,267. In the first seven months of 1960, there were 244 permits, 43 fewer, and the total estimated cost of $1,711,020 was $100,247 below the level for this year.

17 Sections Involved

The 53 permits issued during the month which ended Monday authorized construction in 17 different election districts of the county. Election District 29, LaVale, the usual leader, was back in first place in July with 11 permits. LaVale had dropped to second place for June only.

Other election districts with more than one July building permit included District 6, West Side suburban, seven; District 16, North Branch, six; Districts 7, Cresaptown - Rawlings, and 31, McCoole, five each; District 22, East Side suburban, and 26, Frostburg suburban, two each.

Seven other districts had one permit each in July. Included were District 12, Frostburg suburban; 13, Mt. Savage; 15, Lonaconing suburban; 17, Vale Summit; 20, Ellerslie-Corriganville; 21, Gross, and 28, Frostburg suburban.

Incidentally, the only building permits issued in July for District 2 at Oldtown, where a number of residents have signed petitions opposing their inclusion in the county's proposed interim zoning ordinance, were for two summer cottages. District 33, Kifer, where residents signed similar petitions, had no July building permits.

33 New Dwellings

Thirty-three of the 53 July permits were for new dwellings. Six more were for additions to existing dwellings and another proposed remodeling a garage for a dwelling. Other July permits included four for garages, three for carports, two for summer cottages and one each for phone equipment building, laundry room, wash house and machine and tool shop.

The phone equipment building at Cresaptown, costing an estimated $75,000, was the most costly project among the 53 for July.

The monthly totals for 1961:

January, nine and $49,525; February, four and $27,000; March, 39 and $297,975; April, 49 and $267,650; May, 64 and $401,087; June, 69 and $319,305, and July, 53 and $448,725.

Monthly totals for 1960:

January, seven and $39,750; February, 13 and $46,525; March, 21 and $222,850; April, 51 and $304,200; May, 7 and $235,695; June, 51 and $513,760; July, 54 and $348,240.

SRC Requests Injunction On Route 40

Judge Harris Grants Temporary Order

The State Roads Commission yesterday filed an equity suit in Allegany County Circuit Court seeking an injunction to prohibit three couples living on the east side of Polish Mountain from interfering in any way with the workmen and agents of the contractor, S. J. Groves Construction Company, and the SRC in the construction of the new U. S. Route 40 in that area.

Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris signed a temporary order restraining the three couples from preventing workmen and agents of the contractor from going onto the lands of the defendants. The order also restrains the three couples from obstructing, interfering or otherwise harassing the workmen and agents in the proper execution of their work.

The defendants, Chester L. Robinette and Mary Robinette, his wife; Howard F. Robinette and Florence Robinette, his wife; and Harry O. Robinette and Bessie M. Robinette, his wife, all of Star Route, Flintstone, may move for dissolution of this restraining order upon two days notice. The order will expire August 10 unless further extended prior to that date for good cause.

The SRC's petition states that a temporary fence has been built by the agency on the right-of-way line to prevent cattle on the farm from wandering upon the right-of-way and becoming injured.

It goes on to state that it is necessary for workmen to make openings through the fence to move heavy equipment from one end of the land taken to the other. However, the defendants have told the workmen they cannot make temporary openings and have intimated there may be trouble if the fence is temporarily opened.

The petition states that it is essential and necessary for construction of the highway and in order to prevent delay to the contractor that the fence be opened temporarily. If construction is not continued without delay, irreparable injury to the State of Maryland will result, the petition asserts.

A condemnation proceeding for the land involved was filed against the Robinettes on April 28. The SRC deposited with Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Circuit Court, a check for $10,760, which the SRC deems a fair price for the property.

Yesterday's petition was filed in Circuit Court by Peter J. Carpenti and Matthew J. Mullaney as special attorneys for the SRC.

Serious Fire Averted At Burlington

Quick action by volunteer firemen of Burlington, W. Va., last evening averted what might have been a more serious fire to the property of Charles Blackburn in that community.

Defective wiring apparently was the source of a fire which caused damage to the Blackburn washroom located to the rear of the dwelling.

Volunteers of the community were assisted by firefighters of McCoole and Keyser although the blaze was under control when the out-of-town firemen arrived on the scene.

It was reported that a supply of bottled gas was located near the washroom, and firemen were concerned about the flames spreading to the gas supply and the dwelling.

Burlington firemen had planned to call for help from Romney, but the blaze was brought under control.

The fire broke out about 6:30 p.m. The Blackburn dwelling is located on a point across U.S. Route 50 from the Methodist Childrens Home.

W. W. Hanly Is Promoted

William W. Hanly Jr., a native of Cumberland, yesterday was named by the Koppers Company in Pittsburgh to head the new lumber section in its wood preserving division.

Mr. Hanly graduated from Allegany High School in 1927, and began his career in the wood preserving field in 1929 with the Maryland Wood Preserving Company, which later became a part of Koppers.

His father, W. W. Hanly Sr., was associated with the White Lumber Company while the family resided in Cumberland.

Clerk Injured

A 20-year-old LaVale youth was admitted to Memorial Hospital last night with injuries he received in a fracas in the parking lot of Albert's Super Market in LaVale.

The youth, Clifton D. Baker, 107 Santa Fe Street, LaVale, was admitted to the hospital with a possible fractured jaw and fractured nose.

Blume Says Politicians Alone Can't Solve Conservation Issues

BALTIMORE (AP) — David Hume, an announced candidate for Democratic nomination for governor, told a group of Maryland sportsmen Tuesday they can not leave conservation issues to politicians to solve.

"Individual responsibility of those interested in conservation demands that their attention be directed to these issues in the political field," Hume told a luncheon meeting of the Sportsmen's Club here.

"Let us recognize that if we do not care enough to examine the issues and fight for what we have, if we persist in the idea that somehow, sometime the government—municipal, state or federal—will make everything right, you leave your legislators in a position where surrender to some special interest is simply a question of time."

Sportsmen annually propose a ban on catching rockfish during certain winter months and commercial interests annually bury it, sometimes after weeks of wrangling.

"If you would leave these (conservation) matters to the politicians," he said, "it is not necessarily fantasy if we look into the future and find that some issues will remain unsolved forever.

"If the thermo-nuclear bomb is dropped in a hundred years, some future archaeologist thousands of years hence, digging into the ashes of what was once the State House in Annapolis, may find the mummified remains of our legislators sitting at their desks with the charred remnants of the rockfish bill before them.

"Closer examination would reveal that a group identified as Eastern Shore delegates were pressing buttons labeled 'nay' and that another group identified as delegates from Baltimore City were pressing buttons labeled 'yea'."

Hume said the archaeologist would find that across the street in the Governor's Mansion "a cadaver later identified as the governor had written a note from the closet in which he was hiding to someone standing by a rather primitive telephone in which he asked: "Is it safe to come out, or are they still voting?" "

What is needed for a proper solution to such problems is factual information developed from research, and not political wrangling, Hume said. "So far we have fallen short," he added.

71 Air Guard Reserve Units Are Alerted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force Tuesday alerted 71 Air National Guard and Air Reserve units for "possible" call-up, designating them as priority outfits for federal service if a summons is issued.

Although only preparatory, this was the first definite step by the Defense Department under the administration's new defense build-up program.

Of the 71 units, 64 are Air National Guard, 7 are Air Reserves.

They fly tactical fighters, reconnaissance planes and transports.

About 750 planes are involved, of which approximately 100 are transports and the rest fighters or reconnaissance aircraft.

The units are authorized to bring themselves up to full strength. This means they will have to recruit about 5,000 men, to add to an approximate present strength of about 28,000.

Former Marine Commander Dies

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gen. Randolph McCall Pate, former Marine Corps commandant, died Monday night at Bethesda Naval Medical Center. He was 63.

Pate, a veteran of World War II and Korea, served two successive two-year tours as the corps commandant, retiring on Jan. 1, 1960.

After retirement he made his home at Beaufort, S.C. He is survived by his widow, the former Mary Elizabeth Bunting.

The Marine Corps said funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. EDT Aug. 3, in the Ft. Meyer, Va., chapel. Pate will be buried immediately after, with full military honors in Arlington National Cemetery.

Swift Trial Faces Plane Hijacker

Shot Two Men In Attempt To Take Over Ship

CHICO, Calif. (AP)—A husky construction worker faced swift prosecution Tuesday for shooting two men in an attempt to hijack a passenger plane to fly him to Smackover, Ark. He said he was in a hurry to become reconciled with his second wife.

The victims, shot in Britt's abortive attempt to hijack the plane Monday night, were Capt. Oscar Cleal, 42, of Menlo Park, Calif., a pilot for Pacific Airways, and Bill Hicks, 35, Chico, a company ticket agent.

Cleal lost the sight of his left eye, and was in critical condition.

Hicks was shot in the back. He was expected to recover, although his condition was serious.

Lyde said Britt told him he wanted to reach Smackover in a hurry and make upwith his second wife, Melba. They have a 7-month-old son, George.

Britt said he planned the hijacking for two weeks after reading how a Cuban forced the pilot of an American plane to fly him to Cuba.

James Rowley Named Head Of Secret Service

WASHINGTON (UPI) — James J. Rowley, who for 22 years has guarded the lives of four American presidents, Tuesday was named chief of the U. S. Secret Service.

A 52-year-old son of Irish parents, Rowley has been head of the White House Secret Service detail since 1946. He joined the detail in 1939.

A branch of the Treasury Department, the Secret Service has the double job of protecting the President and also enforcing federal laws against counterfeiting. Rowley will take over Aug. 31 from U. E. Baughman, who has retired.

Handsome, dedicated, and reticent, Rowley has won the respect of reporters who follow the President. They spontaneously applauded when his appointment was announced by White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger.

Rowley has made every trip with the President as guards, both in and out of the United States. His wife, Rita, and three children, Claudia, 19; Linda, 15, and Donna, 14, are used to his being away.

They refer to the White House as the "house" and see a lot of him on television standing next to the President.

He described his $18,500-a-year job as "a new challenge."

Top in the running for Rowley's White House job is Gerald Behn, now assistant in charge of the detail and the man seen most of the time standing closest to Kennedy in public. Behn, 45, a native of Forest Park, Ill., has been with the Secret Service since 1939 and at the White House since 1941.

U.S.-Soviet May Expand Cultural Exchange Plans

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department announced Tuesday a tentative U.S.-Soviet agreement to hold talks in November on broadening the cultural exchange program between the two countries for 1962-63.

At the same time it was disclosed that the Americans have complained to Moscow about Soviet foot-dragging on certain exchange programs in which the Reds don't show much interest.

The Americans hope to make progress in ironing out the difficulties by the time they get around to signing a new agreement.

The officially sponsored exchanges of scientists, athletes, artists and others between the two countries are carried on under an agreement first signed in January, 1958, and renewed in November, 1959.

The Soviet reluctance on some exchanges was attributed by some U.S. officials to a difference between Washington and Moscow on what each wants to get out of the program. The current cold war tension was not seen as the main cause.

McNamara Asks Fallout Fund

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara Tuesday asked Congress for authority and funds to build fallout shelters to protect 45-50 million Americans from nuclear attack at a cost of $4 per person.

He told congressional committees that President Kennedy's new Civil Defense plan would save millions of lives in case of an atomic strike against the United States. The shelters would be provided in existing buildings.

McNamara made his case in an appearance before a House government operations subcommittee and in closed-door testimony made public by the House Armed Services Committee. The defense chief took over Tuesday as boss of most Civil Defense work.

The defense secretary told the government operations subcommittee he wants to spend $93 million to locate and mark available shelter space in cities throughout the country. This would provide fallout protection for about one-fourth of the population.

The shelters would be supplied with emergency rations for a five-day period and a two-week's supply of water for each person at the rate of a quart a day.

East Germany Steps Up Tempo To Isolate West

More Refugees Defy Red Warnings

BERLIN (AP) — Communist East Germany Tuesday increased the tempo of threats to isolate West Berlin and cut off the flow of Germans fleeing from Red rule. But more East German refugees poured into West Berlin in the darkening political climate.

At Marienfeld Camp, officials said 1,322 more East Germans had arrived in the past 24 hours through the Berlin escape hatch. That was almost one-third more than a week ago.

Officials announced that July set a record since the troubled days of 1953, with over 32,000 officially registered. Informed sources said the actual number may be nearer 40,000 since many did not register.

Accuse West

The East German Central Democratic Bloc, a fellow-traveling political body, warned "all citizens of the German Democratic Republic to avoid trips and visits to West Berlin in the interests of their own security, their family and the cause of peace."

The Communists say the West is luring its citizens to West Germany by employing "trades in human beings." A Communist prosecutor in East Berlin Tuesday asked sentences of up to 15 years in prison for five people charged with being such "traders." The trial was being televised.

East Germans who have to go to Berlin every day — because they have jobs there—were being put under greater pressure by the Communists. According to some estimates, these border crossers number as many as 80,000. Some have been called to police headquarters and told bluntly to find jobs in East Berlin.

Letter From Mayor

Friedrich Ebert, mayor of East Berlin, wrote Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin that the border crossers constitute a problem which is "growing more urgent all the time." Brandt said there would be no comment.

New regulations of the East German Communist regime went into effect requiring all planes

Admiral Rickover Has Heart Attack

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, the controversial "father of the atomic submarine," has suffered a mild heart attack.

Rickover, 61, was admitted to the U.S. Naval Hospital in nearby Bethesda, Md., July 25 but his ailment was not disclosed until Tuesday.

The Navy said Rickover "is now sitting up and his condition is considered excellent."

A brief statement said no surgery was performed.

Rickover, a blunt and outspoken Annapolis graduate who is credited with the development of the Navy's atomic powered submarine fleet despite old guard Navy objections, passed retirement age last Jan. 27.

But former Defense Secretary Thomas S. Gates in the Eisenhower administration asked him to stay on duty another two years. This request later was repeated by President Kennedy. Admirals normally retire at 60.

Goals Set In Cancer Research

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A Stanford University surgeon named five goals Tuesday which he said cancer researchers are hopeful of obtaining in the 1970's.

Dr. John W. Cline associate professor of surgery at Stanford, told a meeting of the International Association of Laryngectomees that because of the vast amount of work to be done "the dream of complete cancer control within a decade must be called a hope."

The association is comprised of persons who have lost their voice boxes to cancer.

Goals mentioned were:

—Evidence of what relationship viruses have to cancer in man and, assuming such a relationship exists, subsequently a vaccine.

—Knowledge of how to prevent certain cancers which are not now preventable.

—Drugs that will control at least one or two types of cancer.

—Improvements in diagnosis and treatment.

Two Die In Crash Of Air Force Jet

The Air Froce said the TF104, a training version of the Delta Dagger jet interceptor, sank within ten minutes, carrying Capts. Thomas Mellen and Donald Underkolfer to their deaths. Mellen's parents live in Mountain Home, Idaho, while Underkolfer's wife and three children live here.

The pilot of a helicopter which reached the scene within minutes reported he could see only two helmets and an ejected seat floating on the water.

MacMillan Sees Meeting This Year

White House Says Such A Session Is Certainly Possible

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House said Tuesday it is "certainly possible" that a summit meeting of Western heads of government will be held before the year is out.

Press secretary Pierre Salinger made the statement when asked about a comment by British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan in the House of Commons that leaders of the West might get together this year.

Talk of such a conference has intensified in recent weeks in view of the growing Soviet threat to the West's position in Berlin and other cold war conflicts between the East and West.

Salinger said no meeting is planned at present. But he added: "It is certainly possible that there will be a meeting of Western leaders before the end of the year."

He made plain that he was speaking of a gathering of government heads when he referred to Western leaders, noting that Western foreign ministers already have a definite meeting planned for the end of this week. The foreign ministers will meet in Paris.

Salinger said he did not know whether Macmillan had discussed the prospect with President Kennedy before remarking in London that a conference was possible.

Administration Rallies Forces On Foreign Aid

"We will accept no compromise at this time," said Rep. Thomas E. Morgan, D-Pa., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Some legislators, including Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., have said the administration may have to settle in the end for a three-year program.

The House committee gave its formal approval to the five-year plan in a 27-4 vote endorsing a preliminary action of last week. The committee cut $407 million from Kennedy's current-year request for $4,762,500,000 in foreign aid funds but approved his five-year $8.8-billion development loan plan.

Morgan and Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, accompanied Democratic congressional leaders to their weekly White House breakfast session with President Kennedy.

They said afterward that foreign aid was the main topic of discussion.

House Speaker Sam Rayburn, D-Tex., told a news conference the administration program is this country's answer to Communist advances in underdeveloped nations around the world.

Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, the Senate Democratic leader, said Kennedy told the congressional leaders he regards the five-year loan program, which would be financed by Treasury borrowings, as "vital."

Change Of Command

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (UPI) — Adm. Arleigh A. Burke retired Tuesday as chief of U. S. naval operations and turned over the helm to Adm. George W. Anderson Jr. with assurance that "the fleets are manned and ready — our Navy is strong and alert."

Anderson, 54, immediately dispatched a message to naval units throughout the world expressing determination to keep the Navy "on course and steaming strong."

Burke, known as "31-knots" for the way he drove his destroyers at high speed in World War II, ended his unprecedented six-year term in a full honors ceremony at the naval academy where he began his career 42 years ago.

In a farewell to the Navy, Burke warned that "there will be heavy seas ahead" for the nation and "we will need steadfast, determined courageous people to ride them out."

Retiring just short of 60, Burke said that the one constant influence on the affairs of men and nations is seapower—naval power.

The free world, he said, is united physically by the seas and is a maritime confederation able to send its strength "wherever and whenever our hard-won liberty is threatened."

To Anderson, the third aviator ever to reach the Navy's top military office Burke said:

"It is with great pride that I can say to Adm. Anderson, the fleets are manned and ready, courageous captains and crews are ready for battle, our Navy is strong and alert and all hands stand ready for the challenges that lie ahead."

Anderson left command of the U.S. 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean to go to Washington and head the Navy.

Previous aviators who served as chief of naval operations were the late Adms. Ernest J. King in World War II and Forrest P. Sherman in the Korean War.

JFK-Chen Cheng Air Strategy On Red China

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Nationalist China reportedly were agreed Tuesday on general principles to be adopted at the United Nations next month in opposing Communist China's bid for representation in the world body.

But differences in tactics were still under discussion following two meetings between President Kennedy and Chen Cheng, Nationalist China's vice president and prime minister.

Both Chinese Ambassador George K. C. Yeh and U.S. Ambassador to Formosa Everett F. Drumright agreed that the two days of consultations had brought better understanding of the general position of the two sides.

Chen told newsmen later that his country will use every power it has under the United Nations charter to block the entry of Communist Outer Mongolia into the United Nations.

As a permanent member of the Security Council, Nationalist China has a veto.

Firestone, grandson of industrialist Harvey S. Firestone, has oil interests and is a well-known racehorse owner. He and his bride will honeymoon for six months in Hawaii, Bermuda and Europe.

By JERRY T. BAULCH

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Appropriations Committee Tuesday voted unanimously to give President Kennedy every penny of the $3.5 billion he asked for the new defense alert and then boosted the increase to $4.5 billion.

The extra $1 billion—earmarked for bombers, missiles and other things—raised the defense budget for the fiscal year that started July 1 to $47 billion. It's the biggest peacetime military bill in U.S. history.

The total is over $4 billion more than the House voted June 28 and tops the military budget Congress approved last year by $6.5 billion.

Apart from the purely military build-up, it includes Kennedy's request for $207.6 million to accelerate sharply the civil defense effort—a role recently assigned to the Pentagon.

Meanwhile, the Air Force took the first step toward getting ready in case Kennedy decides to bolster the regular forces with reserves. The Air Force told 64 Air National Guard and 7 Air Reserve units they "may be ordered to active duty" and advised them to be prepared.

The committee, in giving the President more financial freedom to counter the Soviet threat at Berlin and elsewhere, added an economy footnote. It urged "more evidence of cost consciousness on the part of both civilians and uniformed personnel in the defense establishment."

It is suggested, the committee said, that civilian officials, admirals and generals "give particular attention to the practice of austerity in connection with their privileges in order to set an example and to popularize the idea of getting the most fight out of each tax dollar."

The senators, responding to the sense of urgency which Kennedy expressed last week in asking for more defense funds, called upon America's free world Allies to gird themselves also.

The North Atlantic Treaty Organization nations should provide the military forces they promised for the joint effort, the committee said, adding: "It is only reasonable to expect that all nations of the free world living under the threat of Soviet aggression do their part by providing the military strength to which they have agreed."

Sen. A. Willis Robertson, D-Va., manager of the defense money bill, described it as "a balanced program between capacity for nuclear war and capacity for more limited conflicts." He added that "it provides a prudent reinforcement of the conventional strength for our armed forces."

Robertson said he hopes to get Senate action on the bill Thursday but may not be able to do so before Saturday. This would follow quickly on the heels of Monday's final approval by Congress of Kennedy's request for authority to call up to 250,000 reservists into military service and to extend active duty tours and enlistments one year.

The President signed that measure Tuesday.

The biggest item in the $1-billion extra was $525 million to continue production of heavy long-range jet bombers. It also backed up House action by voting $448 million to push development of the high-flying B70 supersonic jet as a usable weapon.

The committee's report predicted that manned strategic bombers will continue to be an important part of the nation's military might in the future.

And while providing more funds than asked for missiles, the committee questioned "whether this nation can afford to place full dependence on an operationally untried and untested missile force."

"In case of a nuclear (weapons) ban, ballistic missiles would be useless," the report said.

The committee did not specify which kind of bomber should be bought with the extra $525 million. But Robertson noted that Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, Air Force chief of staff, has said he prefers the latest model of the B52 to the faster but shorter-range B58.

The committee directed the Defense Department to supply Congress before next year with "a firm program for the B70." Its goal would be to place "the required number of wings in operational configuration at the earliest possible date."

The administration had asked only $220 million for the B70, limited to developing it as an experimental craft. The House voted $448 million with a directive to spend part on full development of the plane, which is being designed to fly three times the speed of sound. The Senate went along with this.

In the total budget, the committee kept all items the House had added before passing the bill June 28 but knocked out some House restrictions. Among the latter were limitations on military travel pay.

Under the bill, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara would have authority to shift up to three per cent of the funds from one category to another if this did not raise the total for any single item more than six per cent.

As approved by the committee, the money is divided: Army—$11,868,152,000; Navy — $14,529,680,000; Air Force — $18,932,415,000; Office of the Secretary of Defense — $1,310,445,000; Civil Defense — $207,600,000.

The funds will permit 2,743,227 active-duty military personnel by next July 1—an increase of 261,560 over the July 1 total. These can include 1,008,000 in the Army, 657,000 in the Navy, 190,000 in the Marine Corps and 888,227 in the Air Force.

Plumbers Union Strikes Plant In Hagerstown

Mack Truck Co. Work Is Slowed

James Donlin, business agent for Local 769 of the union, said the workers were seeking a new hourly pay scale of $3.75 — a 25-cent boost over wage provisions of the old contract.

There was no disagreement over fringe benefits involved in the dispute, Donlin said.

William Seeds, supervisor for Darin and Armstrong of Detroit, general contractor on the project, said all other craft union workers continued on the job.

The plant is scheduled for completion in the fall. A spokesman for Mack Trucks, from the company's headquarters at Plainfield, N.J., said the company was not directly concerned in the dispute.

However, the spokesman said the company was concerned about "what its effect may be on our ability to get the plant opened on schedule."

He indicated a delay in construction could affect the company hiring program.

East Germany

crossing its territory to report to an East German air safety center. It was thought that might be used as an excuse to interfere with Western flights to Berlin. Western planes must cross East Germany to get to West Berlin and they report to a special four-power air safety center in Berlin.

But air traffic moved normally all day. A Soviet officer reported as usual in the morning to the Berlin air safety center.

Many refugees crowding into West Berlin expected the East Germans to announce a new issue of identity cards Aug. 1. New cards, with different colors for different regions of East Germany, would make it harder for refugees to reach Berlin — their main escape hatch. Any Communist policeman could see at a glance whether they had authorization to be in Berlin. But there were no new cards.

Four Marylanders Killed In Tennesse

JONESBORO, Tenn. (AP) — Four Maryland residents were killed and one injured critically Tuesday when their convertible plunged down an 80-foot embankment near this Northeast Tennessee town.

The dead were identified by funeral home attendants as Ernest Sherman, 47, Geneva Sherman, 50, Jane Elizabeth Sherman McNeil, 22 and David Eugene McNeil, 22.

Ernest and Geneva Sherman of Riverdale, Md., were husband and wife, as were Jane and David McNeil, who lived at Bladensburg. Sonny Sherman is the son of the Shermans.

Highway Patrol Sgt. Harry Montgomery said there was a chance the car may have been sideswiped and knocked from the road. He said there were no eyewitnesses.

Clerk Denies Payoff Charge

TOWSON, Md. (AP)—The chief clerk of the Baltimore County Elections Board Tuesday denied a civil suit charge that he threatened to cancel a contract for purchase of card index system unless he received 10 per cent of the sale price.

"This came as a complete shock to me and there is not one word of truth in it," said Maurice W. Baldwin, the clerk named in the action filed by the Price Co.

Baldwin labeled the charge an attempt "to get even with the present board which cancelled the contract."

The company in its suit asked full recovery on the contract cost plus all court costs.

YCC And GI Bills Get Green Light

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Labor Committee voted Tuesday for a 150,000-man Youth Conservation Corps and for a "cold war GI education bill." Neither vote is likely to please President Kennedy.

The youth corps bill approved by the committee would set up a corps 25 times larger than the one recommended by the President. The GI bill was actively opposed by administration leaders.

The President's opposition to the bills was based on economy, not principle.

Youths between the ages of 16 and 21 could enroll for six months to work on projects sponsored by government conservation, park, forest, and wildlife agencies.

The GI bill, sponsored by Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., would give veterans discharged since Jan. 31, 1955, the same college education and other benefits received by veterans of World War II and the Korean War.

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Federal Bureau of Investigation Tuesday announced the arrest of two 19-year-old enlisted men charged with the theft of about $3,000 worth of merchandise from a Navy exchange store at the Patuxent Naval Air Station.

A quantity of merchandise taken from the base exchange the night of July 27 was recovered from a home in Arlington, Va., the FBI said. Cline and Primm, charged with unlawfully breaking and entering and theft, were ordered held in lieu of $2,500 bond each.

The Republican senator said a reduction in non-essential spending was the alternative to a tax hike in fiscal 1962 to finance a current defense buildup.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Gas Light Co. began a rate reduction Tuesday to pass on to its 400,000 customers a $3,612,024 refund from its supplier.

School Fallout Shelter To Be Open For Viewing

President Kennedy's talk to the nation has made the public know that the matter of Civil Defense is a vital one.

So, residents of this section will be able to see the fallout shelter that was constructed by high school students from Allegany and Fort Hill high schools beneath the stage of Fort Hill's auditorium.

J. D. Lonnholm, supervisor of vocational education for the Board of Education, said the shelter will be open for inspection Wednesday, Thursday and Friday from 7 to 9:30 p. m.

On one night, Lee Alexander, vocational education instructor at Fort Hill, whose students did the wiring and finishing work, will be host.

Another night, the Allegany High school class instructor, Wallace Walker, will be the guide. The AHS class did the brick and cement block work.

On the third night, a representative of the Allegany County Civil Defense organization will be on hand to explain the necessity of building a fallout shelter.

All three men will give necessary information for the construction of the home shelters together with their equipment.

Yellow Foliage Caused By Spray

Irwin said that some of the yellowing is caused by spraying along power lines, roads and railroads. He said that the spray often is carried by the wind to trees 150 yards away.

The situation is only temporary, Irwin said. He also said that there has been so much rain in recent months that the foliage of all trees is greener than usual and any yellowing is more noticeable.

Locust trees are very susceptible to any foreign matter and various diseases, but the situation is no cause for alarm, he added.

College Busy Getting Ready For Fall Term

Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of schools, announced the progress that has been made in the short time since the college plan was given the green light by the Board of Allegany County Commissioners.

Dr. Robert S. Zimmer, dean of the evening and extension division of the Montgomery Junior College, was hired as president of the new college here on July 25 and with the announcement of his acceptance of the position reaction has been spontaneous and gratifying, Webster said.

Yesterday Dr. Zimmer acted to set up a library at the school to be located in vacant Carver School.

He met with Miss Mae Graham, supervisor of school libraries, and Miss Nettie B. Taylor, director of the division of library extension, both of the State Department of Education.

The basic books needed for the establishment can be acquired in time for the opening of the college, which, if all goes right, will be in September.

Yesterday applications for prospective students were printed and they will be ready for distribution in several days.

Since the approval of the junior college by the county commissioners the Board of Education administrative office staff has been receiving from 12 to 20 calls from students daily.

A book of information concerning the college, its courses, objectives and requisites is being prepared and will be available soon for prospective students.

Webster pointed out that there will be two types of students.

One will be those who will take two years of junior college work in the fields of arts and sciences, business administration and engineering who wish to go on to another school of higher learning and get their degrees in those fields.

The other type attending will be the special student who wishes to take some specific course in the field of his line of work.

Dr. Zimmer is working on the faculty and today will interview one of the three applicants for registrar.

The initial steps being taken will be the start of the library, hiring a registrar, a dean and a librarian.

Without any advertisement, with the exception of printed stories about developments, the Board of Education has received approximately 20 applicants for teaching positions, three for registrar and one for a dean.

A rundown of these proves very interesting. One of the candidates read of the appointment of Dr. Zimmer in a Buffalo, N. Y., newspaper last week and submitted his application.

Another wanted to be considered for a position next year as he is leaving next month for a year's teaching in Pakistan.

Still another is a retired regular Army officer, a West Pointer, who went back to college after his retirement to get his advanced degrees in teaching and mathematics.

Some of the candidates for the initial faculty are from this section and have been teaching in other institutions of higher education.

The courses, requirements for admission, and fees will be announced later, Webster said.

Civil Service Unit Files Annual Report With City

The Cumberland Civil Service Commission in its annual report to the Mayor and Council says it feels the personnel system "has been strengthened and with the continued cooperation of the Mayor and Council, the various department heads and supervisors, the system can be further improved to the benefit of each employe as well as to the efficient operation of all departments."

It noted that June 30 marked the first full year in which the city has operated under a classification and pay plan for city employes. The commission said it was its opinion that ordinances establishing the system were adequate to provide a satisfactory personnel system over a period of time. After its adoption, however, a flood of requests for reclassification prompted the commission to ask that requests be held up a year or until the system had a chance to prove itself. The Mayor and Council then felt it necessary to have an on-the-job study made and the Department of Employment Security conducted the study. The study has been completed and job description forwarded to Milton Millon, director of the Municipal Technical Advisory Service, for classification.

The commission recommended that when adopted, the new plan be given an opportunity to prove itself by permitting it to operate for as long a period as possible without change.

Receipt of the complete file of job descriptions, classification and pay, is expected to require some minor changes in present ordinances, the commission said, adding "We realize that any new ideas adopted or proposed improvements made in a system will create the need to make other changes to make any program as fair and equitable for each employe as possible."

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, July 31 - Gary Crosby's run of bad luck, and bad health - is just about over I'm very happy to report. Not only is Bing's eldest son recuperating from his siege of nervous exhaustion, but today he was informed by 20th Century Fox that his old contract has been torn up and he is being given a new one with an increase in salary.

Gary's comeback movie (he hasn't appeared before the cameras in a year) will be "Beardless Warriors," Richard Mathewson's drama of teenagers drafted into the service of their country. It gives Gary a big acting chance.

It also gives him about two months more of rest because Richard Zanuck will produce it for 20th - and Zanuck has to complete "The Chapman Report" at Warners.

Wait 'til the baseball addicts hear this: The aristocracy of the American League, Mickey Mantle, Yogi Berra and Roger Maris, turn movie actors long enough to film some scenes with Doris Day and Cary Grant in "Touch of Mink" when the Yankees come to Los Angeles in three weeks to play the Angels.

There's a sequence in the U-I comedy when Carv takes Doris to a baseball game and the stars will share some close-ups with the two hottest batsmen in baseball and the great catcher. Roger Maris is running hot to overtake Babe Ruth's home run record, having piled up 40 so far this season to Ruth's all-time high of 60. And Mantle isn't far behind. Producer Robert Arthur, a baseball fan, can hardly wait for these scenes.

Out-bidding Elia Kazan and Josh Logan, actor-director Robert Gist comes up with the stage and screen rights to Edna St. Vincent Millay's only full length play, "Conversations at Midnight," having just closed the deal with the famed poetess' sister, Norma Millay.

It's Gist's plan to present the unusual property much as "Don Juan In Hell" was done with famed movie and stage "names" in the roles of the six characters, The Idealist, Man of The Cloth, Iconoclast, Communist, Socialist and Fatalist who hold the title "Conversations at Midnight." If negotiations go through with the Huntington Hartford Theater the play will open in Los Angeles before heading for Broadway and later for the screen.

While Ginny (Mrs. Reese) Milner was visiting Soraya in Germany, she traveled extensively through West Berlin, Munich and other German cities that are governed by Adenauer. I asked her what the feeling was among the people, and she said, frankly, that many of them were worried since they didn't know whether the U. S. would come to their aid because of all the walk about Cuba.

"Now that President Kennedy has made it clear that we will support them all the way, there'a a better feeling," she told me. "There is much talk that there's a shortage of food in Russia, and they cannot take care of their own people, much less their satellites. The situation for food is really desperate."

Hard for me to believe that any sets could be more elaborate and costly than Oliver Smith designed for "Camelot." But figures don't lie and I'm told that this same Mr. Smith has done even more elaborate settings for "Sail Away," Noel Coward's new play opening in Boston soon. One of the sets alone, showing the three decks of a luxury liner is said to be one of the most expensive ever constructed. To date $400,000 has been spent.

Of course, all of "Dear Noel's" friends will come up from New York for the brilliant first night, including Lynn Fontanne, Alfred Lunt, Dorothy Parker and many more, to get an eye-popping view of the show and listen to the delightful typically Coward lyrics.

On the 20th lot working in a "Follow The Sun" TV segment, Inger Stevens said she's still having nightmares over the close call she had in Lisbon, Portugal, a couple of weeks ago when the plane in which she was a passenger crashed in flames. Inger said she had been on a wholesale shopping spree in Europe and all her purchases which she valued at $15,000, to say nothing of her jewelry, were all lost.

When she was asked about her romance with Alan Livingston she said that it's still on but she's moving to New York in a month to work there.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Mario Costello, heir to the King Ranch fortune, who is playing a role in "The Comancheros," at 20th, and Singer Connie Stevens have discovered each other and had two dates last week.

A bit of black and blue has been added to Kim Novak's favorite color, purple, as the result of a violet fight scene in "The Notorious Landlady." Kim was so bruised, in addition to having a cold, that she's now in bed.

Former Irene Kahn, recently divorced from Arthur Marx, was quietly married two weeks ago in Arizona to musician Leonard Atkins.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gormley of Boston, who are the original President Kennedy boosters, are the houseguests of Mrs. Gormley'a brother, Jimmy McHugh.

Patricia Owen has been offered a movie in England and she wants to accept because her parents have not yet seen her six months old baby - Jerry Nathanson's child.

Carroll Baker flew to Paris Monday to be fitted by Balmain for the wardrobe she'll wear to the Venice film festival, where her movie "Bridge To The Sun" has been entered.

Ben Lyon writes from Antibe that he and Bebe and Val and Helen Parnell went to Monte Carlo with Jack Warner. "We heard "Louella' played on the French radio," he said, "and we missed you."

The pretty young discover of Burt Lancaster, Pilar Seurat, who was in "The Young Savages" goes from movies to Broadway. She'll play opposite Frederic March in "Gideon," Paddy Chayefsky's Broadway play.

Three no trump was reached with dispatch. A diamond opening would have sunk the contract but, in view of West's heart holding, such a lead would have been abnormal. West led the eight of hearts which declarer won with the ten.

Cashable assets appeared to be two hearts, one diamond, three spades, and a club (seven tricks). It behooved declarer, therefore, to try to develop the club suit for three tricks.

As for handling the clubs, the accepted technique is to play on the theory that the king and jack are in different hands—in other words, to take two finesses. On this reasoning he led the queen of clubs and his goose was cooked when West showed out.

South's theory of play had been sound, but his selection of the card to lead in attacking the clubs left something to be desired. Observe that, had he led a lower card than the queen, the disaster would have been averted for - he would have learned of West's void in time. He would then, of course, have gone up with the ace and played back to his hand.

The initial play of the queen will gain a trick whenever East has the singleton jack. On the other hand, the play of the low card will gain a trick when West has a singleton king. These cancel out. However, when West is void, the play of the queen loses a trick, which, as in this case, may be vital to the contract.

Good Memory

VENICE, Italy (AP)—Checking into the Gritti Palace Hotel, the Duke of Windsor showed he was not one to forget a bit of baggage. Informants said he called the hotel porter to inquire about 11 bottles of liquor he left when he was last at the hotel in 1957. The liquor was promptly returned.

The Sudan is about the size of the United States east of the Mississippi River.

West Virginia Veterinarian Ends Service

CHARLESTON, W. Va.—Dr. T. C. Green, for 22 years the symbol of "Mr. Veterinary" to West Virginians, retired from the State Department of Agriculture yesterday.

Dr. Green first came to the State Department of Agriculture in June 1939. Previously he had been in private veterinary practice then served four years as a field supervisor with the United States Bureau of Animal Industry in Charleston for four years. He was appointed West Virginia's first state veterinarian by the late J. B. McLaughlin, then commissioner of agriculture.

Dr. Green considers his most important contributions have been in checking the rise of brucellosis in West Virginia livestock (undulant fever in humans) and wiping out vesicular examthema, a serious swine illness resembling the dreaded foot and mouth disease.

Born October 29, 1887, in Cashmere, Monroe County, where he attended public schools, Dr. Green was graduated from Indiana Veterinary College in Indianapolis in 1911. He married the former Mabel M. Smith, also of Monroe County. They have nine grown children.

Railroad May Run Again If It Can Borrow Cars

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Passenger service on the old Baltimore and Annapolis Railroad line will be resumed on a trial basis as soon as the company can borrow some cars, the head of the B & A said Tuesday.

President James M. Easter of Baltimore said he is now "looking into the possibility" of obtaining two diesel-electric stainless steel cars, of relatively light weight, from a line which is not using them. He said he has located the cars but has not yet received permission to use them.

"If we can arrange to borrow these cars, or lease them for a trial period, we will be able to get started on this project," Easter said.

The 42-year-old executive, who became president of the B & A last Jan. 1, had announced earlier that he would like to resume the rail service between Baltimore and Annapolis which was discontinued by the railroad 10 years ago. The B & A has operated buses and limited freight runs since then.

Easter said public reaction to his announcement has been "overwhelmingly favorable." "I have received hundreds of calls and letters," he said.

He said before the plans can progress, however, the railroad needs to run a test operation for several months to determine public reaction and the feasibility of resuming rail passenger service.

He indicated when cars are finally obtained, they will be run from the Harundale Mall, near Glen Burnie, into Baltimore. Later, he said, service could be extended into Annapolis.

Unemployment Insurance Cost To Rise Soon

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Department of Employment Security announced Tuesday that most Maryland employers will have to pay higher unemployment insurance taxes in the next quarterly instalment.

The tax boost of some $3 million a year had been predicted two months ago by Stephen C. Cromwell, director of the department. Cromwell made it official Tuesday.

He said employers who are not paying the legal maximum rate are being informed their rate will increase three-tenths of one percentage point.

The rate depends on employment records. It now ranges from 1.5 per cent for employers with good records to a legal ceiling of 4.2 per cent. The new minimum will be 1.8 per cent.

The higher rates are effective last July 1 and will be paid in the quarterly instalment due Oct. 30. The announcement was delayed to avoid confusion over the June 30 payments for last quarter.

Tawes Seeks Accounting Of New Aid Funds

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Officials of Maryland's 23 counties and of Baltimore City have been asked to report how they're spending $14.7 million in new state aid funds.

The accounting was requested in letters from Gov. Tawes, who is expected to use the information compiled from the counties to make his own report to Maryland taxpayers.

The money now going out to the local governments as a result of action by the 1961 General Assembly is being collected through increased sales and tobacco taxes.

The levies are being collected by the state, but the money is for sole use of local governments. Tawes said he hopes to learn how much of the money is going for higher teacher salaries, local real estate tax reductions or other purposes.

The aid, ranging from $106,618 for Kent County to $3,262,519 for Baltimore City, did not have to be spent for allocated purposes if counties already were meeting minimum requirements in welfare and education fields — as most were.

"It is important, therefore," the governor said, "that we attempt to assess and evaluate fully its results and ramifications."

The information, when compiled, "can serve a useful purpose in future studies by state authorities of fiscal policies of this nature," Tawes added.

Tawes' office furnished this breakdown of estimated additional aid to local governments and what it would be equivalent to in relation to local real estate tax rates:

Allegany County $554,681 (29 cents), Anne Arundel $1,509,257 (29 cents), Baltimore City $3,262,519 (11 cents), Baltimore County $1,047,640 (6 cents), Calvert $153,873 (47 cents), Caroline $180,016 (44 cents), Carroll $247,408 (15 cents), Cecil $347,982 (29 cents), Charles $282,286 (44 cents).

Dorchester $209,094 (27 cents), Frederick $299,933 (13 cents), Garrett $159,319 (37 cents), Harford $436,042 (21 cents), Howard $255,959 (19 cents), Kent $106,618 (22 cents), Montgomery $1,544,241 (11 cents), Prince Georges $2,385,221 (25 cents).

Queen Annes $122,895 (24 cents), St. Marys $317,327 (55 cents), Somerset $194,383 (64 cents), Talbot $130,706 (19 cents), Washington $540,356 (20 cents), Wicomico $338,311 (23 cents), Worcester $163,260 (18 cents).

Oldtown Road

However, there are some foods the visitors especially enjoy, and these include spaghetti and pizza pie. Also the girls like pickles—they consumed a gallon jar of pickles during the first week of their stay.

Mrs. Stein said her "adopted children" do not care much for cake, pie, candy or other sweets, but prefer dishes which are on the salty or sour side. When the girls finished the large jar of pickles Monday, they drank the remaining pickle juice while all the rest of the Steins watched them with sour-looking expressions on their faces.

Mrs. Stein normally would be kept busy just taking care of their two small children. But the six girls and Melvin pitch in and help with minding the babies and taking care of the household chores.

It is not all work and no play, and the children engage in many outdoor and indoor games. The Steins live at the edge of the woods and the visitors see various forms of wildlife which often play in the yards.

The elder Mrs. Stein says she is constantly amazed how courteous and well behaved the Chinese children are. She added there is never any arguments among the children, which is remarkable for youngsters in that age group.

Mr. Stein, an accountant at Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, tries to arrange some activity for the children each evening, and one of these included a trip Saturday night to a drive-in movie to see a triple feature. He said the children saw the first show, slept through the second one and woke up to see the final feature, a ghost story.

The Steins say both their own children and the visitors learn something new and beneficial from each other each day, and they will have many regrets when they lose their "adopted" children next Tuesday for another year.

Blue Cross Subscribers 'Satisfied'

BALTIMORE (AP)—Most Maryland Blue Cross subscribers are satisfied with the hospital care program, according to a survey of some 2,000 policyholders.

But only a few subscribers know how Blue Cross pays hospitals or how much of the plan's income is returned to policyholders in benefits.

These are some of the conclusions from a recent questionnaire sent to the second Blue Cross Subscriber Advisory Committee — a random selection of group and non-group subscribers.

The aim of the project is to give Blue Cross officials a better understanding of subscriber attitudes and to develop suggestions.

More than 75 per cent of the committee members replied.

More than 7 out of 10 indicated pleasure with the benefits and services of Blue Cross.

On another question, only a few realized Blue Cross pays hospitals no more than their actual cost of providing care.

And most of those surveyed underestimated the amount of income Blue Cross returns to subscribers in benefits—more than 90 cents of each dollar.

Long May Be Candidate For At-Large Seat

BALTIMORE (AP)—The name of Dr. Clarence D. Long has been added to the list of possible Democratic candidates for Maryland's new at-large seat in Congress.

Long, a Johns Hopkins University professor and new executive co-chairman of the state Democratic organization, was said to be under consideration by party leaders for a bid in the primary balloting next year.

Speculation about Long's possible candidacy arose a day after Del. Carlton R. Stickles, a 40-year-old Democratic lawyer from Prince Georges County, made formal his intention to seek the nomination.

The eighth congressional seat for Maryland comes into being next year as the result of Maryland population gains as reflected in the 1960 census.

The General Assembly this year created a new 8th District out of Prince Georges and Howard counties, but the move was blocked by a referendum petition that forces the first election to fill the new post to be held on a statewide basis.

Long declined comment on the speculation he may be a candidate on a Democratic ticket headed by Gov. Tawes. The governor so far has not announced he will be a candidate for re-election, but such a decision is regarded as likely.

Stickles is the first to announce definitely as a candidate for the new congressional seat in the May primary.

Del. Blair Lee, D-Montgomery, is another who reportedly is under consideration for the same slot on on the Tawes ticket. Lee already has announced as a candidate for the U.S. Senate in the Democratic primary, and has been noncommittal about switching.

There have been previous reports George P. Mahoney, who is expected to oppose Tawes for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, wants Lee to run on his ticket as a Senate candidate.

Local Police To Get First Aid Course

A standard first aid course will be taught next month to members of the Cumberland Police Department.

Police Chief B. Frank Gaffney said the 10-hour course will be taught on three Wednesday evenings beginning September 6.

The course, which will be taught in the Public Safety Building, will be held each evening from 7 to 10 o'clock.

This past week Chief Gaffney and Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming met with W. Elmo Channell, qualified Red Cross first aid instructor, who will teach the course.

Arrangements will be made in order that all members of the Police Department will have an opportunity to take the course. A number of officers have indicated they plan to take it.

A notice has been placed on the bulletin board at Police Headquarters notifying the department members that the first aid course will be taught.

Shell Touring Manager "Mac" MacLaggan

"THERE'S no reason to let hot weather spoil your summer driving fun," says Shell's veteran Touring Manager H. S. "Mac" MacLaggan. "Here are a dozen tips that will help you protect your car and yourself from the wear and tear of hot-weather driving."

1. Cover car seats when you park in the sun. Then they won't be scorching hot when you return. A newspaper or a towel will do the trick. On the road, a ventilated seat cushion with back—like the ones truck drivers use—lets the air circulate around you and helps keep you cool.

2. Increase idling speed occasionally when you're in hot, heavy traffic. You'll turn the fan faster, speed up the flow of engine coolant—and reduce temperatures under the hood. This can help keep your car from overheating.

3. Don't pump the accelerator if your car won't start after a short stop. The engine is probably flooded. Pumping only makes it worse.

The right thing to do is wait a few minutes, press the accelerator pedal all the way to the floor, and hold it there while you work the starter.

NOTE: You're not likely to have this problem in the first place if you keep Super Shell's Hot Weather Blend in your tank. In summer, Shell scientists revise Super Shell's 9-ingredient formula to fight flooding and other hot weather troubles—for top performance.

4. Break up your trip. Summer heat drains your energy. Stop frequently to rest, stretch your legs and have a look at the scenery. You'll feel better when you get back on the road.

NOTE: Carry a thermos of ice water to quench your thirst between stops. And to freshen up, just pour a little ice water on a washcloth and bathe your face.

5. Keep meals, clothes and suitcases light. You need less food in hot weather. Heavy meals can make you feel hot and drowsy. As for clothes, you'll be more comfortable if they're light and loose-fitting. Better air circulation.

And pack only things you think you'll really need. Who wants to wrestle with heavy suitcases at the end of a hot day?

6. Keep your radiator clean. Debris in your radiator can cut cooling efficiency drastically. A whisk broom will help you clean obstructions you can see. But for a really complete job, let your Shell dealer use compressed air from his tire hose to blast debris out.

NOTE: Inside your radiator rust can interfere with efficient cooling. To help prevent rust, have your Shell dealer put in a dose of Shell's special Cooling System Protector.

7. Plan to reach your overnight stops before 4 o'clock. You'll avoid the local rush-hour traffic and late afternoon heat. You'll have your pick of the air-conditioned motels and hotels, too.

8. Make sure your tires are in tip-top condition before you leave home. Summer heat can increase the risk of blow-outs, and high speeds on sizzling roads wear tires out fast. At 80 miles an hour you get only one-fifth of normal tread wear.

9. Kill windshield glare. Did you ever notice how much summer sunshine can bounce into the windshield off the shiny shelf above the dashboard? That glare can be plenty irritating. To kill glare, simply drape a dark cloth across the dashboard shelf.

10. Have your oil level checked every time you stop for gasoline. This check is especially important when you're driving in hot weather, because a full crankcase of oil helps cool your engine as it lubricates. Suggestion: Next time you need oil, try Shell X-100® Premium, the remarkable new oil that fights 5 unseen threats to engine life.

11. Be sure your heater is completely off. Some heaters "leak" heat all summer. Let your Shell dealer check the heater valve and close it tight.

12. Get Shell's personalized Touring Package free. A typical Touring Package includes clearly marked route maps; accommodation information; sightseeing information; guides to cities and states; even ferryboat schedules. Avoid the time-consuming problems that make a hot day seem even hotter. See your local Shell dealer for full details.

#2 is Pentane mix—for fast warm-ups.
#3 is anti-knock mix—for knock resistance.
#4 is Alkylate to control "high-speed knock."

#6 is "cat-cracked" gasoline—for power.
#7 is an "anti-icer." Added when cold weather sets in.
#8 is gum preventive—for clean carburetors.
#9 is Platformate for extra mileage.

Americans Need Firm Resolve

The speed with which Congress is acting leaves no doubt that, while the Berlin crisis endures, the American people will have to make sacrifices and bear up under the risk of war.

The military budget will be raised by $3.5 billion, more men will be drafted, and a tax increase may be applied next year to hold the budget deficit to $5 billion. Civil defense preparations will be strengthened.

In Washington, the mood is so overwhelming it seems unanimous that the United States will be compelled to fight if the communists try by force to abrogate American rights in Berlin.

Increases in the number, equipment and readiness of U. S. armed forces at home and abroad will leave no doubt that we are not bluffing. This military buildup should decrease the possibility of war, and that is its intention.

The American people now know what they face in 1961. Sacrifice, tension and the chance of stark horror. Steadiness, determination and a resolve not to weaken under any circumstances are called for from every American.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

A. R. Booker, of North Hollywood, writes me:

"In looking down the block of our industrial section we observed that only one flag was flying in the entire block. It occurred to us that something has happened to our nationalistic spirit, which perhaps in a sense is reflected by our national leaders in their dealings with other nations."

So Booker put an advertisement in the newspapers advocating a flag-pole revival. His ad only brought him two letters. He says:

"When considering the placement of this advertisement I contacted the display advertisement department of a major Los Angeles newspaper. When I first read the advertisement to him his comment was, 'What are you trying to do, sell flag poles or flags?' It appears that it is our American custom to assume that no one does anything without an 'angle.' This is unfortunate, and I assume many persons who read our ad may have been under the impression that we sold flags or flag poles. I can assure you we have no relationship with the flags or flag poles or the steel industry."

Flying the flag or singing the National Anthem is not as popular these days as it was, say, in my youth. For instance, up in these parts, where once Longfellow and Bryant, Oliver Wendell Holmes and Nathaniel Hawthorne spent their summers, the Tanglewood concerts do not begin with the playing of the National Anthem and they fly a small flag in the big shed but not in the small theater. Perhaps musicians are not as patriotic as baseball fans whose games always start with the singing of the National Anthem.

Maybe it is all a small matter but it is over matters such as this that the nations of the Earth are on the verge of war. Nationalism is not easy to define in this era; it is so different in different places. The proliferation of nations has many causes and becomes possible once the strong power that holds a people together has lost its potency. Sometimes the thread of nationalism is no more than language, the association of a people by their mode of speech. Sometimes, it is historic memory, a nostalgia for a previous condition of relationships.

In Africa, for instance, it is difficult to tie nations together either linguistically or historically. In fact, many tribes hated each other and where cannibalism prevailed, they ate each other. Nevertheless today, they manifest an intense nationalism which represents a negative response to European colonialism. But anti-colonialism is not enough to provide an intense nationalism. And an example of modern nationalism is Israel to which men and women, boys and girls give their lives freely.

The Israeli Army includes women in many ranks and there Europeans labor in the desert not for themselves but for a nation which came into existence as such as recently as 1948. Israel is a startling example of nationalistic intensity. On the other hand, Red China is an Empire and a Cantonese remains a Cantonese and thinks in terms of his people—the Cantonese.

The trend in the late Nineteenth and early Twentieth centuries was away from nationalism toward universalism. Great Britain has throughout favored some form of internationalism because there have been so many components of the British Empire and of the Commonwealth of Nations that nationalism could only mean anti-British. Since the time of Woodrow Wilson, the United States has moved in the direction of internationalism, perhaps as a means for establishing a method for shifting responsibility for the smaller and weaker countries upon some international body.

Although this country did not join the League of Nations which we had initiated, we did join the United Nations to which we have devoted ourselves so ardently that we have actually made sacrifices of sovereignty to strengthen the United Nations. The Korean War is one example of that and our financial support of every activity of the United Nations is another.

It has been part of the trend toward universalism which has lessened interest in patriotic nationalism in this country—but times are changing. More and more young people have come to reject the intellectual mores of the 1920s and 1930s. They are not bound by the shibboleth of internationalism. They may, in time, wave a flag. The pendulum does swing.

Tunisian Affair A Sad Example Of UN Mediation

By David Lawrence

IN EUROPE, August 1 — The world is witnessing in the Tunisian affair a sad example of the incompetence or disarray of the United Nations machinery for mediating in international disputes.

When serious trouble breaks out, as it did a few days ago in Tunisia, it is wrong for Dag Hammerskjold, the Secretary-General of the U. N., to accept an invitation from one side and then promptly set forth, by letter to the other side, proposals that must inevitably be regarded by the latter as partisan.

In a subsequent letter of explanation to the French Foreign Minister, Mr. Hammarskjold declared that his attitude was "based solely on the interpretation of the duties of the Secretary-General and of the principles of the charter adopted by the organization in the past, and also on the intentions, I venture to believe, of all the members of the Council who voted for the interim resolution."

But is it the function of the Secretary-General of the U. N. to interpret the "intentions" of the members of the United Nations?

Mediation has been most successful in the history of diplomacy when undertaken with the consent of both sides in a dispute and when the mediators confine themselves at first to fact-finding. Then, after feeling out each of the parties, proposals can be submitted for the adjustment of the dispute.

President de Gaulle was right in refusing at this time to see Mr. Hammarskjold in Paris. For the latter had unwittingly disqualified himself as a mediator by conferring with the Tunisian government without first having obtained an agreement to talk with the other party in the controversy.

What the United Nations Secretariat should have been at work on during these past few days was an investigation of exactly what happened before and after President Bourguiba ordered a siege of the French base at Bizerte and his troops opened fire on French paratroopers reinforcing the base. The world should have been given the facts, and both sides should have been permitted to state the reasons for their respective actions before an attempt was made to launch proposals for a settlement.

Every mediator in any important controversy finds it necessary, above all, to establish his position as one of complete impartiality. An editorial in the Baltimore "Sun," reprinted in Europe, says in part:

"Mr. Harmarskjold's personal intervention in the Bizerte affair displayed less than his usual finesse. He flew to Tunisia in response to a direct plea from President Bourguiba and not on explicit instructions from the Security Council. This allowed the French to claim that he was playing the Tunisian side, though his intention is to play the honest broker."

Also, with passions raised to a high point when fighting occurs, it is especially important, after a cease-fire, to allow for a cooling-off period before an actual peace proposals are brought forward.

In the Tunisian controversy, the United Nations called for a "cease-fire," and it was obeyed by both sides, though the French refused to withdraw to the naval base troops they had moved into the city to repulse the attack. But the Tunisian government immediately sent its foreign minister to Cairo to arrange with the United Arab Republic for "volunteers" to help fight the French forces. This does not augur well for a negotiation in good faith. President Nasser has just announced that he is sending military equipment and supplies to the Tunisian armed forces. But will the United Nations take cognizance of this obvious intervention by military means in the dispute over Bizerte?

To run to Nasser, who has hitherto been hostile to the President of Tunisia, is strange indeed. For only three years ago Tunisia broke off diplomatic relations with the United Arab Republic and accused the latter of being involved in a plot to assassinate Bourguiba.

Another strange happening is recorded in a dispatch to the London "Daily Telegraph" from Rome, where it has just leaked out that the Tunisian government — before the Bizerte episode — concluded an agreement for new oil projects in Tunisia with Signor Mattei, the head of the Italian State Petroleum Company. This is the same individual who has been getting cut rates on oil from the Soviets in a maneuver that threatens to disrupt the whole price structure in oil throughout the world.

The Tunisian government makes no secret of its desire to acquire a substantial share of the oil resources of the Sahara. It is widely believed that President Bourguiba saw a chance to enrich his country by making up with the Algerians, wih whom he has hitherto been at loggerheads. His action came at the very moment when France and Algeria, in peace negotiations at Evian-Les-Bains, were struggling with the problem of Sahara oil. Shortly after the Bizerte crisis, these talks collapsed when the Algerians asked for an indefinite suspension, presumably to work out a deal with Tunisia.

So if there were a real inquiry into the whole Tunisian affair and the facts were given to the world, many high-sounding phrases in espousal of "self-determination" and "anti-colonialism" would turn out to be a cover for a materialistic quest. The Soviets have their eyes on the exploitation of the Sahara's oil resources for their own purposes, and will furnish money for development provided they can get a hold on certain African countries and start a series of moves that will adversely affect the companies of the West which have oil pipelines and refineries in the Middle East.

The mystery of why Mr. Bourguiba has suddenly turned on his Western friends and provoked a quarrel with France is gradually being explained by what is happening in the grab for the Sahara's oil resources.

France has a treaty right to keep the Bizerte naval base until such time as a satisfactory agreement with Tunisia is achieved by direct negotiation. The U. N. is neither a supranational body nor a superstate, and its usefulness as a peacemaker in the future will be enhanced only if it confines itself to the role of mediator and shuns partisanship. One way to achieve that result is to send a special U. N. Commission of at least three persons, appointed in each instance by the Security Council itself, to mediate, and not rely on one man, even if he is the Secretary-General.

REPLY—Rep. Charles E. Joelson, D-N.J., had some harsh words to say the other day about the Ku Klux Klan. He expected some reaction from his own constituency, but was somewhat surprised to get a letter from the opposite coast—California.

"I have received your recent letter expressing your disapproval of my opposition to the Ku Klux Klan and proudly proclaiming that you have been a member of the poisonous organization since 1923.

"In order that you may have the benefit of the opposite point of view which endorses brotherly love, mercy and charity, I am taking the liberty of sending you a book under separate cover. This book has long been widely read in America. I hope you will not consider it too radical."

Constipation Common In Elderly Persons

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Many elderly people are constipated because of their physical condition and diet. The intestines have lost some of their tone and the diaphram and abdominal muscles are weaker. They eat less bulk, usually because of missing teeth.

Some oldsters do not drink sufficient water and they are too preoccupied or forgetful to heed nature's call. Other's have been laxative addicts most of their life and the longer this situation has existed, the more difficult it is to correct. Time is needed for the colon to unlearn its undesirable dependence upon a stimulus or an irritant.

Older persons often have to take medicines that tend to constipate. These include modern remedies for indigestion, heart disease, high blood pressure, anemia, arthritis, and poor circulation. Some of the pills contain narcotics that put the bowel to sleep, whereas others reduce the motility and contractile force of the intestine.

Eating fruits, vegetables, salad oils, prunes, dates and figs is helpful in correcting constipation. The foods must be prepared in the way the oldster likes them and his dental status. Ample water keeps the bowel contents moist.

Physicians generally discourage the use of laxatives in this age group. The exception is the individual who has used a harmless product for years and finds it effective. The same applies to some of the newer compounds that add bulk by absorbing water or softening the stools.

Regularity should be encouraged, regardless of age. The normal movement expels the waste material that is in the rectum. A small enema consisting of water or a vegetable oil does the same without irritating the rest of the bowel. The injection may be employed after breakfast until the habit is established.

CROSS-EYED ADULT

M. F. K. writes: Will exercise help cross-eye in a man of 60?
REPLY
I doubt it if the eye has been crossed from birth. On the other hand, exercise may help if the condition developed suddenly only a few days or a few weeks ago.

SINUS AND MIGRAINE

P. R. writes: Is it true that if infected sinuses are dried up, the person then develops migraine headaches?
REPLY
No. Sinus disease and migraine may co-exist. Many people blame the sinuses for migraine and insist upon treatment.

HARD CHAIR FOR BACKACHE

G. H. C. writes: What is the best type of chair for office and home for a man who has a slipped disk? He complains that our living room furniture is too soft.
REPLY

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

George Burns recalls a pair of acrobats who got a chance to play a top vaudeville house after years in dinky one-ring circuses. "If you make good in this house," their agent promised, "I'll get you a 50-week contract playing the whole circuit. But keep your eyes on an owl the manager keeps on the balcony railing. The manager takes great stock in that owl. If he keeps his eyes open during the act, you're in like Churchill. But if it blinks—good night, Charlie!"

The opening night arrived and the acrobats advanced to the footlights, their wives watching nervously from the wings. Suddenly one acrobat whispered to the other, "Do you see what I see, Joe? That ventriloquist has your wife in his arms and is kissing her madly."

"Never mind my wife," hissed the other. "Keep your eyes on that owl!"

A stalwart character who graduated with all kinds of honors including a Ph. D. from Yale last June, is now studying to be a policeman in New York. He hopes, of course, to be Phi Beta Coppa. (Incidentally, hanging is too good for punsters, Charlie Rice insists. They should be drawn and quoted).

President Gets A 'Wrong Number' Call On White House 'Crisis' Phone

By Jack Anderson

(Editor's Note: Drew Pearson is en route to report firsthand on the Berlin crisis. His column today is written by his associate, Jack Anderson.)

WASHINGTON — Working late the other night in his bedroom, President Kennedy was jarred from his paperwork by the urgent clamor of the black emergency phone at his bedside.

This phone is to be supposed to be used only in cases of crisis. He grabbed the receiver in alarm.

"Hello!" He said tersely.

"No, this is the White House," said the President.

"Is Mr. Stevenson there?" the voice asked, still persisting.

"No, this is the President."

The caller hung up, probably in disbelief. But the President of the United States is still wondering how a call to the animal hospital happened to be picked up on his supposedly secure emergency phone.

Behind The Headlines

The Big Gamble—Following up Attorney General Robert Kennedy's crackdown on gambling, his former boss, Senate Rackets Investigating Chairman John McClellan of Arkansas, has served subpoenas on the nation's top gamblers. Over 100 big-time gamblers have been ordered to bring in their books and prepare to answer questions behind closed doors. They're busy rehearsing 100 ways of pleading the fifth amendment.

Behind Castro's Beard—Leaders of the Cuban underground, meeting secretly in Havana, have voted to expel Manuel Ray as their U. S. representative. They accused him of letting the CIA direct the Cuban invasion without consulting them. As a result, the underground was caught totally unprepared for last April's abortive invasion. Meanwhile the underground is still operating inside Cuba. They have cut down on sabotage because it isn't worth the risk. But they have stashed away arms and ammunition, also publish an anti-Castro magazine which is smuggled from hand to hand every two weeks.

Pres. Joe Kennedy?

Had it not been for a daring mission over Germany 17 years ago, the Kennedy in the White House today might answer to the name "Joe" instead of "Jack."

For it was Jack's older brother, Joe, who always dreamed of becoming President. He made no secret of his ambition, and Jack would have stepped aside for him.

But on Aug. 2, 1944, Joe volunteered to fly a plane rigged with high explosives into the Nazi submarine pens on the Belgian coast. He was supposed to bail out just before the plane crashed into the heavily fortified pens. But the plane mysteriously blew up too soon.

"I don't know what I would have done if my brother had lived," Jack has told friends. He has mentioned both journalism and law. But he would have given his brother a clear field in politics.

Boston legend has it that old Joe Kennedy, following Joe Jr.'s death, summoned his second son into his presence and dramatically directed Jack to carry on the family tradition of public service in his fallen brother's place.

"I got Jack into politics," wrote Papa Joe in 1957, "I told him Joe Jr. was dead and therefore it was his responsibility to run for Congress."

JFK's Great Decision

Family intimates say Jack took his time making up his mind about a career. He shrank at first from the blarney and backslapping of Boston politics. But he had a hankering to go to Washington.

When a vacancy occurred in Congress, Jack Kennedy decided to try for it. But it was a full year after his brotner's death before he finally made the choice that was to lead him to the White House.

Those close to the President agree that he would never have embarked upon a political career if his brother had survived.

Would Joe Jr. have gone on to the White House? He was a husky, handsome, hail-fellow-well-met with a "hiya" for everyone and a vote-getting Irish grin. He won his first election at 25 as a delegate to the 1940 Democratic Convention.

He told family and friends that he hoped to go to the convention some day as a candidate and become the first Catholic President of the United States. But for all his political appeal, he lacked Jack's keen intellect and quiet charm.

Jack grieved over his brother's death, collected essays from Joe's friends and published a private book entitled, "As We Remember Joe."

In his own contribution, Jack wrote: "I think if the Kennedy children amount to anything, now or ever amount to anything, it will be due more to Joe's behavior and his constant example than to any other factor."

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

It was an ordinary Sunday. The house was as quiet as a blazing ammunition dump. Karen, 8, and Kathleen, 6, the beautiful blondes, were in the back on the swings. Gayle was pushing them and the happy screams could be heard across the river.

Frank Gerace was wrestling with Rocky. Jim Hughes and Janet were trying to get James Dominick to take his nap on my bed. He isn't a year old, but he has muscles to spare. Ginny and Charlie came in with their four little ones, and the picture was complete.

My wife was in the kitchen trying to carve a leg of lamb. It looked to be about eight pounds and I said: "These locusts will go through that before you set the platter down." She said she had some cold roast beef and some potato salad and a tossed salad.

It was a memorable scene. The television was on in the dining room. The picture was bright and clear, but I could hear no sound in the babble of babies. There wasn't a solitary moment when someone wasn't crying. The mothers and fathers sat around the table, talking as though they couldn't hear the bedlam.

One of the children turned the air conditioner off; another one, Kevin Frechette, was crawling toward the front door when the bell rang. It was James Durkin, a publicity agent and friend. He came in looking like a beached whale in beige shorts and he tried to say hello, but he almost fell over Kevin and, when he tried to back up, he bumped into little Jimmy Hughes.

He seemed like a man who has been caught in a mad orphanage and has forgotten where the exit is. I made a drink for him and he gulped it, said thanks, and ran. He runs pretty well for a size 48 waist. I asked who would like to go swimming and most of the children who can walk said: "Me!"

All it did was start another problem. Some had bathing suits. Some didn't. The crying started all over again and one sister said: "If I can't go, she can't go." After a half hour of preparation, I led them across the street to the Ship Ahoy Motel. There is a big pool and a kiddie pool and I was betting myself mentally that none of them would go into the little one.

Carl Fleming, the manager, met me at the gate, and said: "Why don't you go for a swim?" "What," I said, "with these monsters? They'll tear the place apart."

Mr. Fleming had them for an hour. I haven't seen him since. They came home, dripping and sandy and sunburned, whining that they were hungry. Mrs. B. fixed up some food for them; their mothers fixed up jars of colored glop for the little ones, and soon the little dears were eating as though they invented it.

I picked up Pamela and kissed her behind the ear and said: "How is my Pamela?" and she nodded toward her twin sister and said: "Dat Pam." So I had Robin. Little Jimmy Frechette, who is two, a year younger than his twin sisters, kept pointing to a jar of gum drops and saying: "Canny, Canny."

Kathleen asked me to examine a pain behind her jaw. There was a slight swelling. It wasn't much. A day later it turned out to be mumps. Gayle said: "Aren't you glad I didn't bring little Elinor?" I said no, because Elinor Gerace is one of the most beautiful infants I have ever seen; I could watch her open and close her hands for hours without becoming tired.

There was a crash in the kitchen and everyone hurried out to find that one of the little boys had pulled an electric cord which was attached to a percolator. The leg of lamb was gone, so was the roast beef; my wife made the mistake of asking if anyone would like a dish of ice cream. Everybody would.

Fortunately, there were two gallons in the refrigerator. Also, there was some cold beer and part of a coconut layer cake made by the housekeeper, Carol Taylor. She made the cake and fled.

From six p.m. all the babies hit their stride. They began to tire, so they tore up the Sunday newspapers, got a finger caught in a closing door, picked the leaves off the planter, wet my bed, stopped up a bathroom with a whole package of Kleenex, and watched a ball of chocolate ice cream melt into the gray dining room rug.

It was, as I say, an ordinary Sunday. There was nothing unusual about it. Dull, in fact, if you discount the noise. By 8:30 p.m. the place was empty except for my wife, Kelly, and her two girls. She flopped in a chair with both legs over the arm.

A weary hand moved across her forehead. "Don't tell me you're tired," I said. "Children keep a woman young." . . .

INDEPENDENCE HISTORICAL PARK

WORK PROGRESSES ON RESTORING AMERICA'S MOST NOTED SHRINES

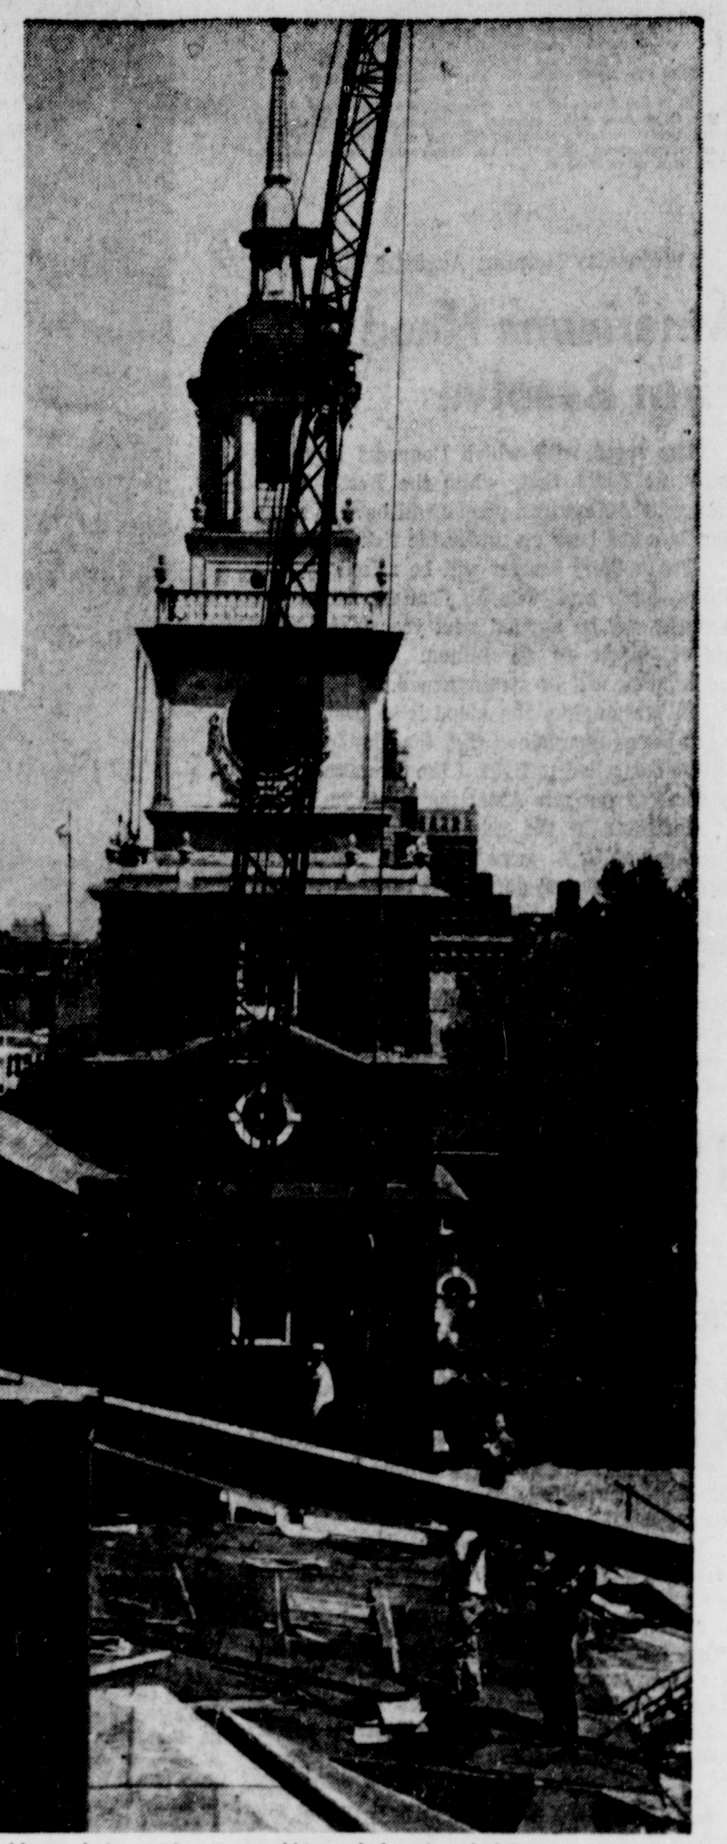
The brick sidewalks and the cobblestone streets of the type that George Washington, Thomas Jefferson and Benjamin Franklin traveled in colonial Philadelphia are returning to America's most historic square mile—Independence National Historical Park.

The park was created by an act of Congress in 1948. Restoration of buildings, including such notable shrines as Independence Hall, Carpenters' Hall, and Congress Hall, to their early grandeur, and beautification of the grounds, is going on, but will not be completed until 1965.

Bulldozers and wrecking cranes today still dominate big sections in the area. Scaffolding now clutters the red brick walls of Congress Hall, and workmen continue the slow rehabilitation of Independence Hall.

Already reconstructed are New Hall and Library Hall. New Hall commemorates the establishment of the Marine Corps in the 1790's. Library Hall is on the site of the Library Company of Philadelphia, founded by Franklin in 1731. Its original building was demolished about 1884. The landscaping, too, that is being done has a definite colonial character.

Amid the clutter and hammering, visitors still pour into the area, paying quiet and reverent homage to the great symbols of American liberty and independence, such as the Liberty Bell and the chair which Washington used while presiding over the Constitutional Convention, housed inside Independence Hall, or quietly observing other shrines and their relics, or strolling over the new pebbled walks on the Mall. Over a million and a half persons visited Independence Hall in 1960, and more are expected this year.



RENOVATING A SHRINE. Workmen swing into place one of steel beams being put in renovated hip-roof of south end of Congress Hall where nation's highest legislative body functioned until 1800. Independence Hall, in background, towers over scene.

The Lomako family stops to rest on bridge rail in reconstructed section, against a background of the old and new: Carpenters' Hall, where the First Continental Congress met in 1774, and behind it, outside park, a recently constructed office building.

Workmen build retaining wall at northern end of Independence Mall. Many small buildings have been torn down to make room for Mall at far end of which stands Independence Hall. Mall will be landscaped with gardens, walks and fountains.

Workmen prepare new foundation for Friends Meeting House, in back, to be moved 34 feet to permit widening of street. Building is oldest Friends meeting house in existence in the U.S.

Patricia, James and Steven Lomako peer through window of reconstructed New Hall. Note Colonial iron cellar door. Building is not yet opened to the public.

Melford O. Anderson, superintendent of Independence National Historical Park, examines detail drawing of reconstruction work being done in area. "We can't let the world forget America was born here," says Anderson, in discussing project.

Smith Tosses Second No-Hit Rec Victory

Defeats Bowler Again, 9 To 2

Rich Smith tossed his second no-hit victory this season yesterday as the Sports Shoppe defeated The Bowler, 9-2, in an American Division contest in the Rec Softball League at Naval Reserve field.

The Bowler utilized a walk and three errors behind Smith to score twice in the first inning off the Sports Shoppe ace. Smith then set the losers down in order in the last six innings of the game. The only other base runner received a pass in the fourth inning but was erased on a double play.

Moe Barrett was the loser in the contest, bowing for the fourth time in nine decisions this year. Smith chalked up his 13th victory in 15 games as he no-hit The Bowler for the second time. Smith blanked The Bowler without a base hit on July 7, winning 7-0.

Van Parsons and Donnie Madden each had a double and single and Irky Coleman collected two singles to lead the Sports Shoppe at the plate.

In another American Division contest LaVale Laundry turned back the Alinco Club, 7-4, at East Side. The loss was the 14th in succession for the winless Alinco tossers.

Ed Powelson and Buck Crass had triples, Harold Hudson belted a triple and two singles and Bobby Williams chipped in with three singles for LaVale. Yoder had a pair and Mitchell a three-bagger for Alinco. The results:

The Dodgers scored five runs in the first three innings and made their lead stand up for a 6-1 triumph over the league-leading Braves yesterday at Constitution Park as Poncho Klosterman held Manager Bert Lawler's crew to one scratch hit.

The Braves' loss enabled the idle Indians to gain a half game in their battle for the pennant in the Dan Division of the Dapper Dan Little League.

Klosterman struck out seven and walked only one batter as he went the route for Manager Johnny Daum's Dodgers. The only hit obtained by the Braves was an infield chop down the third base line by Steve Friend in the fourth inning.

John Williams had two singles. Pete Keys collected a triple and single and Tom Piper belted a three-bagger and two singles to lead the Dodgers at the plate. The results:

Court Test Set Over Welfare In Newburgh

NEW YORK (UPI)—New York state set the machinery in motion Tuesday for a court test of the controversial crackdown on welfare recipients by the city of Newburgh.

The state Attorney General, Louis J. Lefkowitz, sought an order from state Supreme Court which would restrain Newburgh from enforcing all but one of 13 rules it recently laid down severely limiting welfare aid.

Newburgh city manager Joseph Mitchell, who ordered the welfare crackdown in an effort to cut the welfare drain on city funds, said he would "obey any lawful order" of the court, but that his attorneys would seek to determine if there was any way to challenge Lefkowitz' action before the Friday hearing.

Mitchell and Newburgh have been under heavy fire from the state and other sources since the tightening up of welfare fund distribution was announced. The Newburgh 13-point plan has been challenged by New York state welfare authorities, and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People charged the action was aimed at the Negro population of Newburgh.

Lefkowitz said he decided to obtain "a final legal decision in the courts" after meeting with Newburgh officials without obtaining agreement on his findings in the dispute.

The league-leading V.F.W. tossers and the runner-up Moose team registered victories in yesterday's action in the Rocking Chair Softball League.

Vernon Penner collected two hits for the Vets off Glen Kauffman, the losing hurler. Kauffman had two of the losers' three bingles off Elliott. The win was the ninth for Elliott this season while Kauffman bowed for the ninth time in 19 decisions.

The Moose, remaining four games behind the leaders, blanked Pittsburgh Plate Glass, 6-0, as Dick Klavuhn tossed a five-hitter at Stitcher Field.

Clay Ingram had two of the hits off Klavuhn while Robinette chipped in with a double. Bob Keyser banged out a triple and single and Pete Cecil smashed a two-run homer in the sixth in a winning cause for the Moose. Bill Thompson was the losing hurler for PPG.

The Celanese scored both runs in the second inning when Bill Ware singled and went to second on an error. He was sacrificed to third by Glenn Burke and scored on Smokey Howe's one-base blow.

Dodgers Home For 13 Games

Los Angeles Holds Better Road Mark

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The National League leading Dodgers, supermen on the suitcase circuit but only ordinary mortals at home held a special batting practice Tuesday to prepare for a vital 13-game home stand.

The Dodgers have won 8 straight, 10 of their last 11 on the road and have a 34-16 season mark away from home. But they're only 28-22 at the Coliseum.

Wednesday night they confront another hot club — the San Francisco Giants, who have won five of their last seven and now are in third place, eight games behind Los Angeles.

Left-hander Johnny Podres (13-2) will oppose the visitors' Juan Marichal (7-7), a right-hander. Thursday night it will be Dodger right-hander, Stan Williams (10-8) vs. southpaw Mike McCormick (9-9).

After the Giants, the Dodgers play three with Chicago, two with Milwaukee, three with St. Louis and wind up their Coliseum stay with three against second-place Cincinnati.

When the Dodgers ended their last home stay two weeks ago, they were a dispirited bunch. They had won only 5 of 11 at the Coliseum and had dropped 3 out of 4 to Cincinnati.

They were six games back of the blazing hot Redlegs and now they're a half game ahead.

Hyndman Vets, Ellerslie Lose County Contests

Barrelville Defeats Kennell's Mill, 6-4

Hyndman's Vets and Ellerslie both lost ground in the County Softball League race yesterday, bowing to Stringtown and Corriganville while the front-running Greenpoint Inn Old Exports were idle.

Hyndman was leading 1-0 behind Junior Brelsford when Stringtown rallied in the seventh to win 2-1 at Hyndman. Paul Stair was the winning pitcher on a three-hit effort. Brelsford lost his second straight decision and eighth of the season. He has won 17 for Hyndman.

Joe Brannon opened the winning rally for Stringtown with a walk. Herk Miller singled and Paul Stair singled to load the bases with one out. Vohn Lehman then muffed a ground ball at short and two runs scored for Stringtown.

Stair had two hits for the winners while Rich Emerick tripled and scored the only run for Hyndman in the first.

John Lowery had a two-bagger for the only extra base hit for Ellerslie. Tojo Emerick cracked a home run and Bob Burkett hit a double for Corriganville. The loss was Vern Lowery's eighth in 25 decisions this year.

Barrelville's Old Germans scored four runs in the seventh to defeat Kennell's Mill, 6-4, on the latter's field. Ray Troutman picked up his eighth game in relief of Jerry O'Baker for Barrelville.

Jim Morgan singled with one out to start the rally, then Leroy Morris walked. Joe Glass' three-bagger scored two runs and Ronnie followed with a home run to score Glass and himself to climax the winning outburst. Irv Hosselrode had a triple for Kennell's Mill. The results:

Eastern Open Loses Wall

Burke Is Injured In Practice Round

BALTIMORE (AP) — Art Wall Tuesday withdrew from the $35,000 Eastern Open golf tournament to be held Thursday through Sunday at Pine Ridge Course.

Walls' withdrawal leaves two members of the newly named Ryder Cup team in the Eastern Open. They are Bill Collins and Gene Littler.

Burke was struck in the face with a driver when he walked behind Tony Lema as Lema was about to hit a drive off the first tee. Burke was taken to Union Memorial Hospital, where six stitches were needed to close the cut in his chin. He later returned to the course.

A $3,500 pro-amateur tournament Wednesday will serve many of the pros as a practice round for the Eastern.

The National League Phillies collected 11 hits off lefty Danny McDevitt and right-hander Al Schroll while southpaw Ken Lehman and rookie Paul Brown held the American League Twins to six safeties and an unearned run.

Baseball Players Strive To Keep 2d All-Star Tilt

Ask Committee To Seek Facts

By JACK HAND

BOSTON (AP) — Baseball will have two All-Star games again in 1962 if the major league players have their way.

The player representatives Tuesday decided to ask Commissioner Ford Frick to appoint a player-owner committee to explore the pros and cons of continuing the games.

Bob Friend of Pittsburgh, the National League player representative, said the players definitely favored two games and hoped to have a committee meeting with the owners within two weeks.

A final decision probably will not be made until the major leagues meet jointly at Miami Beach in December.

The players drew up a letter to be sent to each club owner asking the clubs take all possible means to alleviate any racial dsscrimination in housing, particularly on the west coast of Florida, during spring training.

Judge Robert Cannon, the players' legal counsel, said he and Frank Scott, the players' agent, had talked with Frick and the two major league presidents.

They said the players were satisfied that "as of this moment, baseball has done everything humanly possible to alleviate conditions, particularly on the west coast of Florida, relative to housing all players, colored and white under the same roof."

Cannon said the players realized that local laws and ordinances often made this difficult but the teams had made "tremendous strides in breaking down racial barriers."

Scott said there was no problem of segregation in Arizona or California.

Houston, which will be a member of the National League next year, also was discussed. Cannon said the players did not want to disclose their talks on the Houston situation because negotiations were under way between clubs and local officials that he hoped ultimately would be concluded with all players housed under one roof in first class conditions.

Houk Suspended Five Days, Fined $250 For Actions

BOSTON (AP) — American League President Joe Cronin Tuesday imposed a 5-day suspension and a $250 fine on New York Yankee Manager Ralph Houk for the latter's actions in the field last Sunday.

The order informed Houk he is not to be in uniform once a ball game begins nor is he to participate in directing his team — directly or indirectly — while a game is in progress.

Houk was accused of brushing Umpire Ed Hurley in a dispute over a called strike as the Yankees were losing a doubleheader to the Baltimore Orioles.

Heat raves! Make them cold while the sun shines. Make them with Seagram's Extra Dry Gin. Your Martini-on-the-rocks will be smoother. Your Tom Collins tangier. Your Gin & Tonic zestier. Because Seagram's is stored away to remove usual gin sweetness and perfumery. It turns Extra Dry . . . amber crisp. And it makes any drink under the sun totally delicious!

Bull Market Signal Sets Pace Of Record Advance

NEW YORK (AP) — Big gains by selected key issues paced the stock market to a smashing advance Tuesday.

The bull market signal was flashed along Wall Street as the closely followed Dow Jones average of 30 industrials broke through its previous record closing high with an 8.5-point advance to 713.94. The decisive penetration of the 705.96 peak set May 19 brought on a small flood of buying orders.

Other popular averages failed to follow Dow Jones' lead, however. The Associated Press average, which encompasses industrial, rail and utility issues, climbed 1.90 to 250.70. This left it within striking distance of the 252.60 high recorded May 17. Industrials rose 4.10, rails fell 0.40 and utilities were up 0.80.

Based on the rise in The AP average, an estimated $2.7 billion was added to the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

Du Pont jumped 6¾, Union Carbide rose 2¼, Eastman Kodak climbed 2⅛, GE rose 1⅞ and American Telephone was up 1¼.

All told, 657 of the 1,270 issues traded were higher and 401 were lower. New highs jumped to 60 and new lows totaled only 17.

By the close, 3.99 million shares changed hands, up notably from 3.17 million Monday.

An even dozen of the 16 most active issuesadvanced, three declined and Chrysler, Monday's leader, was unchanged.

American Stock Exchange prices were mostly higher on volume of 1.14 million shares compared with 1.2 million Monday.

U.S. government and corporate bonds were mixed.

Bond volume totaled $6 64 million par value compared with $5.44 million Monday.

As your charm grows, you never gossip yourself — and learn to stop others from gossiping, too.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Gossipers Beware!

Do you want to be talked about? If the talk is appreciative, of course there are times when you do. But to be gossiped about is something else again. You're asking for it if you indulge in gossip yourself.

Gossiping touches off a chain reaction. The word goes around, and your name is involved with the rest. Others have less conscience in what they say about you when they know you're careless about what you say about someone else. And a wary feeling toward you develops from fear of your gossiping tongue.

One of the finest compliments your charm can deserve is to have someone say of you, "I've never heard her say an unkind word about anybody." This goes far deeper than a mere tribute to a restrained tongue. It means that you have achieved the poise and confidence that brings them breadth of mind and generous attitude. It's the uncertain person who's petty, who gossips in the hope of raising self-esteem. Bigger people have bigger things to think about.

As your own charm grows, you learn to stop gossip. First of all, put in a kind word even if you must interrupt. One wise lady I know stops gossipers in their tracks with the remark — accompanied by a twinkle in her eye — "Why, she always speaks kindly of you!"

It's always possible to avoid listening to anything you don't want to hear without offending anyone. After the kind word, change the subject to something impersonal, and interesting enough to make the gossip seem unimportant. You're teaching the would-be gossiper a lesson, but you're so graceful about it that it's a lesson she's willing to learn.

County Plans To Renew Old Fire Escapes

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday decided to renew the fire escapes on the Cumberland Street building which houses the Welfare Board.

The board acted upon a recommendation by Jesse Jacobs, an inspector from the state fire marshal's office; John E. Trost, city fire inspector and George Scarlett of the city engineer's office. The men made an inspection of the building for the county board.

Jacobs said that the present fire escapes are in such bad condition they will have to be replaced with new ones. He cited the large number of personnel with the Welfare Board and the necessity for providing an exit in time of emergency.

Trost said that the county could also enclose the inner stairwells as a protective measure, but the new fire escapes would be the better of the two if cost is a factor.

The commissioners then inquired about installation of an elevator at Sylvan Rereat, as had been recommended by the last grand jury.

Jacobs said that an elevator would be an excellent device for transporting patients and materials at the institution, but in no case should ever be used in evacuating the building. He explained that in case of fire the electricity might go out and anyone on the elevator would be trapped between floors.

Some method could be worked out such as ramps if the county wanted to add to the safety factor with the fire escapes which are available, the fire inspector said.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our five-year-old son plays with a child in this block who is seven years old, and somewhat retarded. The little boy is gentle and pleasant but he speaks like a three-year-old and is slow in his reflexes.

My husband says we should not allow our son to play with this child because he will pick up slovenly speech habits and it may slow up his development.

I feel very sorry for this retarded youngster and I can't bring myself to keep our child away from him. He seems to understand this unfortunate lad better than the other children. My husband says we owe it to our son to do what is best for HIM. Thanks for any help you can offer. —L.L.D.

DEAR L.L.D.: If the retarded child is not violent or destructive your youngster will lose nothing from the association—he will gain from it.

Children should learn to get along with all types of people. It helps them to make a better adjustment and it gives them a truer picture of what the world is like. Playing with children who are different is healthy. In fact, the greater the variety of playmates, the better. A youngster who learns compassion and patience at the age of five is richly endowed for life.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Why are you so stubborn about letting people meet through your column? I could have made a go of it with any of the three men I wrote to you about—especially that man who signed himself Cal.

Now THERE was a man I could go for. He wanted a respectable, affectionate, church-going woman. Well, that's me. Especially since I have no church at the moment. I'd be willing to go to the church of his choice.

I've been married twice to men who didn't appreciate me, and once to a man I didn't appreciate, so I know the score. I've done my share of playing the field and now I'm ready to put all my eggs in one basket. How about Cal's address?

—THROUGH RUNNING

DEAR RUNNING: Please take one of those eggs, put it in your shoe and beat it.

Strangers can be dangerous and I want no part of match-making or friend-finding. This column never puts one reader in touch with another for any reason whatever.

You're a three-time loser and now you're ready to settle down. Well—now that's what I call a beautiful recommendation.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 11 years old, I think, but I am not sure, which is what I am writing to you about. My parents say I am 11 but I am bigger than most kids my age and I have the feeling that I am really older. Now I wonder if maybe I wasn't born a year or two before they were married.

I told my mother about my suspicion and asked to see my birth certificate. She acted highly insulted and refused to show it to me. Don't you think parents owe their kids proof of when they were born if they ask for it?

—IN DOUBT

DEAR DOUBT: Parents owe their children food, clothing, shelter, love and guidance. If you're short on any of these let me know.

Some kids shoot up faster than others, which is probably why you are bigger than your 11-year-old friends. Now get those silly ideas out of your head.

To learn the booby-traps of teen-age drinking, write for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Teen-age Drinking," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dowling Says Ditch Not Health Hazard

J. B. Dowling, supervising sanitarian for the County Health Department, wrote the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday concerning complaints about a drainage ditch on Main Street in Potomac Park.

The matter was referred to the board attorney, Leslie J. Clark, who will return next week from military training.

Two Drown On Farm Near Berlin

Firemen Find Bodies Of Wayne R. Fogle, Mrs. Noreen Watkins

Funeral services will be held today and tomorrow for two Somerset County (Pa.) swimmers whose bodies were recovered by volunteer firemen Monday in a water-filled strip mine on a farm four miles east of Berlin.

The victims were identified as Mrs. Noreen Watkins, 32, of RD 2, Berlin, and Wayne Roger Fogle, 26, of 1412 Brubaker Street, Berlin.

The couple, whose bodies were recovered from about eight feet of water shortly before 5 p.m. Monday, apparently had gone swimming in the pit in an open field on the farm of Mrs. Bertha Vought sometime Sunday.

An auto was seen Sunday afternoon parked along a road about there-quarters of a mile from the pit. When the car was still there Monday, the office of Sheriff Norman F. Walker was notified.

Fireman Finds Bodies

When authorities arrived at the pit and found clothing nearby, some 40 volunteer firemen from Berlin were summoned.

Because of jagged rocks beneath the surface, dragging operations were not employed and the bodies were discovered by a fireman lowered into the water by a rope.

Somerset County Coroner Robert Halverson estimated the bodies had been in the water about 24 hours. A slight cut over Fogle's left eye led police to theorize that he dived from a makeshift diving board and hit his head on a rock.

Mrs. Watkins bathing cap was found on the bank near the diving board, leading police to believe she had hurriedly gone to Fogle's assistance.

A British war bride, Mrs. Watkins had been living in a trailer on the property of her in-laws ever since her husband left her about a year ago, police said.

Abandoned Strip Mine

State Police claim the strip mine was abandoned. An official of a Somerset coal company denied the mine was abandoned. He said the area was test drilled last summer and that "we had the intention of working it sometime in the future."

Joseph Svonavec of the Svonavec Coal Company said the firm moved on to another location after test drilling and "I had no idea it had since filled with water."

A funeral service will be held for Mrs. Watkins at 2 p. m. today at the Johnson and Son Funeral Home in Berlin. Rev. Harold Seese will officiate and interment will be in the Brotherton Cemetery.

A native of England, she was born November 14, 1928, and was a daughter of William and Hilda (Dolman) Cliff. She was a member of the Church of the Brethren in Brothers Valley.

Besides her parents she is survived by her husband, Harry Watkins, two brothers, William and Roy Cliff, both of England.

Fogle Funeral Tomorrow

Mr. Fogle will be buried tomorrow afternoon in the Odd Fellows Cemetery in Berlin. A service will be held at the funeral home at 2 p. m. Rev. Edwin O. Wenck and Rev. Ralph Mills will officiate.

A native of Berlin, he was born on June 1, 1935 and was a son of Donald E. and Evelyn (Lytle) Fogle. Besides his parents he is survived by three brothers, Barry, David and Neil Fogle, all at home and a sister, Virginia in Washington, D. C.

News Staff Writer

The reason for the over-populated table is five Chinese children from the Chinatown section of New York City who are spending two weeks with the Steins.

The children arrived in Cumberland July 25 in connection with a project sponsored locally by the SS. Peter and Paul's Parent Teachers Association and the Herald-Tribune Fresh Air Fund in New York City.

In addition to the five "adopted" Chinese children, the Steins have four children of their own, ranging from 16 years to three months. Mr. Stein's mother, Mrs. Eva J. Stein, also resides with them.

Four of the "Fresh Air Kids" are sisters. Mary Lee, 13; Jessie Lee, 11, and Betty Lee, 10, spent a month last summer with the Steins, but this is the first trip away from home for Suzanne Lee, who will be six next month. The other visitor, Meivin Lim, 13, also was a visitor at the Stein home last summer.

What's it like to have the number of members in your household almost double overnight?

Mr. and Mrs. Stein said there were only some minor adjustments to be made in sleeping arrangements, but other than that it has been no problem at all.

The four Lee sisters and Linda Stein, 16, and Penny Stein, 14, all share the same room. This was accomplished by placing two double beds and a single bed in a row along a wall. Mrs. Stein said it's almost like a pajama party every night when the girls go to bed.

Melvin Lim and Bobby Stein, two, share a bedroom and Mr. and Mrs. Stein have the baby, Douglas, three months, in their room. The elder Mrs. Stein occupies the fourth bedroom.

Although the visiting children always eat Chinese food at home with chopsticks, Mrs. Stein said she has had very little trouble satisfying their appetites with American food.

There are some of our dishes the girls don't care for, Mrs. Stein said, but Melvin has a hearty appetite and will eat anything.

School Board Will Expedite Plans Tomorrow

A special meeting of the Allegany County Board of Education has been called by Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster for 3 p. m. tomorrow to expedite progress on two particular projects.

For one thing, the school board is expected to approve the awarding of the contract to the George Construction Company for construction of a six-room addition to Parkside Elementary School in LaVale. The George firm bid $134,933 for the job, lower than two other local contractors.

This job is not expected to be finished before next February, but could relieve overcrowded conditions for the second semester of the 1961-62 school year. This is the first project in the proposed $5,000,000 school construction program.

Second, the Board of Education is expected to be called upon to make a number of decisions designed to get the new community junior college in operation by early fall.

Dr. Robert S. Zimmer, who will become the first president of the new college, was in Cumberland yesterday conferring with Mr. Webster. He plans to remain here until about noon today. Dr. Zimmer is resigning as dean of the evening and extension division of Montgomery College in Montgomery County to take the job here. (Another college story on page 3).

Bids will be received by the school board until 3 p. m. Wednesday, August 9, for rewiring and relighting the community college building at 340 Frederick Street. The nine classrooms will be equipped with two rows of six fixtures each and the office and toilets will have two light fixtures each.

Party Set Tonight At Centre Street

City Surplus Approaches $39,000 Mark

Taxable Base Will Go Up $2,000,000

The City of Cumberland completed its fiscal year on June 30 with a surplus of $238,960.49.

The surplus, City Comptroller Arthur B. Gibson pointed out, is only $39.51 less than the $239,000 which was on hand to prime the 1960-61 budget.

In spite of a $2,000,000 increase in assessments, there are no indications that the city services can be extended during the coming year.

The extra $2,000,000 of assessments will bring in an additional $25,000 for city operating expenses, and help reduce debt service costs.

Wage Costs Up

The extra money will be more than offset by the necessity of setting aside funds in the upcoming budget for city planning and to provide for automatic wage increases in the merit pay plan adopted by the Mayor and Council last year.

The Mayor and Council are committed to provide $15,000 in the budget for the first year of a two-year planning program and the regular salary increases provided in the merit plan will cost more than $10,000.

Work on the upcoming budget is already under way.

The report on the Condition of the Levy on June 30, 1961, completed by Mr. Gibson yesterday, shows that collections on the levy totaled $2,046,542.66, or 107.7 per cent of the amount levied for city operations.

Excess collections boosted the total by $152,457.07 and helped to offset $5,844.41 of uncollected funds.

Tax Levy Over

A total of $1,324,115.61 was collected on the tax levy. This is 106.2 per cent of the $1,247,000 of ad valorem taxes included in last year's levy.

Collections on service charges for sewage treatment and the upkeep of sanitary sewers totaled $248,300.72, within $1,699.28 of the estimated income.

The plant was operated at a cost of $132,219.73, leaving $21,655.27 on hand as an unexpended balance. Debt service charges totaling $96,125 were met during the year.

The various departments of the city spent $1,569,262.67 during the year, or 94.4 per cent of the $1,661,610.50 set aside to meet operating costs.

This left an unexpended balance of $93,641.92, offset by overdrafts totaling $1,294.09 among four accounts.

Wife Admits Aiding Mate In Jailbreak Try

Mrs. Donna McKenzie, 19, of Lonaconing, yesterday admitted that she passed a hacksaw blade to her husband, who is a prisoner in Allegany County Jail, according to State's Attorney James S. Getty.

Mrs. McKenzie was questioned in the state's attorney's office and was released on her own recognizance after making a statement.

Mr. Getty said she was released because she is expecting a baby shortly, but she will be charged with attempted jailbreak.

A 14-year-old local boy also admitted smuggling saw blades into the jail and was ordered committed to the Maryland Training School for Boys following a hearing Monday in Juvenile Court.

Magistrate Cracks Down On 'Habituals'

Police Arrest 15 Persons

Fifteen persons, arrested within five hours Monday for loitering, being drunk or disturbing the peace, were given hearings yesterday afternoon in Police Court before Trial Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt.

Among them was George Maiers, of Valley Road, who was committed to six months in the Maryland House of Correction after being found guilty of assaulting a 14-year-old youth.

Others were told to get out of the city, were committed to terms in the Allegany County Jail or were put on the "work gang" in default of bond.

The magistrate said there had been frequent and recurring complaints about the increasing number of loiterers, drunks, panhandlers and idlers on Baltimore Street and in the downtown business areas. In a statement from the bench Mr. Weatherholt said:

"Some two years ago, when I first became a magistrate, I requested the Mayor and Council to provide such ordinances as are necessary to provide a 'work gang' for these idlers. At that time, police records showed about 39 names listed in this category. Continued enforcement and use of the work gang by the police magistrates reduced this number to about 12. Some of these plus a few new faces are giving rise to complaints again.

Praises Merchants' Efforts

"Cumberland is a good city and is proud of all its traditions. But times are bringing about changes," the magistrate observed.

"The impact of a local defense industry and other new industrial and business developments here are being felt. New people, some of them highly trained, high calibre citizens, are coming here to make their homes. Housing is scarce and becoming more hard to find each day. Traffic is heavier. The demands on the whole community, the police, the courts, the merchants, the service industries are all steadily increasing.

"The merchants in our downtown area are awake to these needs and changes. Already they have begun planning for still newer and greater developments. But all of their time and energy and investment will be for naught if we do not recognize the social evils and the undesirable influences upon all people, citizens and transients alike, by this constant accumulation of drunks.

Issues Warning

"As police magistrate, I have requested the Police Department to bring in on charges of loitering, vagrancy, drunkenness, etc. those residents and transients who persist in cluttering the streets, doorways of public places and business establishments, and generally making nuisances of themselves by annoying the whole community.

"As of now," the magistrate emphasized, "the police have had it, I have had it, and the whole community has had it.

"This latest episode of one of these habituals assaulting a 14-year-old boy and chasing him three or four blocks to beat him with a belt is enough.

'If the bums in this town know what is good for them, they will either become employable, working, productive citizens, or they will leave," he concluded.

Empty House Burns

Wiley Ford Volunteer Fire Company was called at 11 p. m. yesterday when a four-room frame house near the fire hall burst into flame.

The firemen were unable to save the house because the fire had gained a headstart before it was discovred. The house had been unoccupied for several months.

Blaze Extinguished

At 8:30 a.m. they got a call to Greene Street and Millman Place near the fire station where the emergency brakes of a van caught fire.

Immediate Active Duty Unlikely For State Reservists

FT. MEADE, Md. (AP) — Immediate calls to active duty appear unlikely for most Maryland reserve military units, a 2nd Army spokesman says.

The spokesman said most likely reserve units may find their annual training periods extended for as long as necessary to guarantee combat readiness.

However, until actual orders are issued by the Defense Department in the wake of authority given to summon a total of 250,000 reservists to active duty, the status of the Maryland units remains uncertain.

There are 18,000 ready reserve members in the state, and 10,000 other Marylanders are members of the standby reserve.

County Building Cost In July Tops For Year

$448,725 Last Month Biggest In 1961

The builder-estimated cost of construction authorized by the 53 building permits issued during July by James G. Stevenson, clerk to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, is $448,725, the largest monthly total so far in 1961.

Both May and June had more building permits issued for construction outside the limits of the seven incorporated communities of the county but neither could match the July total cost.

The July total is $100,485 above the $348,240 total of July 1960 when 54 permits were issued, one more than last month.

After seven months there have been 287 building permits issued in the county for construction estimated by the builders to cost a total of $1,811,267. In the first seven months of 1960, there were 244 permits, 43 fewer, and the total estimated cost of $1,711,020 was $100,247 below the level for this year.

17 Sections Involved

The 53 permits issued during the month which ended Monday authorized construction in 17 different election districts of the county. Election District 29, LaVale, the usual leader, was back in first place in July with 11 permits. LaVale had dropped to second place for June only.

Other election districts with more than one July building permit included District 6, West Side suburban, seven; District 16, North Branch, six; Districts 7, Cresaptown - Rawlings, and 31, McCoole, five each; District 22, East Side suburban, and 26, Frostburg suburban, two each.

Seven other districts had one permit each in July. Included were District 12, Frostburg suburban; 13, Mt. Savage; 15, Lonaconing suburban; 17, Vale Summit; 20, Ellerslie-Corriganville; 21, Gross, and 28, Frostburg suburban.

Incidentally, the only building permits issued in July for District 2 at Oldtown, where a number of residents have signed petitions opposing their inclusion in the county's proposed interim zoning ordinance, were for two summer cottages. District 33, Kifer, where residents signed similar petitions, had no July building permits.

33 New Dwellings

Thirty-three of the 53 July permits were for new dwellings. Six more were for additions to existing dwellings and another proposed remodeling a garage for a dwelling. Other July permits included four for garages, three for carports, two for summer cottages and one each for phone equipment building, laundry room, wash house and machine and tool shop.

The phone equipment building at Cresaptown, costing an estimated $75,000, was the most costly project among the 53 for July.

The monthly totals for 1961:

January, nine and $49,525; February, four and $27,000; March, 39 and $297,975; April, 49 and $267,650; May, 64 and $401,087; June, 69 and $319,305, and July, 53 and $448,725.

Monthly totals for 1960:

January, seven and $39,750; February, 13 and $46,525; March, 21 and $222,850; April, 51 and $304,200; May, 7 and $235,695; June, 51 and $513,760; July, 54 and $348,240.

SRC Requests Injunction On Route 40

Judge Harris Grants Temporary Order

The State Roads Commission yesterday filed an equity suit in Allegany County Circuit Court seeking an injunction to prohibit three couples living on the east side of Polish Mountain from interfering in any way with the workmen and agents of the contractor, S. J. Groves Construction Company, and the SRC in the construction of the new U. S. Route 40 in that area.

Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris signed a temporary order restraining the three couples from preventing workmen and agents of the contractor from going onto the lands of the defendants. The order also restrains the three couples from obstructing, interfering or otherwise harassing the workmen and agents in the proper execution of their work.

The defendants, Chester L. Robinette and Mary Robinette, his wife; Howard F. Robinette and Florence Robinette, his wife; and Harry O. Robinette and Bessie M. Robinette, his wife, all of Star Route, Flintstone, may move for dissolution of this restraining order upon two days notice. The order will expire August 10 unless further extended prior to that date for good cause.

The SRC's petition states that a temporary fence has been built by the agency on the right-of-way line to prevent cattle on the farm from wandering upon the right-of-way and becoming injured.

It goes on to state that it is necessary for workmen to make openings through the fence to move heavy equipment from one end of the land taken to the other. However, the defendants have told the workmen they cannot make temporary openings and have intimated there may be trouble if the fence is temporarily opened.

The petition states that it is essential and necessary for construction of the highway and in order to prevent delay to the contractor that the fence be opened temporarily. If construction is not continued without delay, irreparable injury to the State of Maryland will result, the petition asserts.

A condemnation proceeding for the land involved was filed against the Robinettes on April 28. The SRC deposited with Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Circuit Court, a check for $10,760, which the SRC deems a fair price for the property.

Yesterday's petition was filed in Circuit Court by Peter J. Carpenti and Matthew J. Mullaney as special attorneys for the SRC.

Serious Fire Averted At Burlington

Quick action by volunteer firemen of Burlington, W. Va., last evening averted what might have been a more serious fire to the property of Charles Blackburn in that community.

Defective wiring apparently was the source of a fire which caused damage to the Blackburn washroom located to the rear of the dwelling.

Volunteers of the community were assisted by firefighters of McCoole and Keyser although the blaze was under control when the out-of-town firemen arrived on the scene.

It was reported that a supply of bottled gas was located near the washroom, and firemen were concerned about the flames spreading to the gas supply and the dwelling.

Burlington firemen had planned to call for help from Romney, but the blaze was brought under control.

The fire broke out about 6:30 p.m. The Blackburn dwelling is located on a point across U.S. Route 50 from the Methodist Childrens Home.

W. W. Hanly Is Promoted

William W. Hanly Jr., a native of Cumberland, yesterday was named by the Koppers Company in Pittsburgh to head the new lumber section in its wood preserving division.

Mr. Hanly graduated from Allegany High School in 1927, and began his career in the wood preserving field in 1929 with the Maryland Wood Preserving Company, which later became a part of Koppers.

His father, W. W. Hanly Sr., was associated with the White Lumber Company while the family resided in Cumberland.

Clerk Injured

A 20-year-old LaVale youth was admitted to Memorial Hospital last night with injuries he received in a fracas in the parking lot of Albert's Super Market in LaVale.

Blume Says Politicians Alone Can't Solve Conservation Issues

BALTIMORE (AP) — David Hume, an announced candidate for Democratic nomination for governor, told a group of Maryland sportsmen Tuesday they can not leave conservation issues to politicians to solve.

"Individual responsibility of those interested in conservation demands that their attention be directed to these issues in the political field," Hume told a luncheon meeting of the Sportsmen's Club here.

"Let us recognize that if we do not care enough to examine the issues and fight for what we have, if we persist in the idea that somehow, sometime the government—municipal, state or federal—will make everything right, you leave your legislators in a position where surrender to some special interest is simply a question of time."

"If you would leave these (conservation) matters to the politicians," he said, "it is not necessarily fantasy if we look into the future and find that some issues will remain unsolved forever.

"If the thermo-nuclear bomb is dropped in a hundred years, some future archaeologist thousands of years hence, digging into the ashes of what was once the State House in Annapolis, may find the mummified remains of our legislators sitting at their desks with the charred remnants of the rockfish bill before them.

"Closer examination would reveal that a group identified as Eastern Shore delegates were pressing buttons labeled 'nay' and that another group identified as delegates from Baltimore City were pressing buttons labeled 'yea'."

Hume said the archaeologist would find that across the street in the Governor's Mansion "a cadaver later identified as the governor had written a note from the closet in which he was hiding to someone standing by a rather primitive telephone in which he asked: "Is it safe to come out, or are they still voting?' "

What is needed for a proper solution to such problems is factual information developed from research, and not political wrangling, Hume said. "So far we have fallen short," he added.
